RUSSIANS AND JAPS

Are Fighting Desperately On a Large Scale Now.

JAPANESE TAKE DA PASS

Opens the Road to Fushan East of Mukden and Tie Pass—Kurepatkin May Have to Retreat From His Position or the Shakhe River — Kuroki Reports Victory.

Russian Headquarters, Huan Mountain, Manchuria, Thursday, March 1.—The Japanese attack was renewed at dawn Monday along the whole eastern front, and Da Pass was taken after fighting of the most stubborn character. The capture of Da Pass opens the road to Fushan east of Mukden and the Pass, but the Russians are gathering a strong force to meet the threatened attack on their line of communications.

Kuropatkin to Retreat.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—The Associated Press hears from a high source that Gen. Kuropatkin contemplates the position on the Shakhe River to be untenable, and to a certain extent by Gen. Kuroki's success on the left flank as to necessitate the immediate withdrawal of his army to Tie Pass, and has so ordered Field Marshal Oyama.

No confirmation of this is obtainable in military circles here. It is pointed out that with the Japanese pressing the whole front there is no such an operation must almost inevitably end in disaster of the greatest magnitude.

It is semi-officially announced that in view of the appearance of Japanese in Fushan, and the fighting in progress west of the railway, Russia will address a note of Tsin Tsin Government protesting against Japan's violation of Chinese neutrality.

Russian Casualties 2,000.

Gen. Kuroki's Headquarters, Feb. 28.—Fighting on a large scale began yesterday, and is still going on. The principal activity since the defeat of their party in the Diet, and to the advantages of such a course.

The Premier displayed remarkable qualities as hill fighters and proved fully equal to the fine fighting quality of the Russians.

The people are now holding a strong line extending from southwest to northeast of Sentsiatun to the Taitse River, where, threatening the Russian flank. The Japanese have succeeded in occupying Tsinkhechen, where the Russians held strongly entrenched positions.

Fighting on a Large Scale.

London, March 1.—Fighting on a large scale began between the Russian and Japanese armies in Manchuria, Monday, when the latest moving the initiative of the Japanese in the direction of Mukden. The Japanese assumed the aggressive in the western section of the line, and after a heavy artillery fire from Puttlett Hill and Shushan Mountain, succeeded in forcing the Japanese from a position in the Shakhe River valley. It is understood that the Russians attacked the bridge on the Japanese centre. Meanwhile accounts are the Japanese operations against the Russian left flank, which appear to have been quickly checked, to oblige General Kuropatkin to abandon the position in the Shakhe River valley he has occupied and fortified during the winter. This is the first official report that the Russian Commander-in-Chief has admitted the danger that retreat northward has become imperative.

Japs Beaten Back.

Mukden, March 1.—Fighting was in progress yesterday along the whole line, and the Japanese delivered heavy attacks in the morning were beaten back with heavy losses. The Japanese made attacks at many places.

On the right wing the Russians occupied Bootstai, close to Sandiapu, and Gen. Kuroki's troops are advancing across the intervening ravine into the Russian positions, under a heavy fire, causing heavy loss and great disorder.

The Japanese have captured the end of the bridge across the Shakhe River at Sandiapu, but the Russians have repulsed by artillery firing of particular energy from Putloff Hill and Novgorod Hill. Another Japanese force opposite Tanshitang and west of Yentai, has been driven back by the Russians.

Russians Left 150 Dead.

Washington, March 1.—The Japanese Legation yesterday received the following official report: "Our detachment on Feb. 23 attacked the enemy at Sinpeng, 36 miles east of Penhsihu. The enemy occupied a strong line on nature of the ground and the melting ice of Lantsai river hindered our movements, but by noon our first line main-tained several redoubts in the enemy's position and deliver fierce attacks. The enemy, commanding over overwhelming with twenty guns, and holding strong positions with several rods of defensive works, offered stout resistance. At daybreak on the 27th we renewed the attack, followed by grenade fighting and charges with the bayonet, hand to hand on our hands. The enemy who routed completely, leaving on the field 150 dead. We captured, also, seven guns, a number of rifles and ammunition. The enemy's losses in the engagement to be considerable. No case of frostbite in our ranks."

A Play With a Strong Title.

Mr. Will Rourke, business agent for the "Hearts of Oak" Company, which will be at the Academy of Music next Tuesday night. March 7th, was in town Wednesday. KILLED WITH AN AXE

Fatal Martial Play By Boys in City of London.

CHARLIE BURRIDGE FELLED

Died After Nine Hours of Unconsciousness—George Fox Said "Come on!" When Axe Slipped From His Hand and Struck Down His Companion, Who Was Making Snowball.

London, March 1.—The neighborhood of Mr. Joseph T. Burridge's home, Riverview Avenue, London South, was the scene of a sad accident Monday evening, resulting in the death of Charles Burridge, a bright boy of 12 years, who received a fatal blow from an axe in the hands of a playmate named George Fox. Fox, a boy of the same age, Burridge, George Fox, Allison Lewis and Robert Watt—all good friends, were playing together after school. They built a small snow fort on the bank near the house. Burridge were pretending to have a fight, when George Fox, who was defending the fort, picked up an old axe and shouted to the attacking party to come on. Young Burridge was stooping down making a snowball, when the axe slipped from Fox's hand, striking Charlie a terrible blow on the head, the boy sinking to the ground in an unconscious condition. The other boys were filled with terror, and, strikingly Charlie a terrible blow on the head, the boy sinking to the ground in an unconscious condition. The other boys were filled with terror, and, strikingly Charlie a terrible blow on the head, the boy sinking to the ground in an unconscious condition. The other boys were filled with the terrible affair, his sister Monday night before the coroner's jury during a mass of contradictory and complete repudiation of his previous statements.

All yesterday he was an interested spectator of the proceedings, but he was not called upon again. He disagreed emphatically with several and had frequent suggestions to make to the coroner and the jury. Afterward, Feltz saw the humorous side of any serious charge, and laughingly smiled at things that appeared humorous to newspaper men. He did not appear surprised when taken into custody, and made no protestations.

Bail was taken before Squire Cox, who remanded him till next Tuesday, when the preliminary trial will be done then, as the probability is the lad will not be given bail. He is at least a week from Thursday before the preliminary trial will be in full swing.

Feltz was brought to this city last night in charge of two county constables, and was at once lodged in jail. He walked briskly from the train.

The body of the murdered man was brought out yesterday. Many of the residents of Aylmer and vicinity expressed his opinion that his mother would be better off in every way, saying that she was very feeble, and that the shock of the news would have been the last straw that would have broken the camel's back. Others, however, were of the

MRS. HARTSHORN, of Bay Shores at mine hurt you even a little. I have forgotten what they were and wish you would. The visit which Bert and you are making me is a most delightful break in the monotony of my life, and it shall be very glad to see you again. And then, maria," she added, "if I hurt you, please say you forgive me, for I must go out and see to getting tea."

The tea was a most substantial meal, like the first, except that now the shadows seemed to be transformed into a far more gracious hostess, and all her unsightly angularities seemed to be lavished upon Frank instead of her brother. It was as if this occult little lady had come to feel a new and surprising curiosity in all that concerned the life and movements of her visitor. With true feminine skill, she piled him with all manner of questions and affected the deepest interest in all he had to say. What were his sisters' names—home. Did they entertain much, play tennis, golf or ride? Where did they usually go summers, and did he generally go with them? His own evenings and goings and where he had been and what he was there were also made a part of the grist he was encouraged to grind. She even professed a keen interest in his yacht and listened patiently to a most elaborate description of that craft, although as a rowboat was the largest vessel she had ever set foot on it is likely she did not gain a very clear idea of the Gypsy.

"Your yacht has a very suggestive name," she said. "It makes one think of green woods and campfires. I should dearly love to take a sail in her, once and so much about yachts engaging that the idea of sailing along the shores in one's own floating house, as it were, has a fascination for me."

This expression of taste was so much in line with Frank's, and the idea of having this charming girl for a yachting companion so tempting that his face glowed.

"Nothing would give me greater pleasure," he responded, "than to have you for a guest on my boat, Miss Page. I think I could be managed if I had not only coax my mother and sisters to go, and you and your mother would join us. We would visit the Maine coast resorts and have no end of a good time."

"It's a delightful outing you suggest," she answered, "and I think you very much, but, I wouldn't think of coming if your family had to be coaxed to go, and then it's not likely that Bert could find the time."

"Oh, I didn't mean it that way," he said, looking serious, "only mother and the girls are afraid of the water, that is all."

When conversation lagged Frank began all he knew about sailing for them and suggested selections from Moody and Sankey, and despite her brother's sarcastic remark that it wasn't a revival meeting they were holding she not only played and sang all those time worn melodies, but a lot of others from older collections. When retiring time came Frank asked that she conclude with "Bon Bolt."

"I should need to recall that song to remind me of you," he said in a low voice as he opened the door for her to pass in front of her, "but I shall always feel its mood when I think of you."

"Does that mean that you will tinge of me as sleeping in a corner cupboard and silent as some churchyard?" she responded archly.

"By no means," he said, "only I may perhaps have a little of the same mood at times that Ben Bolt had when he heard of the fate of his sweet Alice."

It was a pretty speech, and Frank fancied she threw a little more than usual pathos into the song after it, but then no doubt his imagination was enhanced by his feelings.

When they stood on the platform the next morning awaiting the train he said quietly:

"May I send you a few books and some new songs when I get home, Miss Page? I want to show you how much I have enjoyed this visit."

"It is very nice of you to say so," she replied, "and I shall be glad to be remembered and hope you will visit us again."

When the train came in he rather hoped she would be asked to kiss him. "Permit me to thank you again" as he raised his hat turned away to gather up his grips and was given no witness to her leave taking from the hostess.

CHAPTER XIII.

IN summer Southport island, at the extreme end of the line of the outing travel, was a spot to inspire dreams, poetry and romance. Its one hotel, the Lone Inn, its many cores and inlets where the tides ebbed and flowed, its rocky coast and deserted rocks, its bold cliffs, sea washed, and above which the white gulls and the cormorants flew, its dense growth of spruce through which the ocean winds murmured and where great beds of ferns and clusters of red bunch berries grew were one and all left undisturbed by its quiet sway.

At the Cape, where Uncle Terry, Ann Lissy and Telly lived their simple home life, and Hasoom, the storekeeper and postmaster, talked unceasingly when he could find a listener, and Deacon Oaks wondered why "the grace of God hadn't been the head from status," no one ever came to disturb the tenor of their existence. Uncle Terry, often accompanied by Telly in a calico dress and sunbonnet, rowed out in his dory before breakfast, and the dinner harnessed and drove to the head of the island to meet the mail boat; then at eventide, after lighting his pipe and the lighthouse lamp at about the same time, generally strolled over to Bascom's to have a chat, while Telly made a call on the "Widder Leach," a misanthropic but pious protegee of hers, and Aunt Lissy read the paper.

Once in about three weeks, according to weather, the monotony of the village was disturbed by the arrival of a small schooner owned jointly by Uncle Terry, Oaks and Bascom, and which plied between the Cape and Boston. Once in two weeks services were held, as usual, in the little country church, and at which the lighthouse tender called and left coal and oil for Uncle Terry. Regularly on Thursday evenings the few ploughly inclined, led by Deacon Oaks, would gather at the church and hymns they reputed fifty-two times each year, and which by dint of long practice they varied in a single sentence, and hearty Aunts Leach thank the Lord for his many mercies; though what they were in her case it would be hard to say, for she lived a lonely life all alone and work hard to live at all was a mercy. The scattered islanders and the handful whose dwellings clung to the Cape worked hard, lived frugally and were more conscious than they would them was a rocky shore whose cliffs and deep entrances were so many poems of picturesque and charming scenery.

This was Southport in summer, but in winter, when the little harbor at the Cape was icebound, the whole road to the head of the island buried beneath drifts and the people often for weeks at a time absolutely cut off from communication with the rest of the world, it was a place given over to its desolation. Like so many woodchucks during the residents sat within doors or only stirred out to cut wood, fodder the stock and shovel paths so that the children could go to school. The days were short and the evenings long, and to get together and spend hours in labored conversation the only pastime. It was one of those long evenings and when Aunt Lissy and Telly were at a neighbor's and Uncle Terry, left to himself, was reading every line, including the advertisements, in the last Journal, that the following met his eye:

WANTED—Information that will lead to the discovery of her by the name of one Eric Peterson, a landowner and ship builder, formerly of Sweden, with son, with his wife, child and crew, was known to have been wrecked on the coast of Maine in March, 1876. Nothing has ever been heard of said Peterson or his wife, but the child may have been saved. Any one having information that will lead to the discovery of this child will be amply rewarded by communicating with NICHOLAS FRYE, Attorney at Law, — Pemberton Square, Boston.

"Waal, I'll be everlastin'ly gol darned!" Uncle Terry exclaimed after he had read it for the third time. "If this don't beat all natur I'm a goat!"

It was fortunate he was alone, for it gave him time to think the matter over, and after half an hour of astonishment he decided to say nothing to his wife or Telly.

"I'll jist breathe easy an' sag up," he said to himself, "some as though I was crossin' this ice, an' if anythin' comes out nobody'll be the worse for worryin'."

Then he cut the slip out and hid it in his black leather wallet, and then cut out the entire page and burned it.

"Wimmin are sich curis creeters they'd be aure to want to know what I'd cut out o' that page," he said to himself, "an' never rest till I told 'em."

When Aunt Lissy and Telly came home Uncle Terry was as cognizant as a sick and sat quietly puffing his pipe, with his feet on top of a chair and reading toward the fire.

"Were you lonesome, father?" asked Telly, who usually led conversation in the furry home. "We stopped at Hasoom's, and you know he never stops talking."

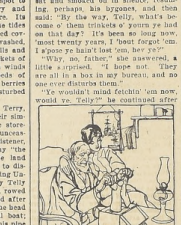
"He's worse'n burdock burs fer git'n' away from," observed Uncle Terry, "an' ye can't be perlite ter him unless ye want t' spend the rest o' yer life a-listenin'. His longest sides seem ter be hung in the middle an' wag both ways. I wasn't lonesome at all, jist read, rested, and adding a few sticks o' pine fire as the two women had laid their wraps and drew chairs up. "I've read the paper purty well through an had a spell o' fitful over hypnotism," he then, turning to Telly and smiling, he added, "I got thinkin' o' the day you came ashore, an' mother she got that excited she sot the hot yer was in on the stove an' then put more wood in. It's a wonder she didn't put ye in the stove instead o' the wood."

As this joke was not new to the listeners no notice was taken of it, and the three lapsed into silence.

Outside the steel boom of the surf beating on the rocks was the only monotonous regularity, and inside the clock ticked. For a time then Uncle Terry sat and smoked on in silence, resuming, perhaps, his hypnotic, and then said: "By the way, Telly, what's become o' them trinkets o' yourn ye had on that day? It's been so long since the most twenty years, I 'bout forgot 'em. I s'pose ye hain't lost 'em, her ye?"

"Why, no, father, I've been saving them, I'll be a spoiled. "I hope not. They are all in a box in my bureau and in one ever disturbs them."

"Ye wouldn't mind feichin' 'em now, would ye, Telly?" he continued after



She watched him take out the contents, drawing a long whiff of smoke and only exhaling it in rings. "It's been so many years, an' since I got thinkin' 'bout it I'd like to take a look at 'em jest to remind me o' that fortunate day ye came to us."

Telly did not mind, going upstairs returned with a small tin box shaped like a trunk and drawing the table up in front of Uncle Terry, set the box down upon it. As he opened it she got herself on the arm of his chair and, leaning against his shoulder, passed out the contents, seemingly interested as he and watched him take out the contents.

First came a soft, fleecy blanket, then two little garments, once whitest muslin, but now yellow with age, and then another smaller one of flannel. Then to this were two tiny shoes of knitted wool, in the bottom of the box was a small woolen shoe, and though clumsy in comparison, yet evidently fashioned to fit a lady's foot. Tucked in this was a little box tied with faded ribbon, and in it were three locks of child's hair, one ringe and a scrap of paper. The writing on the paper, once boldly executed by a despairing mothers' hand, had almost faded, and inside the locket were two daguerreotypes, one of a woman, marked features, the other girlish with a pleasant face.

These were all the heritage of this waif of the sea who now, a fair girl with eyes and face like the woman's picture, was leaning on the shoulder of her foster father, gazing with a pathetic tale of life and death, of romance and mystery not yet unravelled.

How many times that simple gift had imagined what that tale might be, how often before she had examined every one of these mute tokens, how many times gazed with mute eyes at the faces in the locket; and how, as the years bearing her onward toward womanhood, she had felt the longing and waited, hoping ever that some word

EDITORIAL NOTES

When a father acknowledges that a boy of five years is incorrigible and turns him into the street because he can do nothing with him, it is a confession of the most disgusting and exasperating unfitness of paternity, says the Philadelphia Record. That is true. Such fathers ought to be rigorously dealt with, and if the State must assume the care of their offspring they ought to be made to bear the cost.

Hamilton Times: Why should Canadians go abroad for Sunday School literature and thus fill the little boys and girls with sentiments more un-Canadian? There are now being established in some of our Hamilton Sunday schools papers printed in the plain and devoted largely to Canadian affairs. And why not the questionable taste of that sort of reading for Sunday School pupils? It ought surely to be possible to get literature that breathes British-Canadianism and is made in Canada. Sunday School officers give us the matter a thought?

Winnipeg Free Press: There will be, we trust, no serious agitation over the new school question which Premier Roblin has in Toronto been trying to bring into existence. The last one, although it had good reason for its existence, kept the country in a turmoil for six years to the great detriment of business, and the good sense of the public can be relied upon, we think, to see that the purely artificial agitation now beginning does not go very far. The legislation now before parliament simply continues the educational conditions which have been in existence in the Territories for thirty years to the apparent satisfaction of the people of the Territories. Presumably this provision is in the Autonomy Bill with the consent of the representatives of the Territories. In the discussions in the Territorial Assembly and elsewhere during late years we do not recall that a single demand was ever made that the provision of the new Provinces the educational law of the Territories should be altered. If the people of the Territories are content, as they appear to be, the Ontario people hardly would do well to mind their own business.

THE TORIES AND TEMPERANCE.

One brief clause of the report submitted at the Royal Templars temperance convention in Toronto on the other day will cause a broad smile to overspread the countenances of the citizens of Lindsay and of every town and village in Ontario who voted for the Whitney candidates because they knew the local hotelkeepers were for him, and that as a close corporation the latter are in a big majority. Said the report:

"Hold repentive ready to vote for principle, rather than for party," the report said in part, "and in this connection we expect a considerable increase in the temperance vote at election, and a thorough enforcement of present laws, and the enforcement of such as may be passed through local option. Mr. Whitney has had a great opportunity to frame temperance legislation for the benefit of the Province, . . . Nonsense! Talk about the pharisees answer again and again that Jesus Christ was not a prohibitionist in the temperance people, and that because sound only by his declaration in favor of

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1905.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There is nothing heavy now about the field for the Toronto Exhibition. The cash of $160,000,000 of capital to take up the $16,000,000 bonds of the A.-C. may indicate any lack of confidence in the enterprise.

Hon. Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, on Wednesday tendered his resignation as a member of the Laurier Cabinet because he regards the clause of the autonomy bills as establishing a system of education in the Northwest beyond that which at present exists.

The Dominion Alliance wants Premier Whitney to do away with the bars and hot scotch and other things objectionable to them. Of course Bliss is one of our good and goody beats, the liquor men had that in view when they contributed their thousands to the Tory campaign fund.

Bob. Independent. Poor little Manitoba. Have you seen how she looks on the map, compared with the two other provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Looks like a bit of buffalo meat on a sideplate. They certainly are more than an even match for Bob. in the rinks at a time without getting the use of Saskatchewan's back yard.

There is a talk of another large body of Russian Jews coming to Canada this year, which prompts the Toronto Star to sound the following warning:

Before these 200,000 Shintoists come from Japan we should sound them on the question of wearing clothes and going on pilgrimages when they ought to be doing other full-time work.

At our Canadian $9.85 1-2 per capita for imported yarn, let us think your share of that, or did somebody else get more than his share? Or was it that the United States got $24.75 worth each, and the Britons nothing at all? Let us have his share. But of course all the spirits and was not drunk; much is consumed in the arts, sciences and manufactures.

Weekly Sun: "The notion that the farmer is a hide-bound partizan and a half-witted creature who can be confined to the cities will not bear examination. Our largest centre of population is Toronto. Here conditions has its independent thinking resulted in the election of a Liberal. The strength of conservative will all, but that in seventy-five years the Liberal party must occasionally have been strong at support, yet you could almost count on your fingers the number of Liberals who have been elected to that town in the city of Toronto."

Mr. Whitney defined the other day that he does not have the recommending of Senators and commissioners most considered that the matter of such men is one of sufficient guarantees that the law will be enforced irrespective of politics. This would appear to make the leading Conservative party workers ineligible. It was the leading Liberal party workers in the Ross Government appointed to these positions and not a solid vote for the enforcement of the interests of the party. Filling the places of these men with only whose equally devoted to the welfare of the Conservative party will not be considered the sufficient guarantee Mr. Whitney indicates upon which Government.

Just keep your eye on the show and note who are made commissioners. Then pronounce judgment till you hear the case.

"MUST STOP!" SAYS MAYOR

REFERRING TO SOME OBJECTIONABLE CHARITY GRANTS.

Complaint re Visiting Optician—Tax Collector to be Called to Time.

A meeting of Council committees was held Tuesday night in the Clerk's office, Ald. R. Robinson being the only absentee. Business was taken up about 7.45.

Police and Lighting Matters.

Ald. Robson, chairman, presented the account of the L. H. & P. Co., for the removal of a pole on King-st. east ward, to another position. The alleged cost of $32.00, which sum, in the opinion of several of the members here, seemed sufficient to cover the removal of half a mile of poles. The item was referred back to committee, with instructions to invite Manager Reesor to attend at next meeting and offer explanations.

An allowance for lights out set all the arithmeticians of the Council chamber to figuring, and it was discovered that the cost of each arc lamp per night of ten hours was about 25c.

To Protect our Optimus.

Ald. O'Reilly said a complaint had been made to him that the chief of police had the name of a dealer from Peterboro, who visits Lindsay at intervals to sell spectacles and optical goods, as not to be found on the assessment roll, nor on the Pensioners' list, nor in Wilfrid's sanctum. The local opticians, being heavy taxpayers, should be protected against outsiders. The chief was asked to look pay, as thus is a position to understand, etc.

Mayor Ray—Your ground is well taken, Ald. O'Reilly.

Ald. Robson, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, said the Town Solicitor of possessing the action to be taken.

Other Business.

The chairman of the respective committees then presented the accounts, some of which were recommended for payment and others were referred back for further light. Tenders had been attached. Business men who send in tenders are not in the habit of and in consequence for goods obtained, it is of course calculated to carry the good, and the Council is not in that habit. The practise is most unbusinesslike, especially in view of the fact that no one appears early in December of every year calling on all parties to forward all tenders for goods to be may be incorporated in the annual contingent. It is only by such a step the Council that incurred the bill is to be avoided, and the practise is vague for the correctness of the item, and occasionally it is no exception that the account has been held back with the tenders.

When the report of the ward committee in relation to the need and a number of half-tons of fuel were found credited to a certain south ward man. Mayor Ray made a vigorous remark. "This's got to stop right here and now," he said, and that which he refused an offer of $800 per month for the use of the Bell 'phone was authorized to mention the case to the next city meeting for the management of the Home for the Aged.

Auditor Ralgnon's report was received, and $1,000 was authorized to pay $200 accounts, the balance of the usual of receipts and expenditures printed in pamphlet form for distribution.

Mayor Ray—Mr. Treasurer, how much is the money coming in? How much has been collected during February?

Mr. Knowlan—"Pretty well, I should say, Mayor," or words to that.

Mayor Ray—Do you think that a $10,000 cash on hand is a large amount, as there not?

Ald. O'Reilly—Ten thousand reflects on the Auditor Ingleton's report is caused by Councils allowing the collector to take new rolls before he has closed up and returned the old one. All this should be left to the Treasurer's hands by Dec. 15th, and Council will not be called on to extend the time."

Mayor Ray—The amount unpaid at the present time is about $7,000, and the collector has asked for Collector McWhigters there was about $10,000 out.

It was agreed that the collector be informed that the taxes must be collected by December.

Mr. F. G. Pilkins request, that he be paid the sum of $200 paid back on sewers built by him was deferred to the Board of Works.

Council then adjourned about 9.30.

A Correction.

In our report of Monday night's Sunday school entertainment we overlooked the solo sung by little Mary Cowan, which was rendered in a manner that did credit to her and was one of the best numbers on the programme and well deserved the hearty applause given.

HON. MR. SIFTON RESIGNS.

Dissatisfied With the Northwest Autonomy Bills.

THE SCHOOL LANDS FUNDS

The Minister Objects to Their Diversion to the Support of Separate Schools —A Long Conference With Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Premier Looked Serious, But Mr. Sifton Jocular.

Ottawa, March 1.—The resignation of Hon. Clifford Sifton will be in the Premier's hands to-day, if indeed it is not already there. That is the direction in which matters were shaping last night. The reason for Mr. Sifton's action is that he is dissatisfied with the education clause in the autonomy bills.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when seen at 6 o'clock, would neither affirm nor deny the report. "If Mr. Sifton had resigned I should have to make a statement to the House," was all the Prime Minister would say.

Charged With Electricity.

The air in the House of Commons all yesterday afternoon was charged with electricity. In some manner the report that Mr. Sifton was resigning got abroad, and it spread like wildfire. The fact that Mr. Sifton had had a long conference with the Premier and the Minister of the Interior went off to confirm it. Had a prolonged conference in the former's room seemed to give color to the report. The conference between Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Sifton was interrupted by a division in the House, but immediately after the vote had been taken the Premier motioned to his colleague, and the two went back once more to Sir Wilfrid's sanctum. They emerged again about 5.30, and then it was seen that Sir Wilfrid wore a serious expression of countenance. On the other hand, on Mr. Sifton's face was to be seen an air of gaiety, almost of gaiety. Any stranger in the House did not seem to be forced. His face was a picture of Mr. Edward Cochrane's mock heroics on the franking question, as to the Premier's countenance, and wrote a merry ogle of some kind and sent it over to Hon. John Haggart. The latter opened the message dubiously, but laughed when he saw the joke on the sheet of paper confained. Mr. Sifton's good humor seemed to be such a two that Mr. Haggart dared in a man who had crossed the House, who was no longer labouring under suspense. He had finally made up his mind to pursue a definite line of action.

Government Supporters Stirred.

While the conferences between the Prime Minister and the federal representative from the west were in progress much unrest was manifested by the supporters of the Government, especially those from the west. It was quite confidential talk was impossible in the lobbies, where they grouped themselves in the knots of two and three. Nobody could afford any definite information to support the current report, but all agreed that there was something in the air.

Objects to Diversion of Funds.

The main return from Indiana Mr. Sifton has been giving careful consideration to the educational clauses of the two autonomy bills. He is said to have been startled by the view entertained by some that the clauses contained more than is now enjoyed by the minority in the Territories, also by the contention that to grant funds arising from the sale of school lands to Separate Schools was to go an important extension of money raised for Public Schools. Mr. Sifton remains silent, and does not say whether he has made merely the form of the clause or to the clause itself, in toto.

The Premier's View.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has always held positively the view that the clause providing merely for a continuance of the modified form of Separate Schools which now exist. If the language is ambiguous and is open to a broader interpretation it can be amended in committee. So far as regards the sub-section in the autonomy bills, providing for an equitable distribution of the school fund established by the Dominion Lands Act, the friends of Sir Wilfrid Laurier think there is no important diversion, in fact no diversion at all, that the school fund is for educational purposes, and that it comprehends the form of Separate Schools now in use in the Territories, as well as Public Schools.

There was considerable suppressed excitement in the lobbies last night, and everybody is looking for developments. Then there will be some of an interesting character to-day seems to be taken for granted.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Certain M. P.'s Accused of Abusing Their Privileges.

Ottawa, March 1.—Concrete examples of the abuse of the franking privilege furnished a basis for a warm discussion in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. It was shown that a Montreal dental supply house was using a government stamp for franking its advertising circulars free of charge. The Postmaster-General, thereupon, with the approval of the House, decided to refuse to recognize such frank hereafter he written, and that stamps will not be recognized. Then each side accused the other of violating the franking privilege in sending out political literature between nominations. An interesting development of the debate was the fact that large quantities of literature had been sent out last year by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association with the frank of Mr. George Taylor, the then secretary, while Mr. Taylor tried hard to justify that by saying that the literature was an appeal for support for national interests, the Government members themselves trying to aid, though under the guise of two trade.

A number of Government bills were given their second reading, the supplementary estimates of about $400,000 were passed.

Student Strike Ends.

ARREST OF HER SON

SKULL CRUSHED BY AX BLOW

Man Told Neighbors Two Stories of His Mother's Death—Some Tell Tale Blood Marks Not in Accordance With One of His Accounts—May Be Epileptic Crime.

Brantford, Feb. 24.—County Constable Montgomery left Brantford Thursday night with a warrant for the arrest of Felix Doyle for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Doyle, whose body lay dead at Burford yesterday, but appeared the enquiry until Monday night. There is no doubt that the aged woman was deliberately done to death by an ax. While there is an utter absence of motive known, yet Doyle is said to be of that state of simple mindedness which renders such a crime on his part more than probable. He has lived all his life with his mother, of whom he appears to be subject to fits, a sort of irresistible outbreak resulting from overindulgence in morbid meditation and brooding, and when Doyle is about 40 years of age. The murdered woman was 70 years of age, married, 80. They have lived for years in a small one-story frame house.

Doyle's Story.

Doyle claims that he was awakened early Thursday morning by what he thought were the most terrific disturbances among his horses.

"After lighting the lamp," he says, "I noticed the door leading out to the unfenced portion, as well as the outside door leading into the yard. Lying on the floor, in the middle, with her head slightly turned, I found my mother, lying in a pool of blood from two heavy wounds on the back of her head. She was dead, and I knew it, and not know me. She was unconscious. I quickly picked her up and carried her into her bedroom, and placed her on the bed."

He tried to do the best I could myself. I thought perhaps she had just fallen, as she was quite old, and thought she would likely be all right in a few minutes. I washed her head, which was bleeding terribly, but she got no better. About 6 o'clock I went for Mrs. Elvidge's house to get help, but could not get any one, and, on going home, she was dead."

Moved in Bed Clothes?

In the woodshed, a cane used by the woman was found with blood upon it. There were a few spatters of blood elsewhere. Between the shed and the house portions of the skull and brain of the bedding is saturated, and blood is scattered over the floor, and the walls are red with blood.

Thirty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Doyle kept a hotel here. After separating from her husband Mrs. Doyle lived alone again assumed the name of Doyle.

Neighbors say that Margaret has given two versions of the affair. Felix seems to genuinely feel his mother's death.

Th-Rival Clergue Company.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 28.—The great Clergue enterprise, the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, is about to have a rival. The Edison Sault Electric Company will put up a big power plant on St. Mary's River, similar to the rocks. It will expend $120,000 during the present season, and the company is to have a capacity of nearly 2,000 horse power. Engineer Purdy, of Detroit, with several Wall Street capitalists, is here, and it is said that it is the intention to ultimately use every bit of power in the St. Mary's River, amounting to about half a million horse power or more.

Boring Parties Meet.

Gondo, Switzerland, Feb. 25.—Pierce of the Simplon Tunnel through the Alps was completed at 7.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The event was commemoned in 1898. The meeting of the two boring parties (Italian and Italian) was signalled throughout Switzerland by ringing of bells and firing of salutes by cannon. The length of the tunnel is about two miles, and the Swiss and the Italian Governments were jointly bored since the undertaking at a cost of $15,-000,000.

Turkish Troops Mutiny.

Constantinople, Feb. 25.—A battalion of the Turkish troops on their way through the Albanian mountains on the way to reinforce the garrison of Yemen, Arabia, mutinied at Ipek, and Shah-steamer Epiros, seized and imprisoned the officers, and compelled the commander to put back to Sues. The mutineers declared that they had sent back to their homes.

Horses Burned to Death.

Winnipeg, Feb. 28.—Fire in which nine horses lost their lives, occurred on Thursday night in the stables of Mr. Mes. Mr. Berger is a stock dealer, and had quite a stock of horses on hand, some from the burning building, nine perished in the flames. They were valued at $50 to $200 each.

Mormon Defaulter in Danger.

Washington, Feb. 25—U. S. Minister Dawson, at Copenhagen, yesterday cabled the State Department that an attempt was made Thursday night to assassinate President Morsiter, that three of the conspirators were captured, and that the remainder escaped.

Committed for Trial.

Winnipeg, Feb. 28.—Edmonton yesterday the preliminary trial of Charles Rice and Thomas Kelly for the Rob prospector named Hayward, was ended. King was committed to trial for murder.

Parent Goes to Montreal.

Quebec, Feb. 28.—Lieutenant-Governor Jette and Premier Parent left for Montreal yesterday afternoon. It is said the latter is to seek medical advice for rheumatism in the metropolis.

Young Corbett Out of It.

San Francisco, Feb. 28.—The Battling Nelson of Chicago and Young Corbett, ex-champion featherweight of the world, met for the second time at Woodward's Pavilion last night in a contest to determine which of the two shall meet Champion Britt in a return match. Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons witnessed the spectacle. Nelson had a decided advantage throughout, and at the fighting game, when he practically knocked Corbett out in the middle of the ninth round. In order to save their man a count Corbett deliberately threw up the sponge.

Father—Now, look here! If you marry that young parson how on earth are you going to live? On love, dear—No, we have worked that all out. You remember that hen Aunt Jane gave me? Well, we've been realising a poultry circular, and I find a good hen will lay on an average twenty chicks in a season. Well, the next season that will be twenty hens, and the next season that will be twenty more chicks, that will be 60; then the next season that will be 120; the following year 240, and the next year 480. Don't you think? At only a shilling each we could have over £20 worth of eggs. Bless our father, we'll hold you under by way of the mortgage on the house.

Wanton Profanity Increasing.

Mr. Geo. Shakleton, who is a Japan missionary colporteur has a spirited protest in the press against the use of profane language by what he speaks, "what are the police doing to suppress this wanton abomination which is fast becoming widespread in young and old, a blot upon our civilization, education and Christian profession. Look at the streets unscathed, for the abounding mercies of the great Creator. Right and left, the blasphemy of this vice is very noticeable—school boys and their elders. Even in the class rooms, make use of shocking language. It is painful to hear and greet the sun daily and nightly on the streets, yet we have no knowledge of a conviction for street blasphemy or profanity on a charge laid by our police. This offence alone is not sufficient to ensure punishment, hence our laws are being continually

Closed His Engagement.

Dr. Montgomery, the Toronto expert, who has been delivering a course of lectures to the public, closed his engagement Tuesday. He is without a doubt the most popular lecturer that ever visited Lindsay. The public in general are loud in his praise as he has done indeed a wonderful work here. Mr. Hughes says: "As an optician I have had the pleasure to be at the head of his profession. Mr. C. Hughes, local druggist, says: "I have the best compliment to bestow upon the lecturer when I say that he is a gentleman, and we heartily wish him success in the launch of his business from that source.

New and Promising Industry

J. M. Chapman, who is encouraged by the success of his ventures in manufacturing cement blocks has secured a new building purpose, and intends to engage extensively this coming spring and summer in the casting of cement window sills, mantels, chimneys, etc., for builders. He will also manufacture cement tile in addition to the above. He has secured a large building here and some large proportions in the near future owing to Lindsay's advantageous position as a shipping point for cement, gravel, lime, etc., and the coming into general use in the construction of cement work. Mr. Chapman's factory will be located on a C. P. R. siding in rear of his William-st residence.

Old Timers Will Exchange Reminiscences.

Wesleyan Free Press: Among the delicacies (save the mark) which Judge Dugas has provided for the Bench and Bar banquet next week, will be pemmican. Not the modern product which has been put up under that name, but that name, but the real old-fashioned goods, which has proved itself strong enough to sustain the lives and the voyages of time and after a period of thirty or more years. Pemmican, for the uninitiated, is a big man down and out. It is real buffalo pemmican, which has been kept for years in the cellar of the palace reamed the west. In a letter to the judge about the Free Press reporter was not unlike all else; for he had not tasted the delicacy, nor had his knowledge of it been got at first hand. Pemmican, he informs the editor, is made with suet in it, may be tampered, and after tampering with it the writer is constrained to admit that there was a well-nourished future in the dish. In consequence of the buffalos a genus old fashioned, he said, nothing but more pemmican could ever be made from that source.

Health of Canadian Women

A Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Miss Helena Mc Kinnon. Mrs. Anna McKay

At a large State Assembly of Mothers a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy Canadian women are as rare as fat snakes almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of Canadian women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling indicative of irregular menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacements of the uterus, ovarian trouble, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more Canadian women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of these complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing:

Mrs. Anna McKay of 326 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

Being a mother of five children, I had had experience with the general debility they see. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that time I had all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, that female weakness and serious inflammation and ulceration soon followed. I became very ill, but kept on my feet, dragging through my household duties. I had heard of Mrs. Pinkham, her who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

so much better that I kept on the treatment and it made me a strong and well woman. For the benefit I spent for the medicine I did not begin to pay what it was worth to me.—Mrs. Helena McKinnon of Sand Bay, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the best medicine in the world for a woman sick and weak from exhaustion, nervousness and weariness. I have had from personal experience and it is all that I can say in its favor. I would be glad to tell any one that is in distress of my case. I suffered from irregular and suppressed menstruation and from dizziness, and was troubled a great deal with female difficulty, in fact all who knew used to have nothing but sympathy for my inefficacy. Please accept a grateful woman's thanks for all the benefit I received in my case."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, kidney complaint, dizziness, faintness, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and all the charms of grace and beauty of perfected health and strength of perfect bodily organs.

Remember, you cannot look well when you feel sick.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. For many years she has been advising sick women, and her advice has restored thousands to health. Surely no lady of this land can afford to ignore this generous offer of assistance.

COLLEGIATE SOCIAL EVENING.

GOOD PROGRAM LED UP TO APPETIZING REFRESHMENTS.

Young Ladies Surprised Next Day—Presentation to Miss Wilson, B.A.

The "Social Evening" given by the Literary Society, of the C.I., on Friday evening, was a decided success. In spite of the inclemency of the weather, over 200 in a few minutes of 8 o'clock filled the handsomely decorated Assembly Hall was filled.

On the programme for the evening, in addition to ten promptu numbers, were the following numbers: Presidents Address, Mr. J. W. Deyell; Mandolin Solo, Mr. W. Armstrong; Reading, Miss Ethel Cranswick; Solo, Miss H. Workman; Duettin, Miss Bell and Mr. Emmerson. The accompanists for the programme were Miss Mary Mackin, Rose, Carnew, Orkney, Emmerson Bond and Stewart.

The members of the programme were themselves worth coming through the storm to hear, and combined with the promptu, the success of the evening's entertainment could have been assured. But when there is added such word of music as "Refreshments," the scene of perfection is complete. Courtwright has been reached. And they were all there—those to whom music has charms, others who were there to see the opportunities for social intercourse not forgetting the inner man to whom the refreshment room was a special haunt. Then they were not disappointed.

To Mr. and Mrs. Rosevear, who as host and hostess are hearty, well-versed in who could do the honors of all those present, such a social evening was impossible. Mr. Rosevear and Miss Harstone, owner and caretaker of a school, are dear to them. It is needless to add that with a cooking was carried out. Previously Mr. Rosevear making an auspicious help on behalf of the society for the year and himself. The singing of the national anthem brought to a pleasant evening to a close.

If a good time was not had on all on Friday night an equally good time was indulged in by about a score of the students who assembled at the school next night to bid Miss Wilson farewell for the purpose of showing what they spoke of as a "send-off" party. She boys were ministers into mysteries of fishwalking and the like, and while their aid—at least they thought it was their aid—was not wanted soon put back in proper shape. All except a few of the boys who betook themselves to the Assembly Hall, where some excellent music was rendered. In the meantime the boys who had remained behind took the liberty of spreading the table and setting out on the goodly supply of cakes and sandwiches.

Later word them by word down to partake of the banquet, which was served as soon as the boys could manage to get over the fence. By all were satisfied Mr. J. W. Deyell, the worthy President of the Literary Society, rose and in a brief speech tendered Miss Wilson the committee and all those who had aided him in making the evening a success. "Although everyone had done his or her share, he thought special notice should be taken of the untiring energy and courtesy of Secretary Miss A. Wilson, B.A., had fulfilled the duties of the work in connection with the social evening. In appreciation of this fact it gave him great pleasure to present to her on behalf of the Miss Mackin's first fruit of her efforts. Mr. Wilson made a creditable reply.

Some Insect Enemies of Man.

During the last half-dozen years or so the efforts of a great many people towards house flies and mosquitoes, two of the enemies of man, have undergone a marked change. Thanks to the researches of scientific men, it has been made plain to the public that flies are largely to blame for their filth and disease transmitting tendencies, and that mosquitoes are responsible in the spread of typhoid fever and cholera, as well as annoying to favor mankind as and yellow fever. In a recent lecture given by Mr. J. C. Simpson, demonstrator in Zoology, McGill University, Montreal, he pointed out that, although much care has been taken to destroy these pests, including out the mosquitos, too little is given to the knowledge of some of their habits. Their multiplication in hotel, restaurant or private dwelling is largely encouraged by lack of suitable defences in the way of screen doors and windows, and, due to this, was a constant war on the dirty pests.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST CERMS.

People With Weak Stomachs Most Liable to Catch Disease.

When the stomach and digestive organs are weak, the food does not digest and there is a sour, sickly condition of the mass, which is a breeding place for the disease germs to multiply. The only way to protect yourself against disease germs is to strengthen the stomach and digestive organs, and for this purpose no agent so far as is known, that will accomplish this.

Any stomach medicine that is taken for indigestion and stomach disorders, whose active principle is the food alone, and hence can give no help to the digestive organs, but does as a certain cure in all cases of stomach trouble, no matter what cause, because it enables the stomach and digestive organs to do their own work. Nature intended they should. Drugs cannot digest the food, they only dull the discomfort.

Those who suffer with distress after eating pain in the head, chest, sides or back, loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, sour stomach, gas, belching, nervousness, irritable appetite, sick headaches, spots before the eyes, dizziness, heart palpitation and debility, you should at once give this system by the use of Mi-o-na. Mi-o-na is sold on a positive guarantee by special doses with Mi-o-na, which will cure indigestion and dyspepsia in one simple tablet out of a fifty cent box. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists, or will soon become so strong and healthy that they will not be needed.

Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell the Mi-o-na tablets and have bought from them should it fail to do all that is claimed for it, the druggist whom you bought does not care to lose your trade, and will return your money at once. Mail orders should be filled or receipt of price, 50c a box.

Wears Another Decoration.

Our old friend Sergt.-Major Martin, who has worn these days, having added another decoration to the numerous medals and clasps won by him on the bloody field of the Indian Crimea, and granted him for the Turkish War and for long service in the Militia. The new medal is that granted for the Fenian Raid of 1866, and the 42nd Regiment, or Black Watch, which famous corps fought alongside his regiment—the 21st Scotch Fusiliers—at Alma. The badge is one of four recently sent to Canada by the commanding officer of the Black-watch, and is intended as a reminiscence to the four men who could justly claim to be present at the engagement as commissioned officers. The sergeant-major has had a clasp made of his new decoration, and has good reason to be.

HEALTHY LUNGS

Depend Upon Rich, Red Blood—Poor Blood Means Weak Lungs and Fatal Consumption

Every drop of blood in the body must go through the lungs. That is why the lungs are helped, and healed, and strengthened with the great blood-builder, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They fill the veins with our rich red blood that gives health and vigor to the whole body. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brake the lungs to throw off the poisonous and heavy colds. That is the way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the lungs after an attack of la grippe or pneumonia. That is the way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved hundreds in Canada from consumption's grave. No other medicine does this work so speedily and so well. Mrs. Ada E. Bedford, Bridgetown, Queens Co., N.S., says: "My sister, a young and delicate girl, took a severe cold which about seventeen years old. Nothing we did for her seemed to do any good and we feared she was going into consumption. Often after she had night I would get up early to see if she was living. At last a friend strongly urged me to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and within a month from the time she began taking them she was entirely recovered her health. Under the blessing of God these Pills saved her well and strong."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only make weak lungs strong, but they are a blood builder and nerve restorer for deficient blood supply, such as anaemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, nervousness, general weakness, St. Vitus' dance, rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney troubles, palpitation of the heart, and the special ailments of young girls and women. Insist on having Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Never sold in bulk or by the box. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or sent by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Improvished Soil

Improvished soil, like improvished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is improvished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity, a worth so great that, after using the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one we would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and a blood—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. It is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquozone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for in a germ disease every germ that enters the body is killed. Then Liquozone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health.

We have sold Liquozone on this offer on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you, to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. Its justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, whereby they are killed, and the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

BOARD OF TRADE AFFAIRS.

Discussion to Now Industries—Scheme to Advertise the Town.

The Board of Trade Council Chamber was packed with citizens present, a majority being members, the Council Kennedy occupied the chair.

Communications.

Secretary Kingsmill read a circular of communications, the first being from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, re the question of the proposed interchange of freight between the C.P.R. and G.T.R. companies. The letter was written by Mr. S. P. Bayley, manager of the Transportation Dept., in which he stated that the towns of Galt, Preston, Hespeler, Berlin and Guelph had asked for the appointment of a joint appointed representatives from their Councils and Board of Trade. The G.T.R. is not willing to allow the interchange. But the representatives had all asked the Board of Railway Commissioners for an enquiry. It was suggested that the Board of Trade select all the available facts in connection with regard to freight tonnage handled in and out of Lindsay, also the number of cars and the kind of industries etc., which would show that Lindsay manufacturing concerns would be benefited—Filed.

Another letter was from Ottawa, and was referred to the Railway committee.

The second communication referred to the farmers' institute meeting held last spoken of. It stated that parties interested in the town desired to organize a company which would erect about 3,000 cattle sheds, and the Parkin mill was well adapted to their purpose and would be a good location. They also asked if a number of citizens who would be willing to take them on a mortgage for $5,000 soon took place as to whether the recommendation be referred to the whole Board or a committee, but the matter was finally left in the hands of the Secretary awaiting further information.

An Advertising Suggestion.

Mr. Sarsfield's report of the meeting of the Board of Trade Council was then read, and a recommendation that $150 be offered as a prize for the best newspaper advertisement of the Town of Lindsay, to consist of not more than 1,000 words, the descriptives be printed stating forth the advantages Lindsay presents as a manufacturing centre, and that the Board of Trade be authorized to secure more descriptives in their correspondence.

This report was discussed freely, Mr. Nyblette thinking it would be well to do the $150, but I have faith in one hundred men.

Mr. Cinnamon—I agree with Mr. Nyblette. I think the money could be used to better advantage. We offer a prize for something of this kind, however, and that something is what amount of space we can get, not how many words, money, etc.

Mr. Gregory—Those questions would be dealt with in detail by the committee.

Mr. Cinnamon—Isn't it better to engage details first?

Mr. Boal—"I think it will be the best $150 ever spent."

Mr. Geo. Lytle then made a very interesting address on the Board of Trade and newspaper advertising, which was highly spoken of. Also opened his views.

Mr. Cinnamon moved the Board of Trade wanted to flourish that they offer $150 for the best ad. and find out how much money the Board could spend.

Mr. Fisher agreed with Mr. Cinnamon and Messrs. Boal and Lytle again spoke in cross-firing.

Mayor Ray—I don't want to throw cold water on this first report of the Council. I think the $150 idea is a good one, and if the Board spent $400 on advertising it might do good. We have the town behind us to guarantee, if the Board are short of funds, the Council will provide same."—(Applause.)

Mr. Kennedy thought if they could get 50 or 100 school boys to write for the advertisements it would be more well spent, and he thought that two or three of the best of results by the spending of the sum named.

Mr. Cinnamon stated that that it would be money thrown away it it was early yet to advertise.

Mr. Bryans—I am surprised to hear a business man like Mr. Cinnamon express himself that way. I think if you want to get manufacturers here you have got to get them from the outside, and we should advertise our town. I don't think Mr. Cinnamon should be in such a hurry, but before he declared it would be well that the town was ready to take advantage of any interest in their goods. Some of the outside newspapers advertise their town more than our to 1 papers do — I think it would be a good idea to get out, or not, but as to the town's part I will be willing to give a good town in the Province of Ontario."—(Applause.) "You said to me, 'You have a good town, and if you don't say anything that is going to attract the town anywhere it will never get anywhere.' That is exactly your town, don't advertise it don't find a call on your business.—Dr. Ira Bisker & Bryans—I will put a small sum, those of the Toronto papers and find results. I will be satisfied—Filed on Presidents in regard to same. It is a good way to spend money."—(Applause.)

Mr. Kylie defended Mr. Cinnamon's ideas.

Secretary Donald said it would be $50 well spent. We want to advertise our town and see how get to the front. Mr. Gregory's prize scheme is a good one. Perhaps a firm whom the Board has been dealing with, setting forth their plans and specifications, are to some of their previous work.

After further discussion the report was adopted and Messrs. J. Campbell, Cinnamon, Boal, Ray, Donald, Bryans and Cinnamon were appointed a committee to meet on to arrange details and carry out the matter.

Canning Factory By-law.

Mr. Nyblette moved, and Mr. Fisher seconded, a large sum of money has already been paid for the care and maintenance of the child, and but little as possible for its clothing, which was done, with the exception of a subscription, very scant and inferior. Contributions of used garments and clothing will be most acceptable at any time.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to treat without a physician. Many have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should be called in, but until he can be had the patient should be kept warm and comfortable, and the inhalation of hot vapor from a teakettle of boiling water will relieve the distressing difficulty of breathing. Consequently the inhabitants are favored with snow falls that are seldom duplicated in their parts of the country.

All during the winter Kinmount has had its share. It is a lively memory in the village that of the snow blockades of last winter, when for eight days communication with the other world was cut off and when on Friday of last week the weather settled down in earnest for a time do ing the afternoon the snow fell in a perfect sheet, so dense that objects a few feet away could not be seen.

All Friday night the storm howled and when Saturday morning broke the landscape showed the village completely to the doors. No one came into the village during the day. The snow, driven by the steep wind, piled up in drifts. Men who were accustomed to more about in storms and stress of weather shook their heads and settled down to wait for the storm to have blown over, and could only be located by the poles of the telegraph line that stood sentinal along the railway track. Many were forced to make themselves by climbing on the roofs of the stores and leaping off into the drifts. Several attempts were made to get out teams, but after a few minutes experience these were abandoned.

On Friday evening had been held the banquet to Mr. J. H. Laragelle, M.P.P., and a crowd of friends and supporters had gathered for the event. It was a huge success, but the men from Bethany and Cavendish, who had come across to join in the occasion, had to stay where they were. One adventurous party started out with a team and driver to go to Minden, some 11 miles to the west. He started all right, but after a mile or so the team became mired. After struggling and wallowing for nine hours in the snow,

The worst four miles from Kinmount is the junction of the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa railway with the Haliburton line. The "I. B. & O." is a new road, and has not snow up, as the line passing through the forest is protected to some extent and the snow has not had the chance to pile in the drifting. Anyway, a lot of commercial men at work along this line consulted their watches and found that by the time they had a chance. They gathered at the Junction and finally walked into Kinmount for breakfast, which was a welcome and hearty meal.

MEASURES ADOPTED FOR ITS RELIEF DURING SNOW BLOCKADE

Belated Traveller Relates Some of His Experiences—An Impromptu Concert—How Railway Cleared Away Huge Banks of Snow—Banquet to Mr. Carnegie.

Kinmount is on the Lindsay-Haliburton line, and about 40 miles north of Lindsay. It is a village of about 1,000 inhabitants and beyond Fenelon Falls the surface of the country is broken up by rocky hills, sparsely covered with a growth of small pine and cedar. For many miles the rails follow the course of the Burnt River, a stream that is a torrent in spring and a peaceful rivulet in August days. At Kinmount there are several local industries, and it was at one time a place of considerable importance in the lumber trade. The village is the trading point for the people of the townships of Somerville, Dalton, Galway and part of Cavendish.

It is higher up than the section along the Ontario front, and the moisture laden clouds that meet too chilly north winds dump their loads of snow, giving the part of the country a fine climate. Consequently the inhabitants are favored with snow falls that are seldom duplicated in their parts of the country.

All during the winter Kinmount has had its share. It is a lively memory in the village that of the snow blockades of last winter, when for eight days communication with the other world was cut off and when on Friday of last week the weather settled down in earnest for a time do ing the afternoon the snow fell in a perfect sheet, so dense that objects a few feet away could not be seen.

Sunday School Convention—Yes, that was a good suggestion you had in regarding the use of many Sunday school buildings during the week. There is absolutely no need for a single paper coming into Canada from the above mentioned source that any school matters as we have so many of our own, and many of our own churches. Of course there are some people who always imagine (for short will it be) that anything printed in the far off posturesque the present. It always reminds me of a little boy and a piece of work—the other fellow has always done the best job. For their special benefit I would be glad to see a convention or two, a hearty duty on all foreign papers coming into the country. I fancy we in Canada have got enough, and brains enough to write our own material, also if we want it encouragement from our people. If we are in this city of ours to action we must take a leaf from the Yankees book and that is to boom the race Canadian, buying wherever or we can, and not be afraid of the time being—goods that bear the impress "Made in Canada."

R. will apply to the Ontario Legislature at its next session for an act extending the time for the construction of its lines and authorizing the issue of a branch or extension of its line from a point at or near its westerly terminus to some point on the Georgian Bay.

C.P.R.'S BIG SWEEP

Supreme Court Rules In Its Favor re Western Taxation.

RAILWAY IS FOREVER FREE

In the Northwest Territories, Therefore, Lands Are to Be Liable Twenty Years After Patent Issued—Manitoba's Case Was Also Decided in Favor of the Company.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The Supreme Court yesterday afternoon gave judgment sustaining the C.P.R.'s contention in regard to the right of municipalities to impose taxation upon the Company's lands in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. The decision rendered involves practically two sets of cases, one arising in the Northwest Territories and the other in that part of Manitoba which was added to the Province when the C.P.R. contract was made and exempted from taxation. With reference to the Northwest Territories case, one point involved an answer to the question, "What sort of taxation was the Railway Company exempt from?" The exemption clause provides that the Company shall be forever free from taxation by the Dominion or by any Province hereafter to be established, or by any municipal corporation therein." The taxes sued for were school taxes levied by a school district under the provision of a Northwest Territories ordinance, and the question was whether such taxation was within the words "taxation by the Dominion." The court holds that the Northwest Territories exercise, not original or sovereign jurisdiction, but delegated jurisdiction, and therefore that the legislation of the Northwest Territories was really legislation by "the Dominion." The court accordingly holds that the company were, by the contract, to be free from local taxation at the hands of the Northwest Assembly."

In the case as to the period as to which exemption was granted, the court holds that the words give exemption for twenty years after a patent has been issued for each particular parcel of land.

Manitoba's case was also decided in favor of the company.

TO MANITOBA'S RESCUE.

Mr. Maclean's Speech a Remarkable Deliverance, According to the Premier's Definition.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—A protest in the House yesterday by Mr. W. F. Maclean against an alleged intention to chastise Manitoba for abolishing Separate Schools, and the suggestion that the friends of the Premier expected him to grant remedial legislation to the minority in that Province, elicited from Sir Wilfrid Laurier an emphatic denial, in which he characterized the suggestion that the Government contemplated introducing a remedial bill to amend the Manitoba law as unwarranted. Moreover, Sir Wilfrid declared there was not a majority of votes in the article quoted from Le Soleil to warrant the conclusions arrived at by Mr. Maclean, who had, he said, given the House a very modern exemplification of the old story of Don Quixotte tilting against the windmills, and who was becoming even more and more Quixotte in his views and methods.

No Remedial Legislation.

Mr. Maclean, having persisted in the suggestion that indications pointed to legislation, notwithstanding the Premier's statement, Sir Wilfrid Laurier made a categorical declaration that the Government had not, does not now, and will not contemplate introducing a remedial bill for Manitoba, or any amendment to the Manitoba law of the Dominion Lands Act. Proceeding, the Premier said Mr. Maclean seems so anxious to find a pretext for a desire to create a false impression and arouse prejudice. He withheld his expression of regret at the absence of Mr. Bitter from Mr. Maclean's attack, the former of whom he held responsible for the present backward stage of the Government. Sir Wilfrid pointed out that the clauses including the School Act and the liberate charges against these gentlemen, which, however, did not the gentlemen to notify them of his intention. Mr. Ralph Smith's wording was for the registration of union labels was not the appropriate stages by the House, with an amendment limiting the registration to the labels of unions which have been duly incorporated.

Mr. Hole introduced a bill to incorporate the Dominion Annuity Company.

(To the Editor of The Post):

Sir.—I should like to see here through the columns of your valuable paper how country roads are to be kept open. All the items we looked for in the pathmaster—now, Mr. Editor, I am one; I have no instructions only of my own, and every householder I have spoken to, and ratepayers on the beat for help to make roads. Then I am told I am the man to help them open. If Mr. Clerk, pathmaster, should have instructions from the Council to go by and not impose on pathmasters the duty of trying unaided to keep blocked roads open.—Yours etc.,

Newspapers and Magazines.

—Lord Strathcona's Horse, Lippincott's Magazine for March is a noveiette by Captain Archibald W. Hurd, U.S.A., called "The Shield of the Shield." The Shields is, of course, the South before the War. A writer on a Northern paper goes to Georgia to report conditions and falls in with a typical southern family, and a romance follows. He also falls in love with the daughter, and when the secret revelation of himself to her says she indignantly rejects him. The episode is forgotten. When strangely enough, brings a truce to the fighting armies, and ends in charming appropriateness.

SOMETHING EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW.

Are You the One Woman Neglecting a Mother's or a Wife's Duty, or Are There Countless Thousands.

Many women formerly built of robust vigor, with clear complexion and bright, vivacious spirits find themselves slowly losing their good health, gradually fading under the influence of an unknown cause, ignorant of their real malady. Just when a woman needs it most her best she becomes depressed, fretful, nervous, irritable. She has headache, and her body plainly shows it has been absorbed with her social duties, her work has been neglected or she has met with the misfortune of a moment's miscalculation. She has neglected her health, and now she is paying the penalty. She seemed to nourish, now she has but little appetite, and what she eats does not seem to do any good. If you should ask her what is the matter she would say, "I am just miserable." She does not know constipation and its resulting conditions are the cause. Had she taken heed in the beginning, sickness, sickness instead of good health; nervousness instead of vigor, would not have replaced by depression, happiness by misery. Mother Seigel's Syrup and Mother Seigel's Curative Pills in these cases will work wonders. They will increase the functions of the liver and bowels, immediately unload the congestion, and restore the digestive organs to their natural healthy condition. Any woman who will notice in their cheeks, without sensation, always tired, with the activeness and vivacity of youth expired as by some sudden blight, just because nature has been neglected, the bowels have become sluggish and poisonous elements have been allowed to build the blood. Keep the bowels regular by using Mother Seigel's Syrup and Curative Pills. Never allow constipation or a torpid liver to exist. Mother Seigel's Syrup and Curative Pills will relieve all feelings and depression. Those little pills are wonderful health givers. Mother Seigel's Pills are positive and a positive cure for sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 22 cents at all dealers.

SENIORS WON FIRST GAME

The Game Was Fast From Start to Finish—Score at Close, 7-5.

The first of the series of games for the Silver Cup emblematic of the hockey championship of the Town, was played Monday between Lindsay Seniors and the L.C.I. seven, and resulted, after a hard-fought struggle, in a victory for the Seniors by seven to five. The game was interesting from start to finish, and as it was played fast, clever hockey, and the shooting of no odd specimens—mostly L.C.I. scorers—might be one of the best exhibitions of the year. There was been a dull moment from the first toot of the whistle till the final time was called.

For the Seniors McGrath, in goal, was in great form, and he played as a la Dafoey Morrison style. Reilly and Irving both played a splendid defence game, and a magnificent shot of the latter put the Town in the lead and kept it for the second half. Taylor, at rover, and Symons, at point, established in a great shape; both had speed to burn, and when they broke away for a rush there was something doing. Symons played his best game of the year. Pringle and Stoddard were not far behind, and the former was responsible for all the Seniors' goals in the first half.

For the School Forts in goal, play, on a stat game—two or three beauts, but save all sure goals merited him as a "comer" in guardian of the nets. "Grumpy" Keil was the star of the match — always in the game, he was all over the ice, and had his stools from point bothered the opposing defence not a little. Williamson, at rover, played a hard game, but grass. Killen held the pick of the School's forwards, and as usual was responsible for a good many of the goals that count. MacDougall also was hardly up to former matches, at that his playing was good. Dean can hold his check in great shape and played his best game of the season. Duck, at cover,—the heavy weight—did useful work, and made a splendid shot tying the score in the first half.

Referee Watson enforced a fair and impartial game. The next game for the Cup will be played next Monday, and a battle royal is expected when the two teams come together again. Lindsay—Goal, McGrath; point, Reilly; cover-point, Irving; forwards, Stoddard, Sylvester, Pringle, Taylor.

L.C.I.—Goal, Foster; point, Keil; cover-point, Williamson; forwards, Killen, McDougall, Duck, Dougan.

THE GAME.

Both teams started off at a fast clip, and the defence were kept busy. McGrath was Johnny on the spot, and fumbles on the part of the others's dear forwards lost some good opportunities. Pringle made a good shot, and drew first blood; five minutes later Duck came back with a pretty shot and the score was 1-1. Pringle scored again, but Killen beat Foster, and the score was two all. A scrimmage in the goal resulted in another goal for the Seniors, but "Packer" MacDougall scored, and at half-time the score was 3 all.

The second half opened up with the Seniors pressing and Killen put the challengers in the lead after five minutes' play. Sylvester made a big rush up the side and scored. Stoddard, by good combination, put the Seniors once more in the lead. Killen made a pretty rush, but it was all in vain—Irving and Sylvester stopped and the game was on. Both teams worked hard to score again, but were unsuccessful, and the first game for the Cup championship was won by the Seniors, 7-5.

Town Hockey League.

LCCI. 7, Old LCI. 2.

Two fast games were play d in the H. L. A. rink, and in other game fell off. Both teams had on their regular line-up, and both were out for the long end of victory, although the L.C.I. were afraid by many as the probable winners. The game was rough at times there being just enough slugging to keep the spectators feeling good and interested. The L.C.I. were outskaters who kept up continuous scoring. The Old L. C. I. have got to leave home, and as a result they checked hard, but the L.C.I. have got the boys who know how to use the stick to advantage. The ex-students played hard, but could not always get the puck where they wanted.

For the L.C.I. Keyl and Killen were the stars, playing a beautiful game. Keyl scored one goal on a very individual rush (they followed the puck up good, and also had the one shot on goal, the other was behind to shoot if in the need. The trick was repeated two or three times. Mcfarlane was the best on the ice in the first half. Williamson and Duck are good defence men, but they are too much inclined to mix it up, especially Toonbuns and Woods. Silver and Dougan played a game as goal keeper, having the most to do and acquitting himself creditably. Williams, the big defence man is a promising player. Toonbuns got in the way of several good shots. Woods, Duck, Brady and Cummins played a fair game. The score in goal was seven. The game was fast, but hardly over-rough. The second half was pretty good hockey.

The second game of the night between the Bankers and Sylvesters was fast and rough. The Bankers looked like a team to beat, and in the first few minutes, when it was seen they could not stand the pace which the Rounders were going at, the Sylvesters, who by Chester stars piled in three goals in very short order. The goals were scored one each by Gilmour and Chester were well pleased. At half time the score was 3 and 0 in favor of Sylvesters.

Probably the score would have been the opposite way but for the unfortunate work of "Ginger" Warner in goal. He stopped some difficult ones and was easily the best on the ice. Brooks and Johnston, of the Bankers, put up a good game, but in some five two men cushes. Sylvesters played a good game, but were no combination to "bog" the puck. Jackson, Gilmour and Chester, in goal, as is a pretty sure man at passes the puck and Gilmour is a fast skater and behind on the offence put up a good game.

The Sylvester rovers played more than the most game, and were to blame for being the mainstay. He played combination, effective, and was a good man, and took some good rushes and shooting. Mr. Bruce is a hard man to score on and played a fine game. Fred Bruce played fast and steady on the defence, and was a hard man to get past many a time did he down the rush. He is a fast skater and a good stick handler. Mem's aunt "Ned" Sylvester were always in the thick of it. Sylvester is improving and is becoming the sport nicely. He can push played a great game in goal and kept the score down. Both of the teams were inclined to mix it up, but no serious results followed.

THE TRAWLER CASE

Commission's Decision Favors the British Contentions.

BRITISH PRESS IS PLEASED

Admiral Rojestvensky Was Not Justified in Firing Upon the British Fishermen—Firing First Had Committed to Hostile Act, and There Was No Torpedo Boats Among Them.

—Enemies Admiral Let Down Easy, However.

Paris, Feb. 27.—The decision of the International Commission of Inquiry into the North Sea incident was officially announced at the closing session of the Commission, Saturday afternoon. The decision set forth at considerable length the circumstances of the incident, and gives the opinion of the Admirals on the various important points involved.

The decision says the delay of the Russian transport Kamchatka following the breakdown of her machinery was perhaps the cause of the accident. The commander of the Kamchatka signalled to Admiral Rojestvensky during the evening that he had been attacked by torpedoes.

No Justification.

The Admiral therefore had reason to believe he might be attacked and gave orders for strict vigilance against the dangers of torpedo boats. The possible presence of the fishing boats or in their vicinity any torpedo boats, the opening of fire by Admiral Rojestvensky was not justified.

The Russian Disidcet.

The decision further says the Russian Commissioner did not share in the latter opinion.

"In any event," the decision continues, "the Commissioners are glad to recognize unanimously that Admiral Rojestvensky personally did all that could from the commencement to the end to avoid the fatal incident, the object of fire by the Russian squadron."

Concerning the squadron's proceeding without rendering the assistance to the trawlers, the decision says:

"The Commissioners are unanimous that under the circumstances preceding and following the incident there was such uncertainty concerning the danger to the squadron as to warrant Admiral Rojestvensky in continuing his route. However, the majority regrets that the Admiral did not inform the neighboring maritime powers of what occurred."

Whitewash for Rojestvensky.

The decision concludes as follows: "The Commissioners declare that their duty is terminated as not of a nature to cast any disrespect upon the military valor nor upon the sentiments of humanity of Admiral Rojestvensky and the personnel of his squadron."

The closing session of the Commission presented a brilliant scene. The Ministry of Marine in the Crillon Office was crowded with prominent officials, members of the Diplomatic Corps, including Russian, British and American Ambassadors, members of the Japanese Legation, officers of the army and navy, Judges of the highest French courts and many wives and other relatives of members of the Commission. The Admirals forming the Commission appeared in ordinary civilian dress.

A Compromise.

Admiral Fournier (France), the President of the Commission, during the session amid impressive silence, the spectators following with interest the general impression among the audience was that the session was the result of a compromise. Admiral Fournier closed the Commission with a speech of thanks to its members. He said that each of them would return to his country bearing as a recompense for his labors the highest reward for duty well accomplished. They left behind them a profound impression of esteem for the devotion to which the delicate task had been performed.

A significant exchange of remarks was made by Sir Edward Fry, representing Great Britain, and Count Tassile, representing Russia. Both spoke in the highest terms of the spirit and object of the arbitration. Sir Edward said:

"This is one of the most important events ever brought before an International Court and it should be greeted with the satisfaction of the whole civilized world. We have now to express our opinion concerning the decision. The conclusions seem to be acceptable. They are formulated in a manner to satisfy the legitimate claims of the two parties and mark an important step in the pacific relations of international law."

Admiral Baron Von Spaun, in behalf of the Austro-Hungarian Admiral Fournier for his courteous remarks and for his generous hospitality and requested Admiral Rojestvensky to express the Commissioners' sense of gratitude to President Loubet and Foreign Minister Delcasse. The session lasted half an hour and was featureless.

Other interesting features of the decision are as follows:

"Admiral Rojestvensky, after leaving Revai, took the precautions required to prepare his vessels to repulse a torpedo attack during the night, whether sailing or at anchor. That course was necessary, having regard to possible torpedo boat attacks, not to justify firing.

"The direction the Russian squadron followed was natural, and, during the last two divisions, as events proved, in accordance with the information received. The leading divisions of the squadron, including Admiral Rojestvensky, passed the trawlers unsuspectingly. Admiral Rojestvensky's division, the last, noticed seven flares, really a fishing signal which created alarm, and then perceived several torpedo boat waves. Admiral Rojestvensky ordered his ships to open fire on the result of which was his responsibility."

Gratification in London.

London, Feb. 27.—The findings were received in London with every sign of gratification, which was to all their numerous besides of the premature reports that the decision of the Admirals had been of an anti-British character. The whole report is regarded here as absolving the Russian cause; even the phrase that the firing was not unduly prolonged, which seems to afford a certain justification for opening the firing, is at the same time taken as implying that the Russians continued to fire after they had discovered their mistake. The definite finding of the Admirals that no torpedo boats were at the scene of the incident gives considerable satisfaction, and it is pointed out that the British contentions were further upheld in the finding that the trawlers Crane and Aurora were the boats the Russians mistook for torpedo boats.

London, Feb. 27.—The British press welcomes the report of the International commission of inquiry into the North Sea affair with almost unqualified satisfaction. None of the papers, however, attempts to argue for enough in the direction of condemnation of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky and the commander of the trawler, Knowlton, but at the same time they hold that it is now impossible for Russia to make amends. The Daily Telegraph's editorial article says:

Paris, Feb. 28.—According to Admiral Pelin' views, there was no fair measure of satisfaction from the finding, for although it holds that no error was committed, it was one which was directly attributable to the Russian navy. The fact must be considered that the Russian admiralty was dealing with a score of thousands of miles upon a war minister who had indicated that the Japanese might make attempts against the Russian fleet. Admiral Pelin is inspired an arraign suspicious state of mind among the Russian officers. However, nothing in all the testimony reflected on the slightest way the discipline or efficiency of the Russian navy.

WILL BE BRILLIANT FUNCTION.

Opening of First Conservative Parliament in 33 Years.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The indications are that the opening of the Provincial Legislature on March 22 will be one of the most brilliant social events of the kind ever witnessed in Ontario.

It is 32 years since the Conservative women of Ontario, and especially of Toronto, have had an opportunity as will be presented next month. They are making full use of the event of the opportunity.

The invitations to the opening will include many of the social leaders of Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London and other towns, and the wives of the Conservative members and those of the ladies of other prominent Conservative families will be present on the event one long to be remembered.

NO BREAK IN COMBINE.

Tomato Canners and Growers Both Stand Firm.

St. Catharines, Feb. 24.—W. F. Innis of Simcoe, President of the Amalgamated Canners' Company, which owns most of the canning factories in Canada, was in the city and asked a number of the leading growers to call and see him and have an informal talk on the situation. The matter was fully and thoroughly discussed.

Mr. Innis stated emphatically that there was no prospect of the company acceding to the request of the growers for a raise of 5 cents a bushel for tomatoes. The growers in turn told Mr. Innis that there was absolutely no likelihood of them getting it and if the company was satisfied to have no tomatoes this year they were quite agreeable to do without them.

Stundists Are Preparing to Leave the Czar's Country.

Berlin, Feb. 27.—Saturday's Berliner Lokalzug reports that 200,000 Russian Stundists are preparing to emigrate to Canada. They are Canadians members of a Russian religious community, originally established in the year 1846. Their tenets and practices are distinctively evangelical, and they have entailed separation from the Orthodox Greek Church, for a long period after 1870 they were very harshly persecuted by the authorities, but recently the liberality to their convictions and have considerably increased, and many of their exiles have been heard regarding their community, but from their resolution to emigrate, it is to be inferred that they are still the objects of Government dislike.

DOYLE MURDER CASE.

Brantford, Feb. 24.—(Special.)—There are no new developments in connection with the Doyle murder case in Burford Township. All ideas of suicide are thrown aside by the coroner and by the authorities, and they are now convinced that it was premeditated murder. Several pieces of evidence have been heard regarding the community, but from their resolution to emigrate, it is to be inferred that they are still the objects of Government dislike.

There were three visiting bishops, seven bishops and eighty priests in attendance. The ceremony is a proof of the high esteem in which Father Jones is held. Father Jones is the afternoon a large number of presents were given to him by some presentations to the new Bishop. Father Jones is very popular among the people, and will be missed by many. He was presented with a purse containing $500. Mr. Wm. Sheridan, B.A., also presented him with a magnificent ring, set with diamonds, which is valued at $100. Bishop O'Connor gave him a purse and some of the members of Ottawa Parliament gave him a gold watch and chain. Father Jones presented these with gratefulness and appreciation, and would bless each and everyone of them, and in the future would not forget the people to give him strength in the difficult duties he has to undertake. On the following Sunday his Lordship paid a visit to the Convent of Redemption, where he celebrated Pontifical mass, assisted by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, and preached a sermon. LOSSES IN BATTLE.

The Modern Rifle has Decreased the Death Rate

The Public Ledger of Philadelphia states that in the ninety years, from 1700 to 1800, 4,670,000 lives were lost in battle. Earlier data and deductions are as follows: The rifle and the battle-plane during the various stages in the improvement of weapons seems to support the theory that the mortality in battle has been diminished with the improvement of firearms.

In the first period under review, in musketeers in about equal numbers, casualties in about equal numbers. During this period the casualties ranged from 35 per cent. at the battle of Lutzen to 50 per cent. at Quatre Bras. The average percentage was twenty-six. The large proportion of killed to the entire amount of casualties is a notable characteristic of this era.

The substitution of the smooth-bore flintlock for the pike marks the beginning of the next period, during which the rate of casualties declined from 26 per cent. to 8 per cent. Blenheim, in one of the Zorndorf, in 1758, the casualties reached 40 per cent.; at Leipsic they were 23 per cent.; Borodino, 21 per cent.; Waterloo, 25 per cent. This period lasted from the American Revolution to the Franco-Prussian war. In 24 battles, considerably above the average percentage.

With the introduction of the rifled barrel and percussion lock the percentage was reduced to fifteen. This period lasted from the battle of Navarino, in 1854, in which 102,000 allies and Russians were engaged, the casualties were only 3 per cent. The period including the Crimean war, in which there were the high casualty percentages were 14 per cent. at the battle of Chickamauga, 10 per cent.; Shiloh, 24 per cent.; Antietam, 25 per cent.; Gettysburg, 23 per cent.; Solferino, 20 per cent.

The breech-loader has decreased the casualties to 11 per cent. This area began with the Danish war of 1864, in 1866, in which 215,000 Prussians and Austrians were engaged, with breech-loaders. The casualties were 7 per cent. At Marsh-Tour, in 18 0, with 241,000 French and 171,000 British-Allies, the percentage was sixteen. At Sedan, where 120,000 French forces numbered 243,000, the casualties were 27,000, or 11 per cent.

A LOST FRIEND

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Mr. friend he was; my friend from all the rest,
With children both he cped to me his breast;
No door was locked on altar, grave or grief;
No weakness veiled, hidden no disbelief,
Tho hopeless the sorrow, and the wrong heavy laid,
And all the shadow only showed him fair.

I gave him love for love, but deep weight
I magnified each frailty into sin;
Each blind-spoed feeble in the sunlight of my soul.
Obscuring vales where rivered virtues flowed;
Scrpod none no reproach, till com-mon grew
The captions word at every fault I knew.

He smiled upon the censorship and blame,
With patient love the touch that stung to shame,
Until at length, so bad my blindness grew,
He knew I judged him by his faults alone,

Alone, of all men, I, who knew him best,
Refused the gold, to take the dross instead;
Cold strangers honored for the faults I read,
His friend forgot the diamond in the clay.

At last it came—the day he stood apart,
When in my eyes he proudly veiled his heart;
When from my eyes he proudly withheld his heart;
Where spring judgment and unoer-tain weal
A stern resentment in his bosom stirred.
When in his face I read what I had done,
And with his vision saw what he had won.

Too late! too late! Oh could he then have known
Where his love ended, that mine had yet grown!
Too late the veil was drawn, abused, chas'ped,
The censer stood, the lost one truly prized!
Too late he laid a man must hold his friend,
Undaped, accepted, faultless to the end.

Trent and Survey.

Port Hope Guide: The Government party which is surveying the route for the Trent Valley Canal between Rice Lake and Trenton, arrived at Hastings on Monday. There are seven in the party, and they have secured Bond Lice Lake to get the depths, after which they will work as far as Hastings. Owing to the lake being frozen over at present, the work will be easily accomplished. The surveyors have had a very trying time during the past few weeks owing to the high winds and the deep depths of snow. Several of the men have been laid up with frost bitten about the face and toes, one particularly bad case having both badly frozen on Wednesday last.

CORRESPONDENTS' LETTERS

SOUTH VERULAM.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

The roads are in a deplorable condition, completely buried in the snow. Since it is getting unusual to see some one leaving their home with contents on the road-bed, making it look like a little village on a busy thoroughfare. We know of one man who got his load of wood to the road-side and had to unhitch his horses off the sleigh, and had to hitch them to reach his own stable. He says he has enough wood, now, myself to last him all the summer. Some say it is a good thing for the wood supplied. There is some difference of opinion as to when equal numbers, winter and last winter. Some say it is the worst they have seen, while another of this would say that this is the worst they have seen, and also say that it is an unfair different comparison. Some say that the manure of keeps the roads open and the fields manured.

Most of the lumber camps have broken up for the season, and are now closed with their winter's work.

Mr. Wm. Hall has not been confined to his bed the past month or so, as was reported in the last issue.

Mr. Bach, the newly married man of Ash, Ont., has returned with their homeward with his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Zorndorf, in Mara.

Mr. Gil. Thurston, the popular grocer, keeper, of Ash, is doing a rushing trade in grain these days. He has been at it for the past week. Does those people who were unable to get their grain ground in before election time will have to wait a little longer, as the new election of to-day will vote in this, Mr. Thurston's mill is now running hard and everything else in proportion, and we are not making any predictions they made as everything is booming.

Railway Notes.

—The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Sault Ste. Marie R. R. commonly known as the Soo line, has completed the C. P. R. has let a contract for the construction of a new line and extension from Thief River Falls, Minn. to Kenmare, N.D., across the Canadian boundary to the Pacific port of North Dakota.

General War on the Spitter

(New York Herald).

There is a general war declared all over the country, to quit an and once for all to the filthy habit of the beastful practice of expectorating in the street cars and in other public places, although the penalty may seem severe in some cases, it is the only means to adopt to stop this unhygienic, this pernicious habit.

Ridiculing the "Drys."

(From Our Own Correspondent).

After all, what rigor had the deputation to expect anything further from Mr. Ross? Why, he is the very votaries of a large number of temperance people, and naturally enough he gladly entertained them, though he differed nothing in return. Temperance leaders were jockeyed by the Conservative compilators into the position of being the most favorable pliable manner they were going to be in the state to defeat the Ross. Now the Conservative cynic is laughing at the idea that he has defeated jockeys the Spectator, calls them a "weak brigade," and says that they only ought to swear them out of his presence.

Keep in the Right Track.

There is a story of an engine on one of our great railways that got very dissatisfied with the work it had to do. It was a grumbling one it would say:

"Here am I running backward and forward and up and down all day and night. Why can't I do as I like and go where I will? The horses, and even our drivers, are allowed to do as they please, and often, perhaps, have to be scolded over and over again before they will do as they are told. But I, who am obliged to travel, and toil only, am scolded and driven about. Jumped on the rails and left the track, and I would do it, too, if I only knew how for a few minutes, actually just to see what it was like." But it was the engine driver, who, as he heard the grumbling, stopped for a few minutes to oil the machinery.

The engine was only safe while it kept to the rails. It was only when it was its right place and there it was of any use. Well, it followed the rule of the road, and it did its work so completely it broke away, and evil followed.

It is smooth highway that with boys and girls and men and women on the right of our lives should be to do right and to be right. Then we shall be of good and pure we may seek after; then every step we take will be one lead to that which is best, we must avoid.

Another Liberal Gain.

London, March 4.—Mr. Lumsden captured a seat as a result of the by-election in East Elgin to-day. Mr. Lumsden's man Lament secured a majority of 34 over Mr. Bidwell Carroll, Edward Ermatinger, Mr. Sallosen, the Solicitor-General for Scotland. The election was due to the elevation of Andrew Graham Murray to the peerage on his appointment to a judgeship.

The Charcot Explorers.

Buenos Ayres, March 4.—The Charcot Antarctic expedition on board the steamer Scotia arrived at Port Stanley, to-day, en route to Montevideo. They entered Wandel Island and carried out all of their scientific work under favorable conditions.

During a Drunken Brawl.

Winnipeg, March 7.—During a drunken brawl on Saturday night at Verne's Ranch, south of Portage la Prairie, Wasyan, Gabriel Laplante and Maxim Daniel were seriously injured, and Daniel Kowalchuk killed. Kowalchuk's skull was fractured.

RUSSIANS RETREAT

Kuropatkin's Centre Has Been Broken By Jap Persistency.

SLAUGHTER IS FRIGHTFUL

Thirteen Siege Guns Captured by the Japs, Who Made Other Considerable Gains—Kuropatkin Wires Czar That He Cannot Hold Mukden—Russ General's Brilliant Charge.

London, March 8.—For ten days the Japanese and Russian armies in Manchuria have been engaged in a mighty conflict, the issue of which has not yet been reached. Although the most of the news from the scene of the battle comes through Russian sources, and consequently may be supposed to present the fact in as favorable a light as possible for the Russian arms, it is evident that the Japanese have some gains yesterday.

The Japanese has an unofficial report that Gen. Kuropatkin's centre has been broken, and that thirteen siege guns have fallen into the hands of the Japanese. These guns, which are of the and eight-inch calibre, were given permanent emplacements at the time of the railroad north of Shakhe Station, the most conspicuous evidence of the confidence of the Russians that the Japanese could not penetrate further.

Covering His Retreat.

In St. Petersburg it is generally believed that Gen. Kuropatkin was practically forced to withdraw from the position he retreat, and that the night just have witnessed a large withdrawal of troops toward the north, as the commander-in-chief's ability it is considered, will be required to extricate his army from its present predicament.

The Japanese, it is expected, will be decided to-day, and much unquestionably depends upon the determination and spirit of the opposing armies to resist the efforts of each to force back on their record the tide of human endurance having been nearly reached. The following is the official statement that the casualties exceed three of the battle of Mukden, since is little known as to the number killed or wounded.

JAPANESE FORESIGHT.

Condensed Life in Pills to Incite Them to the Attack.

Mukden, March 8.—It is reported that the Japanese are giving their men a substating drugs to incite them to the attack, pills of which were found in the pockets of the prisoners.

Shot Sides Desperate.

Mukden, March 8.—Many of the fiercest nature, which is likely to decide the battle, have been fought. It has been in progress for ten days, began on dawn yesterday, and has continued uninterruptedly up to the present hour. The battle line is miles long, from the railroad and on a line with the Shakhe River. The Japanese have also made a desperate attack on Bentsiapuize, and reports arrived to-day that fighting was renewed yesterday morning on the centre left of the Russian army. Both sides are fighting with desperate bravery, and although the troops were well-nigh exhausted.

The issue of the battle may depend largely on the relative physical condition of the rank and file. In its main features the combat is like that at Liaoyang, but the Russians are better able to crush the flanking force victorious losses in the ten days of battle on both sides are enormous, and the losses in the casualties in the battle of Liaoyang, and no reinforcements have days pass, before the issue is fully decided.

50,000 Japs In Attack.

Beginning at 5 a.m. the Japanese made a succession of desperate attacks on the Russian left, which is on the west front south of Mukden, repeating their assaults three times in the day with constant reinforcements. About 50,000 Japanese took part in the attack, artillery, participated. All the attacks were repulsed there being enormous losses on both sides. One extremely desperate engagement took place on several times. Finally Gen. Tserpitsky, on the extreme left, placed himself at the head of his troops, led his regiment in the attack, with colors flying and music playing. The attack was successful. After it was over the victorious soldiers found the ground literally strewn, shouting his praises and even kissing the hem of his garment. The Japanese captured several quick-fire guns and many machine guns. The Situation Army is Now in a Very Desperate Condition.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—That the battle of Mukden is the most important battle of the century with Liaoyang in the long list of Russian defeats by the Japanese, general belief here. The War Office does not attempt to hide the fact of the great battle, which already exceeds in magnitude of operations and number that of Shakhe, has been decided.

Despatches from the front received last night indicate that the position of the Russian army after a day of furious fighting is desperate.

Everything depends on Gen. Kuropatkin's reserve. While the Japanese point yesterday that their reserves were behind the west and southwest in an attempt to envelop the Russian right and drive a wedge through the centre, Gen. Kuropatkin, it appears, seems to have been able successfully to withdraw his centre and left wing, the aligning from northwest to southeast, and to have formed a new front. Early at nightfall it was reported, he practically had succeeded in accomplishing the same time he was drawing in and strengthening his right wing.

All the concentrated attacks of the Japanese to the westward failed and the efforts of Gens. Nogi and Oku to push the encircling movement north and eastward across the railroad and the communications was blocked by the corresponding movement of Gen. Kuroki to the northward, towards The Pass, which is the only line of access and a flying column of Japanese.

St. Evacuate Mukden.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—Kuropatkin has advised the Czar that the general situation of the Manchurian army is such as to make it imperative that Mukden be evacuated at once. The Czar, it is reported, has ordered the Russian commander to hold the city as long as possible.

BATTLE OF SIXTH DAY.

Raged With Undiminished Vigor From Sunday Morning.

Mukden, March 8.—(Delayed in transmission)—The sixth day of the battle of the Russian right flank raged with undiminished vigor from March till dark. The Japanese made good their position at Tashuh and planted the centre north to Sinmintin, the same as on Sunday, four miles from the main battle line, though apparently no nearer. As was the case in the battle of Liaoyang, the semi-circular positions where the battle is progressing now are so near that the whole of them are visible from Mukden in a day's tour.

The losses already exceed those in the battle of Liaoyang on the Russian side and the Japanese are supposed to have suffered much more, though this does not seem to make the Japanese less active, for at noon to-day they attacked Yantaishan, attacking the centre and provoking a counter-attack, which Gen. Stackelberg's corps, the famous Russian Infantry occupying Yentaishan lies between, and the artillery fire was increased furiously, shells setting fire to the villages, the smoke from which, joining a dust storm, shrouded the vast plain in clouds, in which the battle roared and the sun sank.

Seven Days Without Rest.

Grave increasing in number, while dead animals strew the ground. The troops have been seven days without rest, and their powers of endurance are declining. They plainly show the effects of the terrible weal. The artillery is deeply frozen. The Japanese continue to bring up reinforcements. The Japanese division is known to have responded to the call.

The Japanese maintained a fruitful attack Sunday night, having attacked Shakhe, Erdaogo and Hunho in the extreme east, where they are again advancing. The Japanese Guards Division, one of the seventeen the Russians are known to have met, is also engaged.

On account of the receipt lately of several warnings and terrorist notifications, the sentries about the Grand Duke's palace have been doubled and instructed to exercise special watchfulness.

According to a current report, a terrorist, disguised in the uniform of a soldier, secured employment as a waiter at the Grand Duke on Saturday. On being detected, the man was found to be armed with a loaded revolver.

Six Witnesses Agree in Testifying That Loney Struck Laurin on the Side of the Head—Evidence That Laurin Did Not Strike Him—The Preliminary Hearing.

Cornwall, March 8.—Allan Loney of Maxville was yesterday committed to stand his trial for the killing of Alcide Laurin in the course of a hockey match at Maxville on the 24th ult. The enquiry took place before John A. McDougall, J. P., in the Court House, Cornwall, which was crowded with citizens of the town and surrounding country.

The county's attorney, James Dingwall, called six witnesses. While their evidence differed slightly in a few minor details, they were unanimous in saying that Loney struck Laurin on the side of the head with a hockey stick.

Some of them saw Laurin after his stick had struck him. Some of them, after checking, put up his diet in front of Loney's face. Some of the farmers on two did not see this part of the affair. All denied seeing Laurin strike Loney with his stick or fist, and O'Connor, the witness, and Dr. J. McDonald were positive that nothing of the kind occurred while they were in a position to see if it happened.

Loney's trial will take place at the spring assizes of the county Justice Teetzel, on Monday, March 27.

Uncle Terry

By

CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1900, by Lee & Shepard

He did not like the looks of Frye. He suspected him to be what he was—a shrewd, unscrupulous villain. Had he obeyed his first impulse he would have picked up his hat and left Frye to wash his hands with invisible soap, and take his case before some other lawyer, but he hesitated. Some-how, he did not like the matter in his hands and might make the claim that his story was false and fight it with all the legal weapons Uncle Terry could command. In the end he decided to put the matter in Frye's hands and hope for the best.

"I shall want you to send me a detailed story of this wreck, sworn to by yourself and wife," said Frye, "also the affidavits from the child and the corners for this estate and report progress to you later on."

When Uncle Terry turned his face toward home his pocket was lighter by $200.

"I s'posed I'd git skinned," he muttered to himself after he was well on his way home, "an' I reckon I have! A lawyer knows a farmer at all times, an' when he ketches one he takes his hay! He's taken mine for sartin, an' I begin to think I'm a consarned sell fool, that don't know 'nuff to grin when it rains! I'm goin' to git the wimmin to give up them trinkets 'bout town'n' I've lost my senses is one too many for me."

CHAPTER XV.

THE effect of Albert Page's vigorous efforts to attain success was not lost upon his friend Frank.

After their Christmas visit to Sandgate Albert had applied himself diligently to the care of Mr. Nason's legal needs. This brought him into contact with other business men, and the fact that John Nason employed him easily secured for him other clients. In two months he not only had Mr. Nason's affairs to look after, but all his remaining time was taken up by others. He had spent several evenings at the Nasons' home and found his society, if much more agreeable one than Frank had led him to expect. Both that young man's sisters were bright and agreeable young ladies, and though a little affected, they treated him with charming courtesy and extended to him a cordial invitation to bring his sister make them a visit.

Since the day he had shaken his fist at the closed door of Mr. Frye's law office Albert had met that hawk nosed lawyer's forehead covered only a chilling bow. The memory of that combustible contract he had hastily drawn for Frye to consider as made brought a blush to his face every time he thought of it, but he kept his own counsel. Once or twice he had been on the point of telling Frank the whole story, but had refrained.

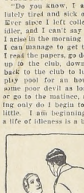
In his intimate relations with John Nason he was enough to satisfy himself that Frye's insinuation against that busy man's character was entirely false. Mr. Nason seldom spent an evening away from his home, and when he did it was to attend the theater with his family.

After their visit to Sandgate Frank and himself naturally drifted into more intimate relations, and a day seldom passed that Frank did not step into his office for a chat.

"Don't mind me, Bert," that uncouth man would say when he saw that Page was busy, "and if you don't want me to talk any time, tell me to shut up. I shan't feel offended. The fact is I don't know what to do with myself. If it were only summer I'd go off on the Gypsy even if I had to go alone."

One evening at the office he asked Albert a rather surprising proposition. Albert, who seldom enticed into card games and only occasionally played pool or billiards, was in the reading room at a table quietly enjoying a cigar and the evening paper when Frank drew up a chair and sat down. They were alone, and as Page laid his paper aside Frank said:

"Do you know, I am getting absolutely tired and sick of doing nothing. Ever since I left college I've been a idler, and I can't say I'm enjoying it. I arise in the morning and wonder how I can manage to get through the day. I read the papers, go down to the store, up to the club, down to your office, back to the club to lunch and maybe play pool for an hour or two with some poor devil in the afternoon, at 5 am or go to the matinee, and in the evening one or two I begin to enjoy myself a little. I am beginning to realize that a life of idleness is a beastly bore, and



"Here's my hand on it."

I am sick of it. I want you to let me come into your office and study law. Will you?"

Albert looked at him a moment, while an amused smile crept over his face.

"Are you know what that means?" he responded at last. "Do you know that to read law means two years perhaps of close application and perseverance? In my case I had the spur of necessity to urge me on, and even with that stimulus it was a dry, hard grind. With you, who have all the money you need and are idle now, it will be much worse. I respect your feelings, and I admire your determination very much, and of course do not wish to discourage you. You are more than welcome to my office and law books, and I will gladly help you all I can," and then, after a moment's reflection, he added, "I believe it's a wise step, and I'll be very glad to have you with me. You can help me out in a good many ways also that will advance you even faster than studying reading."

He was surprised at the look of pleasure that came into Frank's face.

He had half expected you would try to discourage him, and in my case the very kind of you to promise to help me."

"Why shouldn't I?" answered Page. "I'm sure you'll get good deal more than that, my dear boy, and when you have been admitted we will go into a partnership if you want to do it."

"Here's my hand on it," said Frank, rising "and I mean it, too, and if you will have patience with me I'll stick it out or own up I'm no good in this world." He seemed overjoyed, and for two hours they sat and talked it over. "When may I begin?" he said finally. "I want to go at it right away."

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock sharp," replied Albert, smiling "and I warn you I shall keep you grinding eight full hours six days a week and no let up until July 1. But tell me, when did this idea enter your head?"

"Well, to be exact, it came to me in the parlor of your house in Sandgate just at dark the last evening I was there, and a remark your sister made to me was the cause of it."

A droll smile crept over Albert's face at this frank admission, but he made no reply, and as he scanned his friend's face, now turned slightly away from him, and recalled that last evening at home and how Alice had so persistently devoted herself to the entertainment of this young man, a revelation came to him.

So it's that heart breaker's blue eyes that have begun to work mischief in Frank's feelings, is it?" he said to himself after he had left the club, and he almost laughed aloud at the thought. "She has some rather pronounced ideas about idleness, and maybe she has read my young friend a lesson in a few words. She is capable of it!"

When Frank came to the office next morning Albert got him to work and gave him all possible encouragement.

"I think far more of you, Frank," he said earnestly at this reserve, and when you get fairly into it you will be glad you took hold. I believe every one in this world is happier and healthier for having an occupation, and certainly you will be."

Frank showed a persevering spirit as the weeks went by and became an ardent student. In a way, too, he was a help to Albert, for he could call on him any time to find some references or some decision bearing on a case in hand.

It was soon after Frank's new departure in life that Alice received a letter from her brother, and among other things he wrote:

What was it you said to Frank the last evening of our visit at home? He has developed a perfect craze for law, office and books, and I attribute to do as was the result of a remark you made then. Knowing what a fine vein of sarcasm you are blessed with, I am curious to know what kind of an arrow you drew from your quiver that evening."

CHAPTER XVI.

ALICE PAGE'S first impression of Frank Nason did not do him justice. She thought him a big, good natured, polite young fellow, but that he was likely to be sought after and disposed to be a society man. His pity for sympathy on the score that his life of idleness was a bore, which he made the most of, she had promptly provoked her decision, and as she was disposed never to do only by the standard of her self reliant brother, he came near awakening contempt on her part. It was not until the last evening of his visit that she discovered her mistake in estimating the depth and worth of character than she had thought. It is likely the keen enjoyment which he seemed to take in the song for him had weight, for we are prone to like those who like us, and it was natural also that she should feel a little gratitude for what he had done for her brother.

Her life, hidden as she was in a by-way corner of a country town and seeing no one all the week except her small band of pupils, gave her plenty of time for reading. Once a week, usually on Saturday, she received a letter from her brother, and that, together with the mild excitement of Sunday churchgoing, was all that broke the monotony of her life.

A week after the Christmas visit she received a package of books and a new book, three of the latest popular songs and a box of candy, and pinned to the candy Frank Nason's card, on the back of which was written, "For the girl who wanted to kiss her teacher."

She wrote a polite note of thanks. It was the second week after the receipt of her brother wrote that Frank had begun studying law in his office when she received a letter from that young man that surprised her. He wrote:

Dear Miss Page—I trust you will pardon me for intruding myself upon you, but I wish you to know that the pleasant words spoken by you while I was enjoying your hospitality have not been forgotten and have influenced me to make the most serious decision of my past idle life in the world. Your brother kindly consented to let me read law in his office, and I am now hard at it. I do not imagine that I shall ever become an eminent lawyer, but I shall study for success people, and as you could rightly estimate my character you know that I am capable of rising above my aimless life.

I have recalled on many times the little incidents of my visit to your home that I think would be interesting to you, but your presence and lit by a cheerful fire and lamp, and you may think me insincere when I assure you that they were among the most pleasant I ever passed. I shall be glad to receive a line to one who is now working with the intention to rise above, it will be gratefully received by me.

To a girl with Alice Page's sympathetic nature and tender feelings words like these made her feel she was what she most enjoyed being—an inspiration and help to others. In this respect John Nason had read her better than she had read him, or she would have forseen his intuition had led him aright. She answered his letter at once, thanking him for his flattering words, but forbidding him to write to her any more of them.

"I do not like flattery," she wrote, "because no one ever can feel quite sure that it is sincere. I will answer all your letters if you will promise not to tell Bert we are corresponding. You can't fail to see that I am ashamed of it by any means, but I'm inclined to tease me, and I love him so dearly I can't bear to have him do so. The little girl you sent the candy to was just astonished and grateful. I did not tell her who sent it, for I knew it would have been all over town in a week if I had, and I do not like to be gossiped about. I merely told her a good fairy had sent it, which was better.

Once a week thereafter Alice received a long letter from Frank and as regularly answered it.

Frank, in writing along nicely," Albert wrote Alice in the early spring time, "and I think he will make a creditable lawyer in him. He grinds away harder than I ever did when reading law and has never pet companions of how dry and dull it all is. He is a big, warm hearted fellow, too, and I am getting very fond of him myself. He is more devoted to me than a brother, and we have quite a list of plans for a month's outing on the Gypsy this coming summer. If he has faithful very much, and Mrs. Nason and both her daughters have invited me to bring you down when your school closes to make them a visit. I think I shall run up to Sandgate and stay over Sunday and bring Frank with me. I imagine he would like to come, for once in a while I overhear and homesick Ben Bolt."

"A very nicely worded little plot, but don't you imagine, my dear Bert, I'm not see through it?" was the mental comment of Alice when she read the letter. "Poor Frank! Albert has bravely set to work to become a man instead of a cipher. He must have told he what Ben Bolt; and Albert is to bring him up here again; I am expected to be still in love with Ben Bolt and pay him and help him spend his money, and I am to be barely tolerated by mamma and both sisters. A most charming plot, surely, but it takes two to make a bargain. I think I know just the sort of people mamma and sisters are. But he told me she read him a lecture every time he came, twice with a poor girl, and now I am expected to walk into the same trap and cringe to her ladyship for the sin of being poor. I guess not! I'll write school till I die first, and he can think of me as having a 'slab of granite as gray' as Ben Bolt's alone in place."

But this diplomatic "Sweet Alice" wrote to her brother: "It was thinking that you are coming up, for I am so lonesome, and the weeks drag so Sard-ling Frank Nason is to be up by and by, and I'll sing 'Ben Bolt' till he hates the name of Sweet Alice. I'm positive he will be looking fine then, and he can go over to the cemetery and select the corner I am to occupy. Pardon the joke, and don't tell him I uttered it."

To Frank she wrote: "Be sure you come up with Bert. I will sing all the old songs and the new ones you have sent me as well. If you come up on a Thursday you may visit my school Friday afternoon, and then you can see the girl you sent the candy to. She wears a calico pinafore and comes to school barefooted."

Alice's tactful reply to her brother's letter, coupled with his own sincere affection for him, brought from a response by return mail in the form of a check for $100, with explicit orders to spend every cent of it before he came.

CHAPTER XVII.

SANDGATE was just budding forth in a new suit of green, and the lawns, with their early daisies, and here and there a patch of dandelions, were waving in the breeze when one Friday afternoon the teacher at the north district school heard a knock.

The class in reading, then in evidence, halted in the midst of a paragraph of concert utterance, and Alice Page opened the door to find two stalwart young men standing there. With a quick impulse of prosperity she stepped out and closed the door behind her, only to find herself clasped in a big brother's arms and to receive a salute that was heard by every pupil in the little schoolroom. Then she drew back face she freed herself and then presented a small hand to the other young man, who took it gravely.

"I think you are both just as mean as you can be to surprise me and in this way," she said.

Two explanations were then made, the two visitors were invited inside and given seats. The class in reading was then dismissed with that thrilling called to what was now seemingly to them an unexpected half hour's holiday, and for a dozen minutes the school or a ghost at the window would not have produced any more consternation than those two strange visitors. This class, that one by one filed up in front of the teacher's desk to introduce themselves in line, stood trembling, and the boy at the head, to whom was put the first ever had to do with a stove, a sound. The next one spelled it wrong, and it was his turn to go down and finally spelled right by a girl who could hardly do better than whisper it. She was told to go to the head, and after that the rest did better. The search for knowledge in that school had received a setback, however, for that day, and Alice decided to do the wisest thing and dismiss her band of pupils without delay. When the room was cleared of them she turned to her two callers and said with mock seriousness, "The first class in department will now dismiss properly."

"Propriety is—is— Propriety," replied her brother, "consists in two young men surprising one small and very saucy schoolma'am and letting a lot of imprisoned boys and girls escape to the woods and enjoy an extra hour of freedom."

"Not right," said Alice severely. "The next pupil will now answer—"

"Propriety," answered Frank, "consists in two young men coming from the city and relieving one tired schoolteacher from her duty and permitting her to go and gather flowers if she will. But which was the girl you told the fairy tale to, Miss Page?" he added as Alice began putting her books away.

"The only one in the spelling class you two bold, bad men didn't scare half out of her wits," she answered.

Frank walked over to the room, peering curiously at its rather primitive fittings.

"So this is what you call a temple of learning," he remarked as he surveyed the barnlike room. "It is a mystery to me, and the first time I was ever in an old time country schoolhouse. I should like to peep through one of the knotholes some day and watch the performances and hear you call a class over a piece."

"Now and better not try it," answered Alice, "unless you want two or three farmers to sweep down on you armed with scythes and demanding to know what you are doing there."

When she had locked the schoolhouse door they got into the carriage the two young men had come in and left the forlorn little temple to the solitude of the trees and bushes that almost hid it from the road.

"I will stop in the village," said Albert as they drove away, "and leave you two to go home or take a ride, as suits you best; only, mind, be home by six, dear, for I shall be very hungry."

There is no time when a drive along the country roads is more delightful than when the trees are fast growing green and the wayside is spangled with daisies and buttercups.

"Let's go around by the mill pond," said Alice after leaving the hamlet in the village. "The road to it follows the creek up in that way. We may find a few lilies in the pond."

The brook beside which they were driving was the outlet of a small artificial body of scenery as it came leaping over the dam, and Alice had remembered the filling the pools with foam decks, and the old mill, with its great wheel dripping and glittering in the sun, which had proved even a greater curiosity to Frank than the locomotive. He looked at the horse, and, helping his fair companion to alight, the two went inside the old mill to see the rumbling wheels. Alice introduced her escort to the miller, and after that gentleman had shown the mysteries of grinding he invited them out to the pond, and after bailing the old leaky boat, which was unable the two visitors started after the lilies.

"Mind you don't tip me over," said Alice. "I can't swim."

"If I do I'll rescue you or drown with you," he answered gallantly. What silly nothings those two young people uttered as they made the circuit of that long wood bordered mill pond! One at least was just tasting the first sweet illusion of love, and the glassy surface of the water, the green of the trees bending over it, the bunches of water fog growing here and there and the lilies with their patches of floating pads, with now and then a white blossom, made a most picturesque background for the girl who sat in the stern. Her pleasant face, shaded by

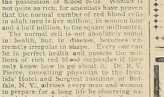
IN WEALTH. IN DISEASE.



Man is a millionaire many times over in the possession of blood cells. Though he is not quite so rich, for scientists have proven that a healthy man has only about five million cells to the cubic inch of blood, and in a half million, to the square millimeter, there is room for but one. Disease is caused by the presence of too many round, white cells in the blood, instead of the ill-shaped corpuscles, the person's blood is poor, and the more of these the corpuscles are more nearly round. WHERE THE BLAME RESTS.

The Manitoba "Free Press is not astonished that Manitoba was not enlarged westward. It says, "the time when the Canadian authorities should have extended the boundaries of Manitoba westward was twenty years ago, when Sir Norquay government, then in power in this Province, made a formal demand to that effect, a demand which the Government of Sir John Macdonald, then in power at Ottawa, refused to grant." Sir John's opportunity on that day does not now exist, the people of Eastern Canada being strongly opposed to inclusion in Manitoba. Sir Wilfrid referred to this in his speech introducing the autonomy bill. The Manitoba "Free Press" thus explains the reason for their unwillingness:

Why is it that the people concerned are not anxious? There was a time, and that not so many years ago, when they were desirous of a coming-on disposition—so much so that an invitation was made to Premier Robbin to discuss the question with Premier Hanlan in a public meeting at Indian Head. Mr. Robbin's absence on that occasion killed what sentiment there was in Eastern Assiniboia in favor of annexation to this Province. Mr. Robbin is a different man on the platform now from what he was then. He became himself in hand better. At that time it was customary with him, when once he started blustering and raging, to let himself go. He let himself go at Indian Head, and was guilty of actually try to bulldoze the people of Eastern Assiniboia. He threatened, if they proved recreant to his command that they should forthwith become writing agitators to be annexed to Manitoba, to punish them in the future with heavy railway freight rates specially to be devised for their instruction. This was where Mr. Robbin made a most lamentable blunder. With the exception of Mr. Robbin's ill-starred exposition to Indian Head, the present regime in Manitoba has pursued a policy of moderation on this question.

"THE NEST OF TRAITORS," BY ONE WHO WAS IN IT.

While Mr. Foster was paying his respects to Mr. Sifton and Sir Wilfrid Laurier over the Cabinet changes, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in the Senate, was paying his compliments to Mr. Foster, Mr. Haggart and others, remarks the Montreal Herald. With a high regard for scientific accuracy, Sir Mackenzie was explaining that whether said or did not use the expression "Nest of Traitors," he ought to have used it, and to prevent misunderstanding, would use it now. He read a letter, written during the last election, to explain why he did not interfere to help Mr. Foster in the election. In that letter he said he could help Foster, because the explanations that gentlemen was giving about the Cabinet break up of 1896 were "absolutely untrue." He hastened to add that "that exemplary statesman," Mr. Haggart, being a "historian of the Manchuman type," would not be expected to give a correct version of what happened. So, not being able to trust those gentlemen (in deference to Earlscliffe, where he had to "call them gentlemen) to tell the truth about the conspiracy, Sir Mackenzie proceeded to tell it himself. He told (the sly methods used by the conspirators to get him to invite Sir Charles Tupper to Canada, and of how Sir Charles forgot to call on the Premier for a long time after he got home; how, having been warned by the late Hon. J. F. Wood that Wood had gone out with the others; how, as he learned afterwards, while he was paying his New Yea's visit to Mr. Foster's house, Mr. Foster and others were completing the overthrow in an adjoining room; how even a shaped to lead him to believe that the Tupper appointment was intended to be only temporary, Mr. Foster's "young blood" being what was really needed in the Province; how the conspiracy, having given Mr. Custgren fifteen months to arrange a meeting between Bowell and Tupper, hurried in the resignation before Mr. Costigan got back; in short, Sir Mackenzie told the whole story of dishonor, concealing nothing, repeating nothing except his weakness in taking the reprobate back into his Cabinet. It was a terrible flagellation.

Couldn't Officiate.

"Why gave the bride away?"

The Croup.

It's a terrible thing, isn't it? Somehow, that awful cough, that hard struggle for air, can never be forgotten. Be a little forehanded and prevent it. Keep Vapo-Cresolene in the house, and when the children take cold let them breathe in the vapor during the evening. It goes right to the throat, just where the croup lies. All irritation subsides the cough quiets down and serious trouble is prevented. It never fails to cure whooping cough.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Ogder wishes it denied that he urged that not over 60 years should be chloroformed. Now if he will also disown the 40-year limit idea he will be restored to favor once more.

Now notice how the Mail and the other organs that have been belittling Sifton and gaining him as a self-seeker and political mal-contents will discover in him the character of the true statesman. Isn't that sort of party warfare disgusting?

Hon. Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, yesterday tendered his resignation as a member of the Laurier Cabinet because he regards the clause of the autonomy bill as establishing a dual system of schools in the Northwest beyond that which at present exists.

While Foster put on an air of Spartan virtue and lectured like a Saint in the Commons on the duty of Ministers to their leader and to one another, Sir Mackenzie Bowell was in the Senate exposing the secrecy and duplicity of Foster and his fellows of the Nest of Traitors. The two reports make rapid reading.

Globe: The directors of the Amalgamated Copper Company have decided to issue a report on the company's affairs. Their policy of secrecy and mystery was the ground-work on which Mr. Thos. Lawson, of Boston, based his successful Democratic assault on New York stock market prices. Mr. Lawson has thus at least won some result for the public by forcing a change.

In an address at Windsor Mr. Bellamy, inspector of Dentro Normal Schools, said, "Ninety per cent. of the pupils who are dull at school study development is the bright, brainy men of the professions and business." Mr. Riley's percentage, we think, is rather high, but it is a well-known fact that the brilliant master often loses in the race with the plodder, the lad who is not naturally bright, but who by dint of hard work and persistence, forges ahead. There is encouragement in this to the backward boy, and a lesson to the clever, but easy-going one. Development often comes late, but it generally comes to the diligent worker.

Hamilton Times: One of the speakers at the Canadian Club last night remarked that "if some of the rich men of Ireland would take out the money they had lying at interest in the bank and invest it in something that would do the country good and build it up, the result would soon be felt in a commercial way." Unless the bank institutes lack of grasp of the functions of our banks. They do not hold the money for all on which to trade. Far from it. They make it work; they are merely investment agents for the depositors. The banks who deposits his savings in the bank simply furnishes the capital for somebody to do business with. But, anyone how would it take away it?

The New York Journal of Commerce reflects that while there is a general standard of business conducted by individuals upon direct personal responsibility, which makes fraud and dishonesty the exception, and severely discountenances deception whereby one gets the better of another by craft or the unrestrained use of unfair advantage, the standard seems somehow to lose its hold when business enterprises are undertaken on a large scale by means of the machinery of corporate charters or public franchises, and a great combination or association of capital under concentrated control. Why it should be so it is not proposed to explain, for robbery, whatever the method employed, is just as evil as if it like result were secured by individual action in small dealings. In short, our contemporary confess that the big combinations simply revert to the barbaric methods which the law of public interest and freebooters.

Globe: "The good old rule . . . Sufficeth them, the simple plan that those should take who have the power . . .

And those should keep who can."

Globe: The explanations made yesterday by the Premier and the Minister of the Interior of the causes which led to the recent resignation of his portfolio were strictly in harmony with the best traditions of the party system in which each of which they were given. They were entirely undiscussed, and even unraised, the merits of the Autonomy Bill upon on which those two eminent statesmen found themselves irreconcilably at variance. That difference of opinion was stated, but without any exposition or comment, and the House of Commons was expressly informed that neither political antipathy nor personal friendship would be subjected to rupture on account of the necessary official separation. It is to be regretted for the sake of the courtesy of Parliament, that Mr. Foster and other members of the Opposition were not equally dignified in their manner of treating the Cabinet crisis, and that they spoke in such a way as to cause the absence of their leader to be general, by regretted.

"THE BOYS" ENTERTAINED.

Delightful Dance March 2nd in the Benson House Assembly Rooms.

One of the most entertaining and enjoyable events of the season took place on the night of the big snow storm when "The Boys" met to give their lady friends a good time. Every thing passed off most successfully, there being no delays, and miss Jose O'Neill and his excellent staff of attendants are receiving much deserved praise for their attentiveness to the guests during the dance. Thirty couples were present and when they all gathered together in the large and beautifully decorated dining room for their dances it made a most pretty scene. The Gibson orchestra, of Toronto, furnished lively and delightful music for the occasion. A buffet luncheon was served upstairs, and the pretty arrangement of the several tables in the dining room, the halls and adjoining rooms, was entrancing, while the cozy corners, divans, lounges and tables scattered about, grouped in twos and threes the guests, was a handsome and delightful arrangement on the part of Mr. O'Neill, the proprietor. The supper and luncheon was something out of the usual order. Among the outside guests, were Miss Carnegie and Miss Hendrie, of Port Perry, and Mr. Laidlaw, of Port Hope. The chaperones for the pleasing event were Mrs. J. Ross Robertson, Mrs. G. H. M. Baker, Mrs. J. B. Warner, Mrs. Dr. Allan.

Its pleasant taste and prompt cures have made Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Raspberry a favorite with the mothers of small children. For sale by all druggists.

Big Bill for Snow Shovelling.

What the recent snow storms really cost our railways may not be known for some time to come, but we are in a position to give the exact sum spent by the C.P.R. in making an open cut through the snow between Burketon, Lindsay and Bobcaygeon. Between 200 and 300 men were sent out daily from Lindsay on several days, and on Saturday last Station Agent Anderson, of Lindsay, paid out $1,800 to the men so employed. It was a welcome sight for our merchants to see how they had most of the snow spades.

Horse Buying is Brisk.

Mr. Wm. Bowes, Lindsay's "old reliable" horse buyer, shipped a carload of eighteen fine animals to Montreal Tuesday. Several of the teams averaged 3000 each, and all of them were three choice drivers in the lot. Taken as a whole the animals were of a very superior class—so much so that farmers who looked them over in the stable from time to time intimated they would return and see what they had been picked up in Lindsay vicinity. Buyer Bet. 1st last. Mr. Bowes landed 83 head of horses, and has 800. Mr. Bert Bowes, holds the record for having purchased 88 since last December.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, MARCH 16, '06.

SAM HUGHES, MISCHIEF MAKER.

(Winnipeg Free Press.)

That terrible man of war, Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., who thinks in terms of grey tweeds and talks in terms of rifle volleys punctuated with common shells, finds it hard to settle down to the piping times of peace which prevail in Canada. Ever since his achievements in South Africa, when he left a company he never saw the Boers before him like chaff, his mind has run on nothing but warfare with its slaughters and devastations. Here is the way he talked to a representative of the Toronto News on Saturday last:

"Marching words, these words of rejoicing in the unbinding of the Dominion Parliament forces sportive reminiscences of the old days of war.

So spoke Col. Sam. Hughes, M.P., on a report of the Special Session of King Edward this morning.

"What form of a rebellious colonist" Billies if necessary. The bill as to them originally proposed in Ireland was not introduced in Canada. It remembers me of the dark ages.

"Will Roman Catholics fight?

"Yes, if they are ordered. Protestants will fight to a man. Gallicians will fight. Any Canadian will fight for liberty, they say. They do not want imperial officers.

Within the limits of our own country, these words of rejoicing would approbate smile and the remark, 'It's only Sam Hughes talking again.' But outside Canada such pot-boilers appear but do this cause no harm. Coming as they do from a member of the Dominion Parliament, they can then be regarded by people unacquainted with Canada as the other light than as going to show that we and order do not exist in this country. People outside the Dominion cannot be expected to understand that Sam Hughes is a free-acting figure of irrelevancy. The sort of people who make the most desirable soldiers do not want to make their homes in countries where they have any reason to believe has not yet emerged from the stage of lawlessness. Hence it is a pity that such a brayer as the reverend Samuel should be on a pinnacle to cause the noises he makes to be regarded seriously beyond the bounds of Canada.

Weekly Sun: A battle is being waged in Kansas which eyals in importance the struggle between the free soil and slavery forces of forty years ago. The present conflict is between the State Legislature on the one side and the United Oil monopoly on the other. Kansas is a large oil producing State, and the Standard Oil Company succeeded in crushing out competition. To give the oil producers relief the Legislature has passed a law providing for establishment of an oil refinery somewhere in the State. Rather than do this the Standard Oil Company has resolved by closing up its refinery in Kansas, but the action appears to have stimulated the Kansas legislature to more aggressive action. The election of a Liberal in Westmoreland, England, was a distinct triumph for the Liberal party. The former member had rested on the fiscal policy, and the electors took the first opportunity to get rid of him.

We never heard so much Chamberlainite talk about the ruin of the cotton trade in Great Britain that it somewhat surprises us to find that there are now thirty new cotton mills being built in Lancashire, the total spindleage of which will be 1,000,000. Evidence of the facts is hard on Mr. Chamberlain's theory.

"The Irish" says a statistician, "never commit suicide. Practically France, Ireland, Italy, Spain and Russia will hear of ninety suicides of Germans, Russians, Italians, Frenchmen and Yankees, to one Irish. Not one Irish suicide, and maybe you would hear even of that." There is a rhyme to the reason of which they may well be proud. A brave, hopeful, plucky race does not in his sense of reward God's refuge of self-destruction.

The people of the various municipalities composing our neighboring county of Halton are evidently much wrought up over the proposed redistribution. The Dominion Parliament forces severe economies on the people of Canada.

So spoke Col. Sam. Hughes, M.P., on a report of the Special Session of King Edward this morning.

RECITAL AT ST. JOSEPH'S.

Music Lovers Enjoyed a Rare Treat Wednesday Night.

Those who were present at the Recital on Wednesday evening, March 1st, at St. Joseph's Convent, enjoyed a rare treat in the artistic rendering of a good classical music. The following program will speak for itself. Miss Ponse's interpretation of each selection was an inspiration. In all music lovers, and an incentive to the numerous pupils, who are preparing for examination work along the same lines. Mrs. Armstrong's singing was the finish required. Her sweet and powerful voice indicated excellent training, and her delicate shading of the words of difficult selections showed the real artist and musician.

VICTORIA CO. CHEESE BOARD

MR. WM. FLAVELLE SAYS BOXES USED LAST YEAR WERE FAULTY

Annual Meeting on Wednesday—Old Officers Were Re-Elected.

A meeting of Victoria County Cheese Board was held yesterday in the Council chamber for the purpose of electing officers and hearing the different reports. Amongst those present were: Messrs. John Dobson, Stanfield's Nogent, Omeo; Rea, Rosboro; Scrimger, Pool Creek; Kennedy, Dunsford; E. Shibe, Maple Leaf, Hill; Mapleson; Tarrs, North Verulam; Grieve, Mt. Harvey Cheese Factory; Grieve, and Messrs. Lytle, Flavelle, Ross, Ketchen and six or two others.

The Board's Business.

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

Treasurer Rea read the treasurer's report, which showed cash on hand from last year, $14.15; collected Board fees from 15 factories, $1 each, $15.00; collected insurance from 15 factories, $15 each, $225.00. Receipts, $254.15.

The accounts were: Jos. Watson, heating building, $2; Watchman, $10; Secretary, $25; Secretary-Treasurer of North Victoria cheese, 20c.; dues for Dairymen's Association, $2.65. Total expenditure, $254.15. Investment $289.20; cash on hand $1405.

After a lengthy discussion it was moved and seconded that the secretary inform Mr. Publow that the Board is not satisfied with him, and that the names of Messrs. Dobson and Scrimger be submitted for the position.

Cheddars Wanted in England.

Mr. Staples said he hated to pay benefit from them. He believed in inspectors. He would like to see a big cheese in their place.

Mr. Wm. Flavelle—It is some what like a war of references to boxes. As you all know, I have just returned from a trip to the old country of seven, and I was surprised to find that Australia and New Zealand, the Australia butter is put up in such a manner that it will keep well. It improve cure. I think the cheese boxes should be made larger. We do a big cheese business in the West, but we have to pay the duty on the twine. They are thirty pounds of twine. We would like to get them uncolored or white cheese is growing more popular. Some are colored, some colored. One matter which effects the cheese trade in the old land, was that a large number of cheese were sent over by the Canadian who have a great number of brands on the boxes. They should be all painting. The boxes need to be painted down on the end. It is important to put on top of each other, the weight should be on the ends. The cheese are ship to the other side are satisfactory to the buyers.

Mr. Gillespie—Mr. Publow said at the meeting that there were 1,000 cheese shipped to England last year. Mr. Publow has been with us for seven years.

Mr. Flavelle—Mr. Ketchum, of Rider & Ketchum, would have been here if he knew what was going to be up in the old country. He asked me to tell the Board that he was in favor of furnishing the boxes this year, and as good a box as the Peterboro factory turned out. He would do it "same price."

Mr. Gillespie explained that the reason there were two prices, 13c. and 13½c. was because the price last year was on account of the two different boxes that were used at two prices.

Mr. Rea—"Mr. Ketchum agrees to keep the same price as Peterboro."

Mr. Flavelle—"He would like to get Peterboro last year for 13c.?"

Mr. Rea—"Yes."

Mr. H. J. Lytle—"I saw the Peterboro factory with my own eyes, and pure with Mr. Ketchener's."

Mr. Stapleton—"Between Peterboro and Shop were the last 1 shall ever buy at 13c."

Mr. Rea—"I said that the general price all over was 13c."

Mr. Flavelle—"I think it is only fair that we should patronize our own factory."

Mr. Lytle said it was not a question of patronizing, but a matter of life, but where the factories could get good boxes they required. Peterboro boxes were secure and Burke & Ketchum boxes nearly all the cheese makers in this district. There were Rider, Ketchum and Peterboro boxes.

Mr. Staples—"Sometimes the boxes have been too small, but last year they were all right. I am not going to compare Peterboro boxes with Burke's, I would say go them—Burke's are good."

Mr. H. J. Lytle—"Last year the Ketchum factory was shut down for business and boxes of the latter part of the season were made by the first. They have a large shed and they are ready for shipment use."

Mr. Flavelle—"I assure the, if we can get a good box at the same price of boxes we should get it."

Mr. Rea—"I will see them."

After further discussion the subject was dropped and on motion last years officers were re-elected as follows: President, W. J. Thos. Robertson; Secretary, Mr. F. Shier; Treasurer, Mr. Rea.

Mr. Robertson thanked the members for their confidence shown in him, will, after which the meeting adjourned.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

Popular Member of the Adams Grocery Staff Presented with Address.

On March 1st the members of the staff of Mr. D. D. Adams' grocery assembled at Mr. Herb. Morrison's, Kent-st. Mr. J. C. Shannon, a popular fellow employe, was the subject of the gathering, the object being to have some days ago announced his intention of leaving Lindsay for pleasant fields and associations formed during the last seven years in order to join his father and brother in Redmonton district, where they will engage in cattle ranching, on a large scale.

When all had assembled Mr. Jos. Brown, acting as chairman, stepped forward and read the following address, on behalf of the staff presenting Mr. Shannon with a purse containing the gold, and a pair of handsome gold cuff sleeve buttons bearing the initials J. C. S. Both gentlemen are members of Lindsay Lodge, No. 140.

Mr. John C. Shannon, Dear Sir,—Upon your departure for the far west, we, your fellow employees, desire to express to you our goodwill and best wishes for your prosperity in the future.

During seven years that you have been amongst us your cordial demeanor and excellent business quality, ties have won for you a high place in our regard and esteem. We have always found in you a manly and true companion and friend, whose genial temperament and ability will win you many friends and always the confidence wherever you go.

We should be glad to have you remain with us, and sincerely regret your going, but our knowledge that your going will result in your own and family's welfare, is a source of joy to your departure.

It is our desire at this present time to assure you of our friendship and good will, and we cheerfully regret that our words on such an occasion cannot adequately express these sentiments. To conclude in a feeble way these words we ask you to accept this little gift as some tangible reminder of what we have endeavored to say.

Wishing you all prosperity, we remain your friends and well-wishers.

Signed on behalf of the D. Adams Grocery staff,
JOS. BROWN.
MELLIE WARD.

Lindsay, March 1st, 1906.

Mr. Shannon made a short but feeling reply, in the course of which he stated that he would regret leaving Lindsay for many reasons, and that of all was the fact that they step from a number of kind friends. Friends in the Adams store. A place where four years were spent in social intercourse, after which he wished them a very success.

His Sixtieth Year.

(Chicago Inter Ocean.)

"Bring on the chloroform, my dear," Exclaimed the hoary sage,
As he made out his final year,
I'm sixty years of age.

"Bring on the chloroform, my dear,"
And do not stop to weep.
Nah, do not even drop a tear,
But put your pip to Step.

"Bring on the chloroform, my dear,
And do not have a sigh,
My usefulness is over here,
So kiss your pa good-bye.

Cheer Up.

Th' spring is here, almost here—
Cheer up.
It's just about that time o' year—
Cheer up.
No use ter mope an' grouch around,
The frost is almost out th' ground.
Th' rain will soon be trippin' down.
Cheer up.

Th' robin redbreast soon will come—
Cheer up.
Th' bees will soon begin ter hum—
Cheer up.
Th' sap is goin' from th' trees,
There's wonderful springy in th' breeze,
They tired feelin's in my knees.
Cheer up.

Th' wild geese soon will northward fly—
Cheer up.
In great big arrows in th' sky—
Cheer up.
We bid farewell to ice and snow,
An' all th' chilly things must go,
So let th' chilly March winds blow,
Cheer up.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure disease; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere: your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some one who uses Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what a medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. If you own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $1,000,000.

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving by thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. But we publish on every bottle certain facts. Let us show you what is the action of it. It has a reason germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and fungous—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the whole secret of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill the germ in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that nothing is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and you realize how difficult and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are killed the disease must end—and end forever. That is inevitable.

Try Free—Following Diseases Always Helped by Liquozone

LINDSAY RINKS WON TWICE.

DEFEATED PETERBORO IN THE MORNING, ORILLIA IN THE AFTERNOON.

Orillia Lost the Shephard-Needler Cup by 17 Points Plus 2's.

Never in the history of curling has such progress been made in the game as during the present year. Those who have dropped in to see the regular rink games have watched game after game where the playing has been in Tankard form, and as a result of keen and earnest play in the various games rinks have been chosen for foreign games they have invariably put up a first-class game, and though the rinks were chosen in March, had to play as many players as possible chance to play, still, the result is the same—the game with Peterboro in the morning, and the game against Orillia in the afternoon was a 19- serial call story. "Lindsays up."

The local players were very glad to have another chance at meeting Peterboro in a friendly game, and we trust this, not more of these friendly games may be played. On looking over the score cards of The Post we notice that back in the eighties and early nineties of a rare thing to have a week pass without a match with Peterboro. May the good old times return. The game against Newcastle on Thursday, March 2nd, were close enough to be interesting, each of the Lindsay rinks were up all the time, the lead in the third rink was behind enough to keep the score fairly close, the game ended with Lindsay six up. SHEPHERD-NEEDLER TROPHY.

The first of the above was played the second game for the Shepherd-Needler cup, Orillia and Lindsay resulting in a win for Lindsay by 27 shots, and on the afternoon playing with a good margin to count, the game ended although many of the "old reliables" were absent, Lindsay has now won four way this time by 37 shots. In Orillia three out of the four rinks were up, each of them five points, Lindsay was down two points. Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. A. Watson for the rink for their victory over one of Orillia's "good men" Mr. Orillia lost. It seems that there is plenty of coming material.

All the rinks playing at home were up. The draw:

Previous to the game Mr. O'Connor headed the procession, winning by the good margin of 23 points, he had his man guessing all the time. His rink was strong and they played a fine game. The other games were close, and the contests were one of keen, any excitement, and as a result a splendid game of curling was at present. Full score:

HOW TO KEEP WELL.

Strengthen the Stomach With Mi-o-na and Get Perfect Health.

The source of health is the stomach and the digestive system. When these are weak disorder reigns throughout the organs of digestion so their work regularly and unconsciously, like a perfect machine.

Those who use Mi-o-na do not have a sallow complexion, sunken cheeks, nor flabby flesh. Their skin has a ruddy glow, the eyes are bright, the breath sweet and the step quick. In short, the users of Mi-o-na have the maximum of good health and appetite, vigor and vitality.

Nine-tenths of all sickness comes from a weak stomach. Long years of fresh, shattered nerves, flitting, heartburn, sick headaches, broken rests, spots before the eyes, rheumatic twinges, and general weakness and debility. Take a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal and all irritation, congestion and inflammation in the stomach will cease and the digestion be soothed and relieved. In fact, the stomach will become well and strong and the whole system filled with strength and vitality.

Even if a weakness stomach has been going on for years, a single day of health, where life is one long misery, will convince you that Mi-o-na will effect a cure if the simple directions in each box are faithfully followed. Druggists everywhere have sold Mi-o-na for years on Mi-o-na bought from them stands if full satisfaction. If the leaper from whom you bought Mi-o-na does not care to refund the money you can write to E. T. Booth Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, N.Y., or Toronto, Can., and your money will be sent to you at once. Mi-o-na tablets are sold for the price of 50c. a box.

(New York Journal)

Pay no allegiance to Dr. Osler's thoughtless remark.

Forty, as a matter of fact, is the prime of life, not at the age at which to end.

The man who at forty begins his real life has real study, his real thinking, and his real work.

He has come anything before that and got a good deal more much the better. But for no man thing does self nature do or year the quality of work and achievement.

At 40, Disraeli, the great Jew, was patiently trying to make the English people believe in him.

A generation after that he was hewing English lumber, making the Queen Empress, of India, the country that his people came from, getting the Suez Canal for England, fixing up the treaty of Berlin and doing a goodish Cyprus out of the arrangement.

Young man, take care of your health. Keep your mind active and sober, that you may live at 40 to live correctly and usefully.

FOUGHT OFF THE WOLVES.

Few men could go unharmed through the terrible experiences which recently befell Mr. M. A. Mahoney of Fairbanks, Alaska, now Dawson City, on the Yukon river, says the Daily Mail.

Mr. Mahoney brought out with him from Fairbanks to Seattle, in the Washington state, the body of the late acting-Gov. of Alaska, Mr. Hunns. Placing the corpse on a sleigh drawn by ten dogs, he set off alone on the trail for Valdez, on the Pacific side of Alaska.

After two days' travelling he was attacked by timber wolves, who made a desperate assault on him and his dogs. That night the lonely traveller kindled a huge fire, drove the coffin containing the corpse as close to the blaze as he could, and, sustaining himself on the frugal fare of night vigil, watching intently the flickering flames for the glint of the shadows and the gleaming of their eyes in the darkness.

A FEARFUL VIGIL.

Unluckily for him, the Yukon Valley trail is not always well travelled, and he met no one during his long journey.

The next night he had to go through the same ordeal, the only thing being the only protection from the fiercely which assailed him and howled round the little camp.

On the third night he got through after exhaustion he fell asleep, but was awakened by feeling the muzzle of a wolf on his breast. Instinctively he seized the animal's throat, hurling brands from the fire, and waved it round his head, thus driving off the beast.

The following night matters reached a climax. The lonely man was utterly worn out, and could hardly keep his eyes open even by the constant use of his rifle. He was often nothing since the early morning, while the disappointed animals had become much bolder, and even in the very traveller forced to cut out of his pannikin one of the leaders of the pack spearing it to death.

Mr. Mahoney was obliged to leave a paper and shortly after had a fight with the wolves, that lasted all night. With flaming and branches full of resin, he stabbed and thrust at the forms of his foes in the darkness. Once he caught himself actually falling asleep at his post, and only the flaming wood thrust-fashion, made a beast of the night, and he nearly made around him, stopped him from falling.

Several times by a dexterous turn he managed to plunge his burning brand into the eye or down the throat of some savage wolf.

Half mad with the night, want of sleep and fear, the unfortunate man overtired came across an Indian on his team at daybreak, and at noon, after three days' continuous fighting, reached a house some seven miles out of Valdez, where he got food and sleep. Mr. Mahoney found himself absolutely safe for the first time, however, except that his hair had turned partially grey from the awful strain of the last three days.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

We will send you a sample free.

WEEKLY POST LETTER BOX

LIBRARY FOR "DOMINION."

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—One of the largest and finest battleships that is now being built for the Imperial navy is a class of four, and including the "Commonwealth," "Africa" and "New Zealand" is out of compliment to Canada to be called the "Dominion." In England it has been the necessary of late years, when battleships have been named after certain counties or colonies for the ladies to raise one of, one shilling each to be taken up, chiefly by the newspapers of such counties or colonies, to provide for a ship's library, or such other furnishings as may seem desirable for the use of the ship's company. has been made, as the "Dominion" as I think, the first of these battleships to be built after the above appropriated. Mr. D. R. Wilkie, director Merchants' Bank of Canada, has kindly consented to act as treasurer of the fund, and will receive sums from its readers.

I have not to say if you would undertake this in your capacity as Post. It has been represented by friends in England, who are interested in the navy and the Imperial idea, that such a contribution on the part of Canada would be highly appreciated. Mr. D. R. Wilkie, director Merchants' Bank of Canada, has kindly consented to act as treasurer of the fund, and will receive sums from its readers.

RICH WARM BLOOD

Absolutely Necessary to Health, Comfort and Strength — Good Blood Banishes Disease.

People with rich, red blood do not need the aid of medicine. When your feet are cold, your fingers numb and your face blue and pinched, it is a sign that your blood is thin and that your circulation weak. Your blood needs building up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make new blood—they stimulate the circulation. The new blood they make rushes through your veins to every part of your body from finger tips to toes, and makes you feel bright and healthy. Mr. Alphonse Lecoutiere, St. Leon, Que., says: "About a year ago my blood became impoverished and I was badly run down. My hands and feet were constantly cold, and I could not stand the least exertion. My trouble was further aggravated by pains in my kidneys and bladder, and often I could not go about without aid. I consulted doctors, but they did not help me, and I almost began to despair when I was advised to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got six boxes and before they were gone I knew I had found a remedy to cure me. I took the pills for about six months, during which my symptoms of my trouble was gone and I have since enjoyed good health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure after doctors and common medicines have failed, because they create fresh, new, rich blood, and so strengthen all the organs and nerves of the body. That is the way they cure indigestion, kidney and liver troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis and all forms of weakness in either male or female. They are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is a dangerous disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedy at hand. A physician should always be called in though the symptoms may indicate that pneumonia always results from a cold or from many. Much depends upon the early and proper treatment of these diseases, as threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. There is no question whatever about this, as during the thirty years and more that Shiloh's Consumption Cure has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of a full attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy is used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith of Sanders, Ark., says: "I have been using Shiloh's Cure in my practice for the past six years, and find it the best remedy I have ever used in pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." First Husband Turns up After Wife had Married Again.

Bancroft Times: About six years ago a boarding house was opened in quite forly, came back to this part of the country to preach the only true gospel to the "heathen." She took up her abode on the Monk Road and it wasn't very long until she became infatuated with a young man named Woodcock, about 15 years her junior, and they got married. After the first few years and two months ago, and they have apparently been living happy together ever since, and have a baby boy four years of age.

At the time of her marriage to Mr. Woodcock, the lady in question admitted that she had been married before to a man named Jones with whom she lived, for five years, but he was a worthless character, and she had left him from which she saw in the papers some time after their marriage that her husband was dead. Mr. Woodcock was not long ago who was very much surprised, on receiving a letter from a friend informing her that husband No. 1 was still in the land of the living.

It was rather a puzzle to her and to her friend as to what action she should take and most that there would have to be a dissolution of partnership between her and Woodcock. The partnership was accordingly dissolved by mutual consent, the household effects were divided up and with her child Mrs. Jones, Woodcock sought another home. She is still living in town, and it is quite likely that in the event of Mr. Jones' bonds fade death in the near future there will be a happy reunion.

Chairman Stewart and Messrs. R. Kennedy, C. Kellond Ivey (vice Mr. Jas. Bissell), and Jas. Jeffers and Blanchard comprised the bare quorum that made it possible for the new Board of Education to do business Tuesday. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting the Principals' reports were introduced on roll of Collegiate (24), Public Schools (1,000), Separate (200), and since 780. The communications comprised an application from W. H. Walsh, caretaker of the Collegiate, asking that his present salary of $450 on the ground of increased cost of living and the board asked for a refund on Collegiate funds. The first request was granted by Finance committee, and the last mentioned was granted, the salary to be paid in the boys' ledger.

Mr. R. Kennedy presented the report of the Finance committee, recommending a number of accounts for payment, also that after midsummer the initial salary of Pub. lic School teachers be $360, with an advance of $25 every two years until a maximum of $525 shall have been reached; that Mr. J. Collis Stewart, Collegiate staff, be granted $50 increase of salary, and that Miss Cameron, Collegiate staff, be North Ward and Provincial schools, be given an increase of $10, making his salary $225. An account for $2.50 for Dr. J. G. Tree, a trifle of one was ignored down on the ground that he was not in the employ of the Board.

Mr. Kennedy also presented the report of the Managing committee, in the absence of Mr. Bissell, adopted.

On motion Rev. J. W. Williams was appointed to represent the Board on the Public Library Board. Judge Harding was also confirmed in the seat on the Board.

THE REGULATIONS FOR LENT

CIRCULAR ISSUED BY HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP O'CONNOR, PETERBORO,

To the Faithful of the Diocese—When and How to Fast.

The circular of His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, concerning regulations for the holy time of Lent was read in St. Mary's church on Sunday at both masses. The following are the Diocesan regulations for Lent:

1.—All days in Lent, Sundays excepted, are fasting days, on which only one full meal is allowed, with a morsel in the morning, and a collation of light repast in the evening.

2.—Those exempted from fasting are: All persons under twenty-one and those over sixty years of age; likewise the sick and infirm, women carrying or nursing infants, and all who are engaged in hard labor. These may take their usual number of meals every day in Lent.

3.—The law of abstinence from flesh meat, which forms part of the ceremonial discipline of Lent, obliges all who are over seven years of age.

4.—By virtue of power granted us by Apostolic Indult, we permit the use of flesh meat at each meal on Sundays, and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, except the Saturday after the first Sunday in Lent and Holy Saturday.

5.—Fish and flesh are not allowed at the same meal.

6.—The use of milk, butter, cheese and eggs is allowed on all days.

7.—The use of dripping or lard is allowed in the quantities specified on all days except Good Friday.

8.—All are required to refrain from fasting should at least observe the abstinence from meat on the days prescribed, be more constant in prayer, practice more charitableness, and attend to their religious duties with greater exactness, so as to enter into the spirit of penance and self-denial this annual return of the holy season of Lent.

Should any further relaxation of the fast or abstinence be required by particular persons they may obtain it from their respective pastors, who are hereby authorized to grant the needed true and sufficient cause be assigned.

The yearly commemoration of the forty days' fast of Our Divine Lord in the desert reminds us of our duty to unite our fast and prayer with His, encourages us to perform salutary penance as expiation of our sins, enjoins upon us penance you shall all likewise perish" (Luke xiii. 3). Then are we taken up with the things of this life that they give too little attention to the "one thing necessary," yet this "one thing necessary" namely, the saving of our souls, is the purpose for which God in creating us and which Christ had in redeeming us. This should be the great aim of our lives. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His justice, and all those things shall be added unto you" (Matt. vi. 33). It is not enough to believe that Jesus Christ "made satisfaction" for the sins of mankind. His children of men for themselves and are eternally lost because they do not fulfill the conditions upon which the covenant of redemption was made. The merits of Jesus Christ are free agents and the ways of life and death are before us. We are free to have applied to their individual souls, or ourselves, assisted by divine grace, choose the way of life, if we would reach and enjoy life everlasting in heaven. Our loving Saviour has left us the divine mercy and greatness, placed within our reach the most powerful means for obtaining God's grace, and if we make use of the means, they will enable us to work out our salvation and reach the glorious reward of the just, eternal happiness. These means are chiefly prayer, the sacrifice of the Mass and the Sacraments, when even the slightest delay is declared by the Church, to make use, at all times, but especially during the holy season of Lent, of those spiritual helps which are freely offered and at your disposal. "Behold now is the day of salvation" (2 Cor. vi., 2).

The mother church in those latter times has moderated the severity of the fast and abstinence, on account of the weakness of her children and the many hindrances of human life in many ways, yet she expects that each faithful will observe, with exact fidelity the few and small restrictions which she has required of them. Greater self-denial and mortification of things that are lawful, and that contribute to help and comfort our bodies, will tend to compensate for past transgressions of the commandments and will excite more abundantly the merits of our Redeemer.

During Lent, at night prayers each family should, at least, recite two decades of the Beads, as a powerful means to obtain the Christian home and bringing down abundant graces and blessings on those who abide in family prayer. Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them" (Matt. xviii. 20), says Our Lord. Where parents and children assemble together in prayer, how becomes todays the day with adoration and thanksgiving to God, with supplication for pardon for their sins, and petition for confirmation of heavens favors, for the sake of Christ will be in the midst of them, and He will bless them more abundantly.

The time for fulfilling the Easter Duty commences with Ash Wednesday to Trinity Sunday, and the religious instruction of the children should prepare the faithful for the worthy reception of the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Communion. We hope and pray that all the children of the Church who are of proper age may receive the Sacrament of Penance and receive the Blessed Sacrament within the Paschal time, thereby fulfilling their duty and sincere desire to secure salvation.

Publishing of Assessment Rolls.

A number of our exchanges are pointing out that the time for the publication of assessment rolls is approaching, and advocating by The Post over a dozen of years ago, making the assessment of Lindsay was printed on the information of our subscribers and led to the discovery of many glaring inequalities. The general feeling in favor of the appointment of an Assessment Commission is manifested in many communications dates from that time. Something later on, when the members of our Board of Trade have disposed of more pressing matter, the discussion of this subject would prove beneficial.

Schmidt, of Erfurt aesdsmen to his Majesty the Emperor of Germany, and the package arrived on March 4th. It was a stout envelope containing probably a small oil cloth, a few linen kinds, and it came in bond. The account of royalty's flower garden cost Mr. Maxsom $10.

The Woman who Would And The Grocer who wouldn't.

Every day from five to fifteen letters are received by The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. from women living in the smaller towns throughout Canada, saying they have asked their grocer for Royal Household Flour but can't get it. One writes—"I told my grocer, Mr.----, that I would buy 'Royal Household' regularly if he would always keep it on hand, but he said he wouldn't take on another brand of flour until he was obliged to." Another says—"My grocer is an 'old fogie' and never gets the newest or the best things until the year after." A third says—"We haven't an enterprising grocer in our town and are obliged to send to-------for 'Royal Household' or take a poorer flour."

Write direct to Ogilvie's.

If you can't get "Royal Household" from your grocer, write to us direct—we will immediately give you the name of the nearest grocer who keeps "Royal Household" and send you also the "Royal Household" recipes. There is no good reason why your grocer should compel you to use inferior flour—no first class grocer will hesitate to order "Royal Household" for you, and even the smallest dealer will get it if you insist upon it.

INDICATIONS ARE THAT THE SCHEME WILL CO AHEAD.

A meeting of the Sturgeon Point Improvement Company was held in the parlours of the Kenson house in Thursday, March 2nd, at 2 p.m. Mr. Flavelle presided as chairman, Mr. Scromberg, of Toronto, the promoter of the Company, gave a very encouraging report of the stock already subscribed and the general progress of the Company since the reorganization. Owing to the fact that neither Messrs. Flavelle, Hoskin, nor Col. Ryerson could attend an evening meeting, it was decided to postpone the meeting for the present.

After a general discussion as to how much stock was likely to be subscribed, it was decided to elect directors of the Company, it was moved by Col. Ryerson, that W. T. C. Boyd be a director; moved by Thos. Stewart, that J. D. Flavelle be a director, moved by Col. Ryerson, that Col. Ryerson be a director; moved by G. Stromberg, that E. W. Young, G. Sewlside, Peterboro, be a director; moved by J. D. Flavelle, that Thos. Stewart, be a director; moved by Geo. O'Neil, that J. C. Scott, Toronto, be a director. Mr. Grout, who was acting secretary, was asked to cast a ballot, which he did, and declared all those nominated elected.

A meeting of the directors was held immediately after, and Dr. Ryerson, of Toronto was elected President of the Company and W. W. Creed was appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Company. A contract will be made among our citizens to place the balance of the stock, which will be required before the Company can go ahead and commence building.

Among those present at the meeting were the following shareholders:—Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, Col. Ryerson, Thos. Stewart, J. J. Miller, G. Stromberg, W. T. C. Boyd, Harrison, J. C. Edwards, J. L. Weldon, Geo. O'Neil, T. W. Grout.

Honored by Inference.

Parkdale, (Toronto) Onward.—Week The Lieutenant-Governor, in his opening speech at the Ontario Society of Artists, made a striking parallel between the university of Canada and the original theory first advocated by Mr. W. A. Sherwood, in the Canadian Magazine some twelve years ago, and in the Encyclopedia Canadiana some five years ago. It seems like the irony of fate that any one who ventures, as Mr. Sherwood did, into this unexplored field of thought, should find his contributions given to odds or worse than that to be fiction, completely confounded by the members of his own profession, and that the honor should be unintentionally acknowledged in the utterances of Lieutenant-Governor Clarke, and in the institution where it was so heartily opposed. It is sufficiently satisfactory for Mr. Sherwood to know that, although denied in Toronto, that meed of recognition which he thoroughly merited, that the "Review of Reviews" was most frank in its manner of analysis, and the Literary Digest reproduced, in full, three pages of the extracts from the article.—Our friend Mr. Broadley will join with us in congratulating our former citizen on his steady progress along the path of fame.

Bruce His Shoulder Blade.

Mr. John Meehan, carter, whose good natured face is usually met by a bulk, met with a painful accident Saturday night. While perched high up on a load of furniture the piece he was sitting on shifted its position and he was thrown heavily to the ground, sustaining a broken shoulder blade. The mishap will confine him to his house for a couple of weeks and in the meantime Mr. Pat Milloy will be in charge of his rig.

Has Many Friends in Lindsay.

Campbellford Herald:—No man in the Midland district has seen so many years of service on the roller business as Mr. Thos. Callaghan of Campbellford. For the long period of forty-seven years continuously he has visited the woods and guided the affairs of large gangs of men in the lumbering districts and is still actively employed travelling about from place to place. Mr. Callaghan was born and raised in the township of Raftbuns, and although advancing in years he can only be a useful man for many years to come.

PETERBORO AND PLUMBING.

COUNCIL OF THAT TOWN HAS TIRED OF BOTCHWORK METHODS.

In Future the Citizens will be Protected Against Imposition and Disease.

Peterboro has tried Lindsay's plan of plumbing inspection and has found it working so much so that in order to satisfy the people that they are getting what they are paying for in that line it has been found necessary to pass a new by-law and appoint a qualified inspector at a salary of $400. The Examiner says:

The new by-law does not involve the payment of fees, as Mr. Sturgeon states, everything is gratis. He explains that the plumber takes out a permit from him when a contract is taken for a job, the plumber makes a draft of the proposed work and this is examined by the inspector, who, if it conforms with the by-law issues a permit authorizing the plumber to continue with the work. After the rough work has been completed, all the fixtures and the main soil pipe is stopped and the whole system installed is filled with water. When the plumber has a suitfied himself that there are no leaks he notifies the inspector that he is ready for an inspection of the work. The plumbing inspector goes over every joint, examines for flaws, cracks and blisters, looks over the arrangement of the pipes, sees that the water has an easy flow to the stack and proper weights have been used in conforming with the by-law. He then lets the water out of the system. If everything is satisfactory a permit to finish the work is issued after the walls have been plastered, pieced and fixtures, and after seven days have elapsed, two coats of paint applied. All of the traps are set to true levels, and if no defects are found the inspector issues a certificate, and the job is complete.

The reason of the whole trap in front of the building which serves the purpose of preventing the sewerage from entering the building is one of the changes which Mr. Sturgeon says will be brought about. The improved method is to get rid of that and give the water a full and free discharge into the sewer. This also tends to clean and in the near future the effect will be much more noticeable as the sewer will be freshair breathers instead of foulair belchers.

When asked if the plumbing had been satisfactorily done in the town during the past three years, he replied that considerable work had been introduced and the people in some respects were being robbed. One of the tricks of the trade is deception. The man who sought to take advantage of it would run a length of system across the stop plug tight and when fill the pipe with water leave that point closed three feet. He puts a plug in at the other end of the line from effect of water into the system. While the purpose is showing the consumer over the job he has a man on the roof to pull out the plug at the point on the opposite end to the bottom being removed only about eight feet of water come through, whereas the whole system should have been filled. Now that the office has been created, it is likely that there will be many applications for plumbing permits inspected. If a person is not sure that the job is right, and there is no one to do so, by making a deposit of $5 have the job examined and the inspector would advise as to what alterations are necessary. In case of sickness or casualty, the Medical Health Officer has full authority to do the job in accordance to the by-law, or have the house vacated until the job has been properly done.

OBITUARY.

Woodville Pioneer Passed Away.

Mr. James Stuart, of Woodville, died on 22nd February, at the age of 78 years. He was for a long time confined to his room, and while not suffering much pain, he sank gradually to the end. Mr. Stuart was a resident of Woodville since 1856, and was a well known and highly respected. He was father of the Eldon Agricultural Society's present secretary, Mr. Hoover, and was one of the old settlers for whom the Eldon Agricultural Society showed such great reverence. He was a Presbyterian in religion, a member of the Eldon congregation, and was very loyal to the church.

Mrs. George K. Moore, Orillia.

Needless to say the sad news of the death of Mrs. George K. Moore, Orillia, which occurred on Wednesday last, came as a severe shock to her many friends in Lindsay. Mrs. Moore was a daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Ellis, Lindsay, and was married to Mr. Moore about 25 years ago. Mrs. Moore was a lady of many estimable qualities and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was a member of the Methodist church, and was very active in church work. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss one son, Mr. Ellis Moore, and one daughter, Miss Moore, at home. The funeral took place from the late residence, Orillia, on Friday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. Father Morris conducting the impressive service of the Catholic church, and the remains were taken by train to the G. T. R. station, interment taking place at Lindsay. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John T. and Frank Ellis, Harold Ellis, George Sinclair, George Leacock and J. E. Curtin.

The funeral here was one of the largest seen in Lindsay for a number of years. The body was taken to St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem was chanted, the edifice being filled by the friends and mourners. The floral tributes were many and beautiful and when the prayers were ended the wreaths were deposited on the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the remains were deposited in the Roman Catholic mortuary chapel.

The bereaved relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of a wide circle of friends in Lindsay and surrounding townships, many of whom had known deceased since early childhood.

MT. HOREB.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. W. J. Skuse has sold his farm for a handsome sum of money to Mr. Harris, Porter, of Clake. Mr. Skuse will be greatly missed in the neighborhood, his entire life being spent at Mt. Horeb.

Mr. and Mrs. Lytle left on Tuesday for their home in Bolsta, Man.

Mr. Thos. Robinson, of Lindsay, spent Sunday, visiting under the parental roof.

The many friends of Mr. John Reynolds are sorry to hear that he had his collar-bone broken and his shoulder severely cut of late by a runaway scrape. We hope for his speedy recovery.

The Mount Horeb correspondent which appeared in the Watchman, Warder weeks ago, bear very slimly comp ed by our young exp.r.t. [illegible] Mr. Skuse's farm to a friend from the east was also to credit on his part.

When more than a dozen residents of the east line gather at a house on a Saturday night there is no doubt but what they have a good time, but when they assemble at a wake gossip is the only thing in which they indulge.

Every person is enjoying the winter, even the farmers, and if they have not to look forward to a wake, as they have not attended one this winter.

DOWNEYVILLE.

(Special to The Post.)

Mrs. Mary Watson departed this life on Friday, 17th February, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. John Reid. Deceased had reached the ripe old age of eighty-four years, having been born in the township of Thurlow, Ont., in the year 1821. She came with her son-in-law to the Township of Bexley about twenty-five years ago. She leaves one son—Mr. Stephen Watson, of Gravenhurst, two daughters—Mrs. John Reid, of this township, and Mrs. Jas. Wood, of Peterboro', and several grandchildren, among them Mr. Jas. Reid and her husband have been intimately associated with the people in this village in connection with the chees business, and their sympathy, in the sorrowful bereavement, will also go forth to the many friends who gathered round their aged mother's bier. We extend our warmest sympathy. The funeral services was large and the remains were laid to rest in the Downeyville cemetery, in the Township of Ops.

Card of Thanks.—Mr. Editor, kindly permit me, through the medium of your valuable journal, to express on behalf of both Mrs. Reid and myself our deep gratitude to the many friends who so kindly came to our assistance during the recent illness and burial of my mother-in-law, Mrs. M. Watson. Also to express our deep appreciation of the weather and the unusual goodness of the roads, we found ourselves surrounded with friendly sympathetic and kind [illegible] to do for us in so many possible ways. Thanks to their kind efforts we found little difficulty and little cause for anxiety, and we trust that they, in their hour of need, will fitly appreciate with like kindness in turn. J. R. Reid.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The farmers are busy drawing in wood, grain, straw, and getting ready for seeding.

There are a great number of families lost a great deal of stock, and of so severe a type as of other years. Mrs. Bradburn, of Lindsay, is the mother of Mrs. Bradburn, is lying very low with pneumonia.

The Presbyterian and Methodist churches are to unite in the special preaching of the great revival wave of Christianity which is now in the most spoken of in the public press. Rev. Mr. Hunter, of the Methodist church, delivered a very able and instructive address with good effect in the Presbyterian church on Sunday last.

We have often felt the need of a council here in the people of Omemee of the Lindsay Court owners and Mr. Bigelow's action is very clear. No better chance of making money out of there is a farm lumber wood, and ten bush to be towed up.

Miss Hemerson, of Peterboro, is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Hall.

Mr. James Kennedy, of Dunsford, is busy on Omemee friends last Sunday.

A NEW YORK HORROR

THE DEAD NUMBER TWENTY

Heart-Rending Scenes Appal Spectators at Burning of a Five-Storey House—Rubbish Choked Fire Escapes and Skylights Were Blocked—Heroic Work by Rescuers.

New York, March 15.—At least a score of people were burned to death several were so badly hurt that they may die, and forty others received bruises in a fire that practically destroyed a five-story tenement house in Allen Street early yesterday. The fire had gained great headway before it became known to most of the tenants, and the escape of many of them was cut off until too late to save themselves. Thrilling rescues and daring leaps for life marked the fire. Firemen were carried from the blazing building. Others climbed the walls of the adjoining ladders, braved the flames and reached in imperiled rooms. Of the badly injured several may die, as they are terribly burned.

Fire Escape Death Traps.

The building has for received only the following have been identified: Rachael Solomon, 18; Jacob Solomon, 16; Isaac Solomon, 18; Jessie Cohen, 15; Rose Wiener, 21; Sander Wiener, 3m; Ida Muskewitz, 21; Harry Kauffman, 16; Rose Miller, 4; Morris Miller, 6 months. Those who escaped in the rear of the tenement house were largely responsible for the great number of the furies among its population, which approached the height in the scenes among the building after the fire was over and when the smoke had cleared away and the gun were heartrending. Nothing so pitiful and heart-rending superstition has been seen in New York City since the Slocum disaster.

A Lamp Exploded.

The fire originated in the basement, occupied by Isaac Davis, his wife and seven children. The family was in bed last night, and returning to his home from a neighboring saloon, Davis went to the store on the same floor just in time to see a kerosene lamp in the window explode from the heat within, and both tried to put out the flaming lamp, but without success, and then turned their whole attention to getting their children out of the burning building. Running and passing the house at the time saw the flames and turned in the alarm.

Coroner Goldenkrans declared after the investigation was over he never saw or believe the blaze was the work of an incendiary. The fire, he declared, was of the fire marshal, tenement house and building department, and both made police officials to appear before him at the Bayard Thursday.

The fire started in the basement and spread with frightful rapidity to the roof. The victims were caught in traps of flames. The halls and stairs were rendered impassable in a few minutes by the thick, black smoke. The heat was one of the usual crowded tenement houses. The fire-escape is the worst in the history of the east side.

The coroner's inquiry has begun an investigation to place the blame for the fatal loss of life. The fire chief of the fire department asserts that the police and tenement house department are to blame for disregard of the fire escape laws. The police department denies this charge, however, say that the blame lies on the fire escape itself. The fire escape of the nineteen dead three bodies, those of the two girls, remain unidentified.

DEFENCE IS INSANITY.

Mrs. Doe on Trial for the Murder of Her Husband.

Woodstock, March 15.—In the Doe murder trial here to-day counsel for the accused, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, a neighbor of the Doe family, swore that Mrs. Doe, she accused, on one occasion, "Sometimes I wish I had never married and her husband's ill treatment, and for the last time, having had decided, "I'll kill him if I could."

The witness declared that Mrs. Doe had at various times stated that she had been married with the idea of love and that her life was most unhappy. She frequently expressed love to get away from all her trouble. Mrs. Kennedy described Mrs. Doe to be of sane mind and responsible for her acts.

Jones Kennedy, another neighbor, also considered the accused of sound mind. He had known her for seven years. She was kind to children and he and his wife did not get along well together.

Matthew Wilson, K.C., crown prosecutor, addressed the jury, telling them to the jury, stated that evidence would be produced to show that Mrs. Doe purchased poison in Ingersoll two months before the murder.

He said that strychnine was found in the stomach of the deceased, and that the cake he had eaten for breakfast. The fact that Mrs. Doe had purchased it. The case will be continued to-morrow.

Britain's Army Estimates.

London, March 15.—The army estimates for 1905-06, issued yesterday afternoon, total $149,065,000, an increase of $4,215,000 over the last estimates. The increase is due to the provision of $6,665,000 for the re-armament of the artillery. Otherwise there would have been a decrease. The estimates provide for a total force, home and colonial, of 450,000 regulars and 272,000 men. The expenditure for the North West Mounted Police dollars stations is estimated at $1,125,916.

AT THE END OF HIS TETHER.

Kurepatkin Asks Permission to Retreat Northward.

London, March 12.—(C. A. P.)—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says:

"Gen. Kuropatkin has asked the Kaiser for permission to retreat. He has given his command, alleging that he is in urgent need of a month's rest.

"I learn on the best authority that Japan twice has approached Russia through diplomatic channels with a view to the opening of peace negotiations, but that it seems clear that the conditions which Japan demanded an indemnity and a pledge that Russia would not build warships in the Pacific for 25 years.

"The Japanese demand for an indemnity convinces the Russian Government that the Japanese resources are exhausted, and that by continuing the war only a few months longer, Russia could defeat her.

"When Kuropatkin heard of the capture of Mukden he was much cast down, and realized that he had delayed retreat too long. Now, when retreat is unavoidable, it was to sacrifice his artillery by massing the battalions so as to paralyze the enemy. The Russian gunners did their duty and saved what is left of Kuropatkin's armies."

Kuropatkin's Manly Course.

St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed to the Emperor Nicholas, assuming himself all the responsibility for the defeat, and offering to excuse except that the strength of the Japanese was underrated, and for refusing to place any of the blame upon the council of generals upon whose advice he determined to act. The Emperor immediately courage and the General's personal magnanimity in assuming responsibility, however, hardly save him. His resignation will be accepted and he will relinquish the army will lose the idol of the private soldiers.

Against His Best Judgment.

To Paris, March 13.—The opinion of Gen. Kuropatkin to offer battle on the Shahke was entirely contrary to his own judgment. He had been constantly blamed, both in the army and out at home, for operating without decision, and the decision to fight was a purely defensive and abandon the policy of retirement was made only after he had appears that Gen. Kuropatkin yielded to the pressure of the views of many of his principal generals, and decided to give battle, although fully losing the opportunity for a more successful retreat before the Japanese forces, which largely outnumbered the Russians.

The Japanese, it is reported, have ceased their pursuit of the Russian army entirely. Some of the Japanese are 25 miles north of Mukden, in possession of their advance is expected. Rumors that the Japanese have begun to make ready are attempting another move against a Russian position on the mountains from The Pass.

The Russian Army, and Hope of Japan's Financial Ruin.

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The immediate answer of the Russian Government to the defeat at Mukden is the announcement that a new army will be sent to the front. This army is being reorganized; that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky will be ready to start when the conclusions with Togo, and that the war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

The Russian Government, with the full magnitude of the disaster in Mukden still underestimated, but with the 1905 campaign resolutely already becomely compromised, retreat to Ilarbin and Vladivostok, and the Japanese pursuit, declares that the time has not yet arrived for the Japanese to humble herself.

But, what this is the official attitude, nothing but peace talk is heard in St. Petersburg. The difficulties of another mobilization on a large scale will be enormous, and the Czar knows in some quarters that it will be impossible. Something must be accomplished.

The talk, now, however, for anything like a successful termination of the war is confined to the real and secret aspects of the financial exhaustion of Japan.

Financial Minister Kokovzoff, at the conclusion of a conference on the national resources, a few days ago, is said to have tapped the table before him and exclaimed: "We can keep the war at this desk."

Tokio, March 14.—The Japanese pursuit of the Russian armies continues, and a tremendous battle is expected in the vicinity of The Pass is anticipated. The Pass, which is naturally strong, has been extensively fortified, and it is thought the Russians will rally there in an endeavor to check the Japanese.

The rapidly advancing Japanese already are in touch at The Pass. The Russians evidently are confused and exhausted and positive are short for food and ammunition, and it is believed here they will be unable to resist a strong attack.

Succeeding field reports increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will require months to reorganize the Russian armies. Estimates of the casualties given by each even reach 60 per cent. The artillery losses are especially heavy. The captured guns are not included in the total, but the numerous captured stores and munitions are valued at many millions of dollars. This loss materially adds to the crippling of the Russian armies.

The Japanese press editorial articles, in discussing the possibilities of the victory upon peace, declare Japan will unconditional continue the prosecution of the war, and has no suggestion to make on peace, directly or indirectly.

Marched 40 Miles One Day.

During the recent operations against the Russians the fifth division of the fifth army marched 40 miles in one day, greatly aiding in the achievement of the victory.

Captives taken in this last engagement make the total of prisoners now held by the Japanese 70,000. This number is becoming a very expensive problem. The Government is finding it necessary to remove all military prisoners to Iokado, probably in the Island of Yezo, and it is reported that all the captives will be removed there.

RUSS ARMY UNSAFE

Fear Jap Turning Move Which Is Now in Progress.

MAY REFUSE RUSSIA MONEY

France Will Not Lean Czar's Finances More Money Until it Knows More About Russia's Position and Intentions in the Far East—Move Tends to Early Peace.

Tie Pase, March 14.—As after the battle of Liaoyang the advance of the Japanese army against the new positions of the Russians at Tie Pase is slow. The leading columns are eight or ten miles southward, and in touch with the Russian van posts, but the operations at present are not serious. Field Marshal Oyama shows slight intentions of pressing his advantage in an immediate attack on Tie Pase.

It is possible, however, that a wide turning movement, of which reports are current, is in progress. In such operations the Japanese have the enormous advantage of several bases and lines of supply by which to move behind the Russian rear, while the Russian army must depend on a single line of communication, and, therefore, must move slowly.

In the grand army, order is being brought out of chaos with remarkable celerity. The plain in front of Tie Pase, which, on March 1, swelled with a mass of ants with the dense and confused mass of transport, artillery and infantry corps, divisions and regiments being reorganized and gathered together, has been cleared and the regiments are encamped.

The struggle for the possession of Mukden cost Japan more than 20,000 men. The Russian loss of officers and men in the engagement, the commemorial commanders and field officers.

Meanwhile, newspaper comments, with the exception of three or four, are hopeful. The Japanese people are here nowhere to live and nothing to eat. Even in Tokio, from the point of view of the battle, the connected story of the battle of Mukden and the defeat of Russia is told.

On the night of March 9 came the order to evacuate Mukden and the movement began. The movement of trains northward must be regulated so that the 97 trains of wounded, completed in nine hours, including the hasty evacuation of Mukden, and the crowding of the station platform and occupied the hospitals. Many died during the night and morning, when the private trains of Generalissimo Kuropatkin, Gen. Linevitch and Seaforth departed, but thousands remained. A full per night trains were despatched and a call was made to the Pase for all the wounded invalids. At 1 a.m. the second string was started northward and at 3.45 a.m. the last train of the third string of sixteen departed. All the trains had from fifty-two to fifty-five cars.

RUSSIANS AT TIE PASS.

Fighting With Rear Guard Continues—Russians Mass Troops.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, Monday, March 14.—(Via Fusan, March 15.)—The rear part of the retreating Russians are supposed to have reached Tie Pase. The pursuing Japanese have frequent encounters with the rear guard. General Kuropatkin must remove the supplies from Tie Pase if he intends to continue to Harbin, as they will be necessary to the Russians in the event of a siege there. The Russians have no stores between Tie Pase and Harbin.

Russian General Hurt.

St. Petersburg, March 13.—General Kuropatkin, in a despatch dated March 12, says he has received no further report of the fighting, except the number of bodies of troops, and announces that the Japanese have suffered heavy reinforcements. a broad sun hat, was career to his eyes than any of the lilies she plucked, and as she drew one sleeve up a little to reach for them the round arm was dimpled hand she thrust into the water looked tempting enough to kiss. The miller had shut the gate and gone home when they returned to the mill.

"Do you know," remarked Frank when they had left the mill behind and were driving through a bit of woods, "that I have anticipated this visit for weeks? I know scarcely anything about the country, and it is all a revelation to me. I've seen pictures of old mills and ponds covered with lilies, but no painter can ever put the reality on canvas. Why, that great level, covered with moss and churning away all day so steadily, with a willow bending over it, is a poem in itself!"

"The mill was built over a hundred years ago," observed Alice, "and has been grinding away ever since. I love to visit it, for it takes me back to childhood, and," she added, a little sadly, "it makes me live over the happiest days of my life, when father used to take me with him everywhere he went."

"But the mill will never grind with the water that has passed," quoted Frank, "and the tender grace of a day that is dead will never come back to me." I wish I had been country born. I think I've missed countless pages of pleasant memories. Do you know," he added, turning to his companion, "I am rapidly falling in love with the country and—and its pretty sights?"

"Whose sights was it he proposed upon me that way at school?" exclaimed Alice suddenly, throwing off her retrospective mood and smiling again. "Was it yours or Bert's?"

"I confess I coaxed Bert to do it. We had to take the train at 5 o'clock in the morning and have coffee and rolls at the station for breakfast and pie and sandwiches for dinner."

"And all to surprise one poor little schoolma'am and break up her school," put in Alice. "Was it worth all that annoyance?"

"Up to the present moment," answered Frank, "I must honestly say it was. This drive and the mill I consider cheap at any price."

"I don't mean this part of the surprise," said Alice, blushing a little at his open admiration, and then in soft defiance she added: "What has become of the Gypsy? Bert writes me that you two are planning trips in her already."

"She is still in winter quarters," answered Frank. "I've been too busy

Alice made no reply. The memory of what he had so evidently wished her to infer regarding his reasons for this new departure came to her in an instant and brought a little wonderment as to the possible meaning of it. Turn which way she would and propose what topic she might, he seemed bound to use it as a vehicle of his undisguised admiration. She had wished to conquer him as a friend, because he had been a friend to her adored brother when that brother needed one, and while she had written him a few chatty letters which might be printed for all the privacy they contained, she had studiously refrained from allowing him to infer even that she had any special interest in his actions.

When they arrived home Albert was on the piazza and Aunt Susan had stopped writing. The table was set with blue ware of a very old and quaint pattern, and when Alice had filled a bowl with lilies for a centerpiece they gathered around and passed judgment in true country fashion. The evening was unusually warm for June, and the two young men had smoked and chatted for half an hour Alice appeared dressed in spotless white, with a half open lily in her hair and another at her throat. The moon, which was nearly at its full, shone through the open spaces of the vine-clad porch and added an ethereal touch to the syllabic picture she presented.

"Well," she remarked cheerfully as she seated herself near her brother, "my time is yours, and what can I do to entertain you?"

"I had planned to take Frank to a trout brook tomorrow," answered Responded Albert, "and in the afternoon you and he can hunt for mill ponds and grottoes, if you like, or play croquet."

"And leave me alone all the forenoon?" put in Alice. "No, thanks. If I'm shut up for five days, and you can't get rid of me so easily. Why can't I go too?"

"I'm agreeable," replied her brother, "only a trout brook is not nice walking for a lady."

"I'm aware of that," she responded, "and I'm willing to go barefoot and full bunt for laurel in the meantime. We can take a basket of lunch with us and make a day of it in the woods." Then, as a possible contingency presented itself to her, she added: "What about the invite my friend, Abby Miles, to go for company? She and I can pick laurel, and when you have caught all the harmless little trout you want we can meet where you are and have lunch and have a picnic."

"That suits me," said her brother, and without waiting for further discussion this diplomatic fairy in white arose and remarked: "I'll go and see Abby, and then I'll trouble you, Mr. Nason, to escort me over to Aleya's. It's only a few rods, and I want you to meet her. She's every so nice."

The plan as mapped by Alice was carried out to the letter, and when the two young men joined the girls at noon they found a broad flat rock in the woods had been converted into a table cloth and spread with a tempting meal. The girls had gathered great bunches of pink laurel, and plenty of it decked the table. After dinner Alice insisted that they visit the small pond once more, and when they returned at night with two layers of trout and laurel and pond lilies enough to stock a flower stand the day was voted an eminent success.

Frank made one error, however, for just before he left the mill he slipped away unobserved and, finding the miller, put a bit of paper into his hand with the remark, "Keep this to pay for the boat," and left him hurriedly. When the old man made examination he found he had a five dollar bill. To surprises of this kind he was not accustomed, and before noon the next day there wasn't a man, woman or child in Sondgate who had not heard of it.

CHAPTER XVIII

THAT evening Frank begged for music and Alice sang for two hours or more. When the concert was ended Albert observed: "If there's one song in the house that you have not sung, Alice, I think we would sing it. I hate to have you omit any."

"I have only sung what I was asked to," also replied: "Is not that so, Mr. Nason?"

"That is true," replied he boldly, "and you have not sung one that I wouldn't enjoy hearing again tonight."

"Oh, I have enjoyed them all," said Albert, "only I thought you might have missed one, and, as Frank remarked coming home that he was hungry for music, I wanted him satisfied."

The next day they attended church, only this time all three walked back together. Alice was graciousness personified. All her jokes and smiles and all her conversation were lavished upon Frank. Some neighbors had, who intuitively felt she did not wish to be left alone with him, started to ask her to take a walk on that Sunday evening, but each time his discretion prevailed. "If she is willing to listen to any lovemaking, she has tact enough to give me a chance," he thought, "and unless she is I had better keep still."

The evening was one to tempt Cupid, for the moonlight fell checkered through the half naked elms along the roadway, and where here and there a group of maples stood was a bit of shadow. The whippoorwills had just returned to Sandgate, and over the meadows scattered fireflies twinkled. The horses clung the way to the village were wide apart and the evening air just right for a loitering walk. To Frank, anxious to say a few words that would further his hopes in the direction of this bewitching girl, it seemed a waste of good time not to take advantage of the evening and the almost past and the lights in the houses across the valley had long since vanished when he obtained a little consolation.

The chief of the evening had stilled conversation, and neither had spoken for a long time when he said rather irrelevantly: "My anticipated visit is almost over. May I ask you to go in the boat with me for one, Miss Page?"

"With pleasure," she responded in her sweetest tone; "what shall it be?"

"I will leave that to your selection," he replied.

Without a word she led the way in the boat house and, seeing the pile of music on the piano, and, finding what she wanted, opened and spread the sheet on the rack.

It was "Ben Bolt."

She sang it in a minor key, and as she sang every word: "Oh, don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt," floated out, and with the utterance of those words to him fraught with a new meaning and that a veritable sweet Alice was holding him, and that Ben Bolt, not to forget her. When the last note had died into the night air Alice was gone, her new serious eyes toward him.

"I thank you," he almost whispered. "And there won't be many waking moments in my future when I shall not think of—sweet Alice."

It was not much of a love scene, but to it it seemed a wonderful one to both of hope, and when many miles separated them, and for days, weeks and months afterward, even when doing his duty to crowd dull law reports into his brain, the one sweet glance she gave him and the tones of her voice came back with unfailing accuracy.

The first visit of Frank Nelson to the Page home, his sleighrides with Alice and the delightful days and evenings he caused no end of comment. It was known that he had been a classmate of Albert's and come from Boston, and Alice Aunt Susan vouchsafed the information that she "guessed he came from one o' the first families and that he appeared right well behaved."

That was all she really did know, for both Alice and her brother were conscious that their failings and virtues was not safe to discuss their visitor in her presence. The tempest of gossip that had more than half quieted down when it received a regular boom from the second coming. The pupils of the north end district school spread the news of their teacher's unexpected affairs, and that she had dismissed school at once and gone on with the stranger Old Amos Curtis, the miller, said of their visit, and, wonder upon wonder, how the next day "ther beau" had given him a five dollar bill "jest for fishin' fun and a leetle old boat for an hour."

She turned her now serious eyes toward

Then Aunt Abby Miles had the best and longest story to tell, and her praise of Mr. Nason, how polite he was and how he couldn't keep his eyes off'n Alice all the afternoon," was considered very good and she knew. The five dollar incident created the most talk, however. The miller had remarked that a "young feller who threw money round that way must be rich," and that remark soon grew into a story that Alice Page's beau was worth a million and that she was engaged to him.

As might be expected, the subject of all this gossip heard none of it until the storm had reached alarming proportions. Mrs. Mears was the first to tell the extent of the gossip.

"They tell me," said that worthy matron to Alice one Sunday after church, "that you won't likely to teach school after this summer."

"And why not?" answered Alice. "Don't I give satisfaction?"

"Oh, 'tain't that. I guess you can imagine what they say I want to be the first to congratulate you. They tell me that you're a pile of money, and he's awfully well favored so far as looks go. Then, handsome is as handsome does' was allus my motto."

Alice colored.

"And who mean Mr. Nason, my brother's friend?" she said seriously.

"Why, why, don't you know? I've heard that you was to be married this fall and that he is worth a million. They say he owns the whole mill, and though I don't believe that. But anyhow, I'm glad you're not to be 'Miss Ellen' no more, for I always thought that wa'n't worth splittin' up for kloddin's."

"It's news to me," was the word of it," exclaimed Alice angrily. "and if you care for me at all I wish you would tell everybody I said so."

She waited to hear no more, nor for Aunt Susan, who had lingered to chat with some one, but walked home hurriedly, as if to hide herself from the silent house she began to cool off.

"I won't believe he told Amos he was worth a million," she said to herself. "He isn't so stupid as that. But I am afraid the silly boy did give him $5, which has started all this gossip."

When Aunt Susan came in she fairly quivered with rage. "Why haven't you told me, auntie, about all this gossip that's going the rounds? Come sit here and tell me all you've heard."

"It's all nonsense, Alice," answered that lady rather sharply, "and you are foolish to mind it as I do. I've heard, of course, but so long as it's no discredit to you, why, let it go into one ear and out t'other, as I do." Then, seeing talk in this town, an' what they're say-in' about you and Mr. Nason, I'm right proud—that a young fellow like him and worth money wanted to come courtin', and that you showed he did or I'm no judge."

"Well, I'm glad you think so, for Mr. Nason is as well as Bert," Alice thought, "and I am glad I kept him at a distance, just to pay him back for the $5 he left his money."

Late that afternoon Alice called upon Abby Miles and talked about everything except the subject she most wanted to talk about, and then Abby unsuild had a Sunday evening caller, Alice came home at dusk. Never before had the girls seemed so lonesome, and as she sat on the porch and tried to talk with Aunt Susan her thoughts were elsewhere.

When the lights across the valley, which served as curfew by saying bedtime when they went out, had disappeared, she could not, and, seating herself in the dark at the piano, softly played the old chords and hummed the words of a song.

"I'll come out all right," said Aunt Susan to herself, and she waited till Alice called to her to come in and go to bed.

CHAPTER XIX.

FRANK NASON had consoled himself during the days of dull study with visions of a yachting trip in June and August, when perhaps a some manner Alice Page could be induced to come, with his mother and force him to propose and her brother or and some other friends to complete the party.

He had the Gypsy put in first class shape and sil her staterooms refurnished, and as a preliminary, which he intended Alice should occupy, upholstered in blue. So well formed were his plans that he timed the start so as to utilize the July moon for the first few days and nights, and had the boat in all the Maine coast, spending a week in Bar Harbor, and then a run up as far as Nova Scotia.

He had described all the charms of this trip to Alice and extended to her the most urgent invitation. He had obtained his brother's promise to supplement it and also to make one of the party, and he had persuaded his sister Blanch to let him with his mother, but he had met discouragement on all sides. In the first place, Alice wrote it was doubtful if she could go. It would be a delightful outing and one she would enjoy, but it would not be right to leave Aunt Susan alone for so long, and then, as her school did not close until the last of June, she would have no time to get ready.

To cap the climax of Frank's disconsolate, when July came his mother announced that she had decided to go to the mountains for the summer.

"It's no use, Bert," he said to his friend one evening. "I wanted your sister to go to Maine with us and mother and the girls and a few more to make a party, but it's no go. I can't leave your sister to go alone, and as no use if she would, for mother has determined to go to the mountains, and that settles it. If you could find any outing on the yacht we must make up a party party."

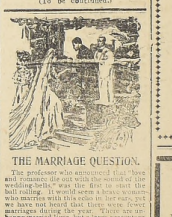
"That suits me just as well as, and in fact better than, the other plan," replied Albert consolingly. "If we have a lot of ladies along we must dance attendance upon them, and if not we can fish, smoke, play cards, sing or go to sleep when we feel like it. I tell you, Frank," he continued, evidently desiring to cheer up that young man, "girls are all right as companions at home or at balls and theaters, but on a yacht they are in the way."

A week afterward, and early one bright morning, the Gypsy, with "skipper" crew and a party of seven jolly young men on board, sailed out of Boston harbor that night dropped anchor under the lee of an island in Casco bay. She remained there one full day and the next ran to Booth bay and found shelter in a landlocked cove forming part of the coast line of Southport island. It was after dinner next day, and the crew and five of the party were either playing cards or napping in hammocks under the awning, but Albert Page and one of the boats, his pipe and sketchbook and rowed down the cove a mile to an inlet he had noticed the day before. The outer point of this was formed by a bold cliff that he desired to sketch, and pulling the boat well up behind the point, he gave the painter to a rock and taking the cushions along, he found a shady spot and began work. The sloping rock he selected for a seat was a little damp, but he thought nothing of it and lightly began to sketch.

He worked for an hour putting the weed draped rocks and long swells that broke over them into his book. Then, lulled by the soft and monotonous rhythm of the ocean, lay back on the cushions and fell asleep. The next he knew he was awakened by a cold sensation and found the tide had risen and was lapping at his feet. The cushions and the painter had left the boat, only to find it had disappeared. The rising tide had lifted the boat and painter from the rock, and it was now nowhere to be seen.

"I'm cast away on some road back up on the island," he thought, "that will lead me near the cove where the Gypsy is lying, and without boat or cushions, he started to find it. But after walking for nearly two hours and the farther away from the sea he got the thicker grew the tangle of scrub spruce and laurel. It was too thick to see anywhere, and after a half hour's struggle he scrambling the afternoon sun began to seem about due east. He had long since dropped the cushions and finally, in sheer exhaustion, he sat down on a rock to collect his thoughts.

"It looks as though I'm billed to stay here all night," he thought as he noted the evening star, "and nobody knows how much longer! There must be a



THE MARRIAGE QUESTION.

The professor who announced that "love is romance in all countries except the wedding-bells" was the first to start the ball rolling. It would seem that a man who marries with this idea in her ears, put in her heart, and in her head, is one of the many chances for one happy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy lovers could trace the business of the wife, mother or daughter.

During the past long period Dr. Pierce found that a prescription made up entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, cured nine-tenths per cent. of such cases. And this prescription for many years in his private practice he put up and sold to his patients, and in every where medicines are handled.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and unique cures, many of such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, ever feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Displacements, or Falling of Womb which they can not cure. Nor do they ask in this case any able trial of their means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness and other consequences of womanly disease. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. Accept no substitute for the "Favorite Prescription" which is sold by druggists.

THE WELSH REVIVAL

Mr. Wm. T. Stead, writing in The Review of Reviews for March, describes the great religious revival in Wales from his peculiar view-point. Describing one of the gatherings which he attended, he says:

The vast congregation were as seriously sane, as orderly, and at least as reverent as any congregation I ever saw beneath the dome of St. Paul's. But it was infinite with a passionate religious enthusiasm, the like of which I have never seen in St. Paul's. The shout that from the crowded aisles to the loftiest gallery sit or stood, as necessity dictated, eager hundreds of serious men and thoughtful women, their eyes riveted upon the platform or upon whatever other part of the building was the storm centre of the meeting.

There absolutely nothing wild, violent, hysterical, unless it be hysterical for the laboring breast to heave with sobbing that cannot be repressed, and the throat to choke with emotion as a sense of the awful horror and shame of a wasteful life suddenly bursts upon the soul. On all sides there was the solemn gladness of men and women upon whose eyes has dawned the splendor of a new day, the forgiveness of whose glories they are enjoying in the quickened sense of human fellowship and a fresh glad zest added to their own lives.

Employers tell me that the quality of the work the miners are putting in has improved. Waste is less, men go to their daily toil with a new spirit of gladness in their labor. In the long, dim galleries of the mine, where once the blasters swore, their ponies in Welshfied English terms of blasphemy there is now but to be heard the haunting melody of the revival music. The pit ponies, the American mules, have been driven on by oaths and curses since they first bore the yoke, are being retrained to go their work without the incentive of profanity. There is less drinking, less idleness, less gambling. Men record with almost incredulous amazement, how one football player after another has forsworn cards and drink, and the gladiatorial games, and is living a sober and godly life, putting his energy into the revival. More wonderful still and almost incredible to those who know how journalism lives and thrives upon gambling, and how Toryism is bread-basoo upon the drinking habits of the people, the Tory daily paper of South Wales has devoted its columns day by day to praising and defending the movement which denies war to the drink, against betting, gambling and drink.

This is the religious movement which is now spreading over England, and expressing for which we are being sat on this side of the Atlantic. The time seems to be opportune, and the work which is being done is evidently of a character which is likely to endure.

IS SIR WILFRID LAURIER CONSIS.

A number of well-intentioned, but not over-careful, people have rushed to the conclusion that in stipulating for the establishment of separate schools in the Northwest Provinces Sir Wilfrid Laurier has departed from the attitude of the earlier days save the Montreal Herald. Nothing could be further from the fact. Sir Wilfrid stands to-day exactly where he stood in 1894 when this question was first raised, and his attitude is thoroughly consistent with the stand he took in the debate on the Manitoba question. In 1894 he argued for the continuance of Separate schools in the Northwest on the same grounds that he stands on in the same language as to-day, and in 1895 he made it perfectly clear and perfectly clearly enough that he at no time took ground against the right of the province to modify the separate schools. A reference or two to this speech will make this clear.

Speaking on July 16, 1894, against a motion made by Mr. McCarthy to eliminate the second clause confirmed 1875, Sir Wilfrid said:

"I have moved all the objections brought forward to the Separate school system in the Northwest. It is alleged that it is very expensive—and very expensive than the system of public schools. So be it—I will not answer the matter with the iron gentleman. Let me, however, observe at this time that if the system of Separate schools be more expensive than the system of public schools, the more costly will suffer, and not the majority; and I think the majority are willing to pay that price in order to have their own schools and their own system of education, why should this be a matter of offence, or a subject for objection on the part of the views of objectors? Do I not know that question well? Was I not, for long years, the minority? But I will not discuss that question with you, Mr. Speaker, with the House, or with the country. I ask, is it just, is it desirable, is it equitable, is it honorable, is it consistent with the principles of British freedom that the minority should be compelled to accept the law of the majority? I answer, no! Such was the principle which was laid down by the Quebec Act, such was the principle which was laid down by the Federation Act, such was the principle which was laid down by the Manitoba Act, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1875, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1877, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1886, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1891, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1892, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of 1893, such was the principle which was laid down by the Act of

HIDEAWAY COTTAGE MUSINGS

RECOLLECTIONS OF PIONEER TIMES AND INCIDENTS IN LINDSAY,

Written at Request of the County of Victoria Historical Society.

Our cottage is situated midway between Bobcaygeon and Minden, on a double view. Facing north, I look over the mighty Scugog and across the C.P.R. and G.T. railroads, not over fifteen rods away. It is a cold morning now, for as is usual this holiday, to have taken my seat in the dining room at a south window where the sun is shining in brightly. On the outside is a big black cat sitting on the window sill spanning 'Nature.' It is a neighbor's cat, and has come to that spot every day for the last two months. Notwithstanding the unwarranted high price of flour and the combine of the Leading Bakers, that have raised bread up two cents a loaf higher than the surrounding towns, and the excessive price of butter, I greet that cat a piece of bread and butter every day, and it shows by its actions that it appreciates my kindness and kindness.

After getting tired looking at the cat I raised my eyes up and took a look up the hill, where resided on high over the houses that cover the hill. Then I thought of the lines written by Selkirk when in his lonely island home, and cast away from friends:

"How fleet is a glance of the mind!
Compared with the speed of its flight,
The tempest itself lags behind,
And the swift-winged arrows of light."

Here my mind showed its superiority in flight to the telegraph — it flashed back through over 40 years, and my thoughts things to view as quick as could be looked at. Then there was not then one building in all that section of country, except a barn of Purdy's that stood about where the cemetery now is. There was no Lindsayee, then—it was solid and nicely improved timber.

Some three years before I came to it ball, what used to be called the red mill on Scott-st., it stood on the opposite side of Kent-st. east from Robson's grocery. I was the first man to purchase a lot on Kent-st. south of Lindsay, and with my axe and a yoke of oxen I built a log house, the mighty pines that grow tall, big and shapely to choose. I did a deal of soon cutting the trees up into sawlogs and making the brush into the logs on sleighs and taking them to the mill. I got many big pine trees in the locality where the C.P.R. roundhouse now stands. The first time I went into the swamp I got lost, and it took me a whole day to get out. I also made the first trip through the big swamp north of Kent-st. and fought through to Where John D. Flavelle lives.

I built that house for myself to live in fifty-two years ago, but Mr. Flavelle bought it on coming to town, and has lived in it ever since. He has shown his good common-sense in doing so.

The steam engine used in my mill was the second brought into this county, and my planing mill was the first in the county. I am getting uncomfortably warm sitting in the sun so I will move my seat to the north window and change the view. I now see the remains of the Purdy dam. Poor Purdy! he was an enterprising man and the first man who had staked his all in Lindsay, but he raised fearful excitement at the hands of the people of the county. When Sir Richard Cartwright broke out there were several old pensioners living around here, and they thought they must be doing something to earn the favor of the Family Compact Government that ruled Canada at that time, so these old "mossbacks," wishing to take a prize in the city at somebody else's expense, hit on the plan of arresting Purdy as a spy, he being on Kent-st. east. They put handcuffs on him, and a company of these old chaps marched him off to Toronto and had him

Cast Into Prison.

Purdy certainly met with hard luck in Lindsay. After tying a term in Toronto gaol he was liberated and took a trip to Europe and attend to his business.

About eight years after this a mob of settlers headed by Cross Creeks and named Scugog Jake came to Lindsay, armed with guns, pitchforks and rails with axes, and all set to work and tear down Purdy's dam, saying that the planing mill in it was a nuisance. They succeeded, and Purdy came back broken-hearted. They tore down the dam, one party claiming the Scugog or a portion of it, and others said that all pigeons were to disappear.

The custom-sawing time will be seasons commenced to be the northern boundary from Lindsay to the north west. For two weeks, from 7 o'clock in the morning until 11 at night of the day you looked always for a string of teams with big logons flying. Sixty flew very high. About the middle of harvest the birds began to return in small flocks, and those flew—just skimming the tops of the trees. Then the slaughter of them began, and everyone shot had its

Then the sport died off by degrees as the settlers increased in numbers, and the sport died out altogether.

Lingered here for many years after the white settlers came in, and were very troublesome. They would come to the doors and demand food, and if refused would enter and help themselves. They were very fond of pork, and would take a piece of pork and put it on the end of a long pole and hold it over the fire, and when it was cooked would eat it. They were very fond of

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frahe

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and effective treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives. Backache, dragging down pains, pain in the groin, pain in the side, pain in the back, are but a few of the symptoms that accompany kidney disease. Dizziness, nausea, bearing down pains, inflammation, suppression of urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, smarting and aching or burning, or deposits like brick dust in the urinal linen, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back, settling down the inside of her groin, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should use prompt measures in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of the herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the feminine organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing down pains, urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, smarting and aching or burning, or deposits like brick dust in the urinal linen, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back, settling down the inside of her groin, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should use prompt measures in combating the disease with Lydia E. The following letters show how marvelously successful it is:

Mrs. Samuel Frake, of Prospect Plains, N. J., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For years I suffered as I had not dared hope for years with the dread curse of kidney trouble and congestion of the womb. My back ached dreadfully all the time, and I suffered so with that bearing-down feeling I could hardly walk across the room. I could get my butter, so decided to stop doctoring with physicians and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am thankful that I did, for before I had taken half of one bottle, save no more backache and all the bad symptoms have disappeared.

Mrs. J. W. Lang of 626 Third Avenue, New York, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I have been a great sufferer with kidney trouble for years, and all the time used a doctor's medicine. I decided that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure kidney disease, and began to take it, and it has cured me when everything else had failed. I have recommended it to lots of people and they all praise it very highly.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from kidney troubles, or from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of the great volume of experience which she has had, it is certain it is more than likely she has the very knowledge that you need to restore you to health. Her advice is free and always helpful.

SYLVESTER BAND CARNIVAL

VERY FEW LADIES IN COSTUME LAST FRIDAY EVENING.

The second costume carnival took place last Friday at the Lindsay St. rink, and was fairly well patronized. A number were in costume, but the presence of several ladies was greatly missed. The events were limited of a trifle slow, with the result that the onlookers became restive. On the whole the carnival and events were better than the former one, the races and competitions being more evenly contested.

The bicycle and musical leg competition and hurdle race were good and were enjoyed by th espectators. The fancy skating by Mr. W. J. Roy was an interesting feature on the program and his artistic work on snowy skates was the best seen here for a good time. Some of the costumes were good, but the majority were poor. The Sylvester band rendered some lively music, which was greatly appreciated, because of its merry tunes. The following comprise the party: "Billy" Heffernan, "Goose" Taylor, "Sammy" Morgan, "Shorty" Elliott and "Scotty" Carruth, all in costume, were features in the comical part of the evening.

Best dressed girl, Miss Mary Simpson.

Most comical, Alex. Ferguson and L. Cain.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST GERMS.

People With Weak Stomachs Most Liable to Disease.

When the stomach and digestive organs are weak, the food does not digest right, but sours, and gives fermenting mass, making it an ideal spot for the disease germs to multiply. These germs then attack your body, and Nature intended they should. Drugs cannot reach the seat of the trouble. The ordinary medicine that is taken for indigestion and stomach troubles is advertised to set upon the food some acid, and hence can give only temporary relief, because there is no certain cure in all cases of indigestion except by using some agent because it enables the stomach and digestive organs to do all the work Nature intended they should. Drugs will never do this. They simply decompose it.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are containing pepsin in the head, chest, nose and throat, relieve the gases and undigested food, lead tissue to the muscular walls of the stomach, and create a healthy appetite, sick headache, sour stomach, bad breath and is a general and debility, and should be used after every meal. No secret and digestive system by this agent, as it is entirely free from all poisonous, injurious or harmful drugs. No alcohol, no opium, no cocaine, no strychnine, no arsenic, no simple tablet, but a first-class medicine that will and your stomach will soon become a healthy one, and you will be the gayest of people.

Druggists everywhere are authorized to refund the money on Stuart's Calcium Wafers if they fail to cure you. Ask them about it. If the dealer from whom you bought them does not have them in stock, mail the empty box to the manufacturers, F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, and your money will be promptly refunded. Mail orders are carefully filled or receipt of prices 50c., 1c.

Chicago's Canadian Bishop.

Canadian-American.

The Right Rev. Samuel Edmund Johnson Anderson who assumes the office of Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Chicago diocese, is a native Canadian, being Bishop McLaren, had been coadjutor bishop since 1900. Dr. Anderson was born in Canada forty-two years ago, and was educated for the ministry at Trinity College, Port Hope. His first pastorate was in Ontario, and there he remained the number men of the far north. After a series of highly successful work he came to Chicago in 1818, as rector of Grace Episcopal church, Oak Park. In the nine years following his parish grew from a membership of 400 to more than twice that many communicants. A new church has been erected at a cost of 800,000, and the parish placed in a most flourishing condition. The new bishop had been consecrated successor of Bishop McLaren for the past five years.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS

Imrie—Ferry.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Cambridge-st. Methodist parsonage by Rev. Geo. Henderson, on Tuesday, Feb. 28th, when Miss Ethel M. Ferry was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. David Imrie, of Balsam Grove. The bride, who was assisted by her sister, Miss Rosa Ferry, of Valentia, looked charming in a costume of navy blue English cloth. The groom was supported by Mr. Frank Scroby, of Cameron.

After the ceremony the wedding party were conveyed to the Benson house, where a sumptious wedding breakfast was served. Among the grooms present to the bride was the accident that befell the horse attached to the bridesmaid a beautiful gold bracelet, the gift of the groom, a gold watch charm. The bride has resided with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Copp, Sunnyside, and is a general favorite with a wide circle of friends. She leaves for her future home near Lyndie Britain with the best wishes of all.

A Spring Awakening.

It needs not the advent of the spring poet to remind sinners in search of healthful pleasure that the life that the backbone of the winter is broken, and that within the next month or six weeks the most pressing demand for goods, the sale of which has been on a standing for six months past will be that article whose name is never in the newspapers, and the sale of which apparently is known only to his next-door neighbor, will be the article to deck on the spring trade unless he turns over a new leaf and advertises it, and gets into the confidence. The time to begin is now, and the medium is The Evening Post.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is always dangerous because it never stays long enough to bother himself, although he may have his good points about him. The physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia is not always a result of a cold or fro mthe attack of the grips and by the proper treatment of the disease, a threatened attack of pneumonia may be averted. Pneumonia is another question whatever about this, as during the thirty years and more that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil Remedy has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of pneumonia where the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, as also used by physicians in the treatment of that disease. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., says: "I have used it in my family, and have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years, and using it in my practice for the past six years, and find it a reliable remedy, and have always gotten the best results from it. It is my family remedy."

Death of An Old Lumberman.

Bob Independent: One of the well known men of the neighborhood passed away on Wednesday last in the person of Thomas Chamberlain, better known perhaps as Tommy Chamberlain. For many years he has been engaged in lumbering, and was a master hand in every branch. When his joyalty and wit flagged he was the life of a camp, and no matter how far one good humor it is since where Tommy was around. On Saturday night he was in the village and often spent an hour in song and chat. On Sunday he was taken with a stomach ache, and by Monday he was a corpse. Tommy was a jolly fellow, and his death will be sincerely mourned by many friends. He has one son left to mourn his loss, and to him and the bereaved family we tender our sympathy.

"KID" WON IN BONSPIEL.

The Victory of the Boys a Popular One—Played a Perfect Game.

The unexpected happened, in the opinion of a good many curlers and onlookers, when the L. C. I. "Kids," skipped by Ross Harstone, met and defeated the Mill rink skipped by the redoubtable J. H. Flavelle. And the boys deserved to win, because since the opening of the Lindsay Bonspiel they had played like veterans and at the same time captured the good will of their defeated opponents by their manly demeanor and abstention from all jubilation. They played the game as it ought to be played at all times by all curlers, and when they faced Skip Flavelle in the final at 5.15 Wednesday, March 8th, a number of well-wishers were on hand and many others flocked in after tea to watch the play and to await the result.

At 7.30, at or near the 6th end, the game was a tie and from that time onward the boys gained steadily, playing a perfect game, while Skip Flavelle on his mettle, but no matter how hard he tried it was found it impossible to shut the "Kids" out from scoring, and when the final end, how difficult the draw, or how soft were the ice, the boys generally managed to count the end by honest, straight curling.

Skip Flavelle and his men have carried better than they did that night, but they were playing a losing game, no rink in Canada could have stood against the boys.

THE HALLELUJAH WEDDING.

To Witness the Nuptials of Miss Anderson and Mr. Austin.

The Salvation Army Barracks was packed to be doors on 9th at 10c. a head admission, the attraction being a hallelujah wedding. The barracks was very prettily decorated with banners and mottoes, flags, and a large arch in front of the platform. Probably the happiest persons present were the bride and groom—Miss Rachel Isabella Anderson and Mr. Horace Austin, both of whom intend to go to the front in England.

The ceremony was performed by Brigadier Horn, of Toronto. The couple, accompanied by the bridesmaid and groomsman, marched to the platform and took seats on chairs provided. After a song by the audience the ceremony was interesting, and the responses of a traditional and old order to the young couple, which followed, were received with applause.

Mr. J. Blackwell in congratulating the couple took occasion to say that he had been married a number of years and proved his wife better to-day than ever before. He advised the newly wedded couple to never do allowance for each other's little faults, and short comings.

Ensign White said he had gone through the same ceremony and he felt that he could not recommend anything. He believed there were a number of the audience who wanted to follow Mr. Austin's example and get married. He advised the young couple not to set out in life with too high and sublime rules, and he hoped that God's blessing would always be with them.

Mr. Austin said he thought it was a good idea to make his example. To-night was a memorable date in his life, and he hoped the years to come are that he had been converted, and have since done all he could to assist in the cause. Next to God's blessing were those of Mr. Austin's parents, who impressively and was given an address to the bride.

Mrs. Austin, the blushing bride, in so good a style as to please the groom, the desire that God would make our home and life happy.

Mr. Austin is a member of the staff of Dr. Sparling's Mission, and is as well liked by his fellow employes, by whom presented a gift in the form of with two elegant rockers. The Post joins with many friends in tendering congratulations and good wishes.

KEEP YOUR BOY OFF THE STREETS

An Example Showing How Lads are Permitted to Go Astray.

I don't often meddle, but one day this week I was called to the police criminal court building on a matter of business, and witnessed a scene that set me to thinking. It was an almost painful reality. The jury was out on the case of a young man, a mere boy, on the charge of theft. The boy-like face was the case was a straight one. The evidence was clear. The boy sat in a dazed condition beside his counsel, and with a father and mother, a little sister of tiny years, and a number of friends in the court room. The jury soon returned with a verdict of guilty. Then came the sentence. The boy's counsel asked for leniency, as this was the first offence. The boy was sentenced to the reformatory for two years. Then the father

For Liquozone, Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Liquozone, the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We cured all kinds of grave diseases with it—hundreds of the most difficult cases obtainable. We proved that in every trouble it always accomplishes what we claim to do. Now we ask you to try it—try it at our expense. Test it as we did; see what it does. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do. You will owe it, not only to get well, but to keep well. And it will save nearly all of your sickness.

Kills Inside Germs.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a move food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. And it is a germicide so certain that we publish, on every bottle sold, a forfeit $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and Liquozone—like an ocean of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

That is the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicines are almost helpless in any germ disease. It has been the chief great Liquozone is worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that we have spent over one million dollars to supply the first bottle free to each one who will accept it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overpower the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end. We prove that. Take it and see.

HER LIFE WAS SAVED THROUGH PERKINS' AMERICAN HERBS.

Mrs. H. Satchwill, of 23 St. Patrick-st., Toronto, says: "I have been a great sufferer for over 40 years from nervous prostration accompanied with kidney and female trouble. No one could describe the awful suffering which I endured during that

Dr. J. H. Perkins time. My limbs would become partially paralyzed for days at a time and my heart would almost stop beating. During that time I have treated with many of the best physicians, and last spring our doctor informed me plainly that I was in a very dangerous condition and the only hope held out for my recovery was in a certain operation. My husband called at your head office on the 20th of March last, purchased a box of PERKINS' AMERICAN HERBS, and in one week's time I was out of bed, and on the ninth day I called at your office to report my wonderful recovery, and I can honestly say that I am entirely cured of all my former complaints.

Price 50c. and $1.00 a box. Free sample sent to any address upon request. Mail orders receive prompt attention.

Propos ed that Town and Township Join in Paying Cost of a New Survey and Map of the Northern Boundary and Lands Adjacent—A Lead Pencil's School Case Arouses Discussion.

The quelling of Council committee-itis by Reeve Hall was for the construction of general business, but things didn't result that way. Two committees were appointed—one by a division of the members for the entire evening, and the other to meet the joint boards of Finance and Roads' of Works, the other chairmen had to hold down the back seats, so to speak.

The Separate School Case.

Last year, when Vin Archdeacon Casey, of St. Mary's church, received his tax bill, he discovered that he was called on to pay a local improvement rate for cement walks and sewer laid down on Rosseli-st opposite St. Joseph's Convent and also for across the way used as a play ground by the girls of the Separate school taught by the Sisters. Fr. Casey called the attention of the Separate school trustees to the matter and the Board appealed to Council, claiming exemption, but the by-law authorizing the rate and in part for the Convent frontage, on the ground that the property on which the school is used exclusively for Separate school purposes. The remonstrance petitions passed on the subject, but a majority vote carried it, by the Town's Council owing to press of other business—principally the Dominion and Provincial elections.

Friday evening Mr. A. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the Sep rate School Board, was present in connection with the matter, and Town Solicitor Boland read a letter to the Board. The latter read his letter to last year's Council in which he took the ground that according to his interpretation of the statutes owning to the case, the playground was clearly taxable inasmuch as it was used in common by the Separate school and Convent pupils and that the Convent was liable as a seminary of learning, and that the Council was in court case or only the pertinent of the Convent and grounds and estimate only for Separate school purposes. On a strict interpretation of the law he was of thought the town would win out in the proceedings, and on the other hand, but he supposed they did not wish to go to the expense of such a test event, the only thing to do was to decide the opposing claims by arbitration.

In reply to a question Mr. O'Connor said that at least eight or nine-tenths of the Convent was devoted to the purposes of a school and as well as the whole of the playground. Continuing, Mr. Casey dwelt on being badgered by the tax collector, and the matter was left before the Board. S. S. Board and said, "Here, my dear Casey," which remark explained the (O'Connor's presence. The question of assessment of school children pupilage for the education of Catholic female children — ranged from 190 to 210. Four of the Sisters were in the employ of the Separate school as teachers; the class rooms were kept in repair by the Board, and the caretaking, fuel, etc., were further charges.

Solicitor Boland confessed that two little words in the law stood in the way of the Separate School purposes. Even the Sisters employed as teachers and caretakers lived in the hotel, etc., and therefore occupied the position to be entitled to exemption.

Ald. O'Reilly—Mr. Knowlton, a commercial gentleman, resides at the Separate School as caretaker.

Mr. Knowlton—That is not the question; such residences should be taxed.

Mayor Bay (to Mr. O'Connor)—You think you are not being fairly treated?

Mr. O'Connor—We either are entitled to full exemption or we are not. The statute is no very clear on one point, and I submit that the County Judge be asked to pass upon the case of the Sisters.

Mayor Bay—I am prepared to accept Mr. O'Connor's statement as to the playground being intended for exclusive Separate school purposes.

We class you as a municipality of the S. S. Board—not its legal.

Mr. Hopkins—"I don't think you have any right to assess the Sisters in the purchase of land in another municipality."

Solicitor Hopkins—"Don't enlarge on the question that way. I am not sure that you are as safe in taking the ground as appears to me, except, of course, when he is addressing the Court of Revision.

The members of Council will arrive at a decision as to the assessment of Convent taxes to be exempted before the next meeting of Council.

Board of Works.

The committee took up the petition of Messrs. Kenner, Healey and others, protesting against the proposed opening of St. Patrick's ward, by Ops Council to Mr. W. B. Fee for the town line. The petitioners would shut them and other town people off from access to the river. The opinion of Town Solicitor Hopkins had been sought and in his letter to Council that gentleman pointed out that he had acted as Mr. Fee's counsel against the township and after having incurred costs amounting to about $100 the matter never had developed and gone up the fight. That was a pretty split decision for the Town Council to inflict on. Besides, the Council had no right to object to the closing of a street or road by another municipality.

Ald. O'Reilly—Are you speaking now as Mr. Fee's counsel or as the Town Solicitor?"

Mr. Hopkins—"You might be able to do so if all parties are willing, but there are a number of legal obstacles in the way."

Ald. O'Reilly—"Could the town compensate the Township and take over the street now in front of Mr. Fee?"

The question Messrs. Kenner and Healy were heard relative to the compensation for closing of the street. Decided to if Mr. Fee closed the street, all access to the river would be cut off and they would be unable to sell their lots. Mr. Hopkins—"That is Mr. Fee's affair."

Ald. O'B. Fee was heard. He took the ground that the closing of the street was Mr. Fee's affair. He would accommodate no one. All other streets led to the river and that the attempt to block his plans was dictated by spite.

Mayor Bay said that another law, he had learned was that the town had a strong moral right to the land in question. While he did not wish to see the town involved in a lawsuit, he would get the township Council to join the town in a petition to Parliament to have the matter settled once and for all. Moved by Ald. McFadden, seconded by Ald. Jeffers, that the Board ask the Council to a conference on the subject of the unopened roads in the Surveys of the town north of Colborne-st., and the surrounding lands adjoining.

Reporting then adjourned.

Lindsay's Egg-packing Industry

At this season of the year the egg packing and shipping business is rather a busy, marvellous business is not, and gather at a standstill at Flavelle's egg warehouses. Six men have been employed all winter repairing old egg boxes, making new ones for the coming season, and completing preparations for the large trade which is expected this summer. 40 thousand new boxes were turned out up to last Saturday, and four or five thousand more will be ready before the season opens. A large number more will be used, but there is not room to store them in the premises. Mr. Arrie Larkin, the busy superintendent, expects the coming season will be the busiest in the firm's history. Packing will likely begin in April.

TALENT WORKERS' CONCERT.

The concert given by Mr. Henry Hamilton, organist of St. Andrew's church, and Mrs. B. Drescher-Adamson, Toronto Conservatory of Music, assisted by Miss Dorothy Fowler, Toronto, and Miss Ella Gross, town, in St. Andrew's church Friday evening last, under the auspices of the Talent Workers, was a treat which was well worth the admission. The concert was strictly high-class in every way. The program if anything was too short, but the audience had been permitted there would have been many encores. On account of a brevity of the program it was appreciated all the more, and it is not a fault, sometimes happens. The church was comfortably filled.

The first number on the program was an arrangement of the psalm chorus from the Messiah, "Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of Glory shall come in." This was brought out with splendid effect by the well-trained Symphony choir, assisted by Mr. Hamilton at the organ and Mr. Fowler at the violin, and the well-worn "Hallelujah Chorus" out of the Messiah, composed by Handel, Mr. Hamilton presided at the organ and composed with Mr. Fowler at the violin, the perfect combination of the pipe organ, the kind of instrument for which the music was composed, to the playing of the violin.

Miss Ella Gross, of Lindsay, sang "Air from Third Time." Was very pleasing and displayed a beautiful voice in good cultivation. Her singing was marked with clear enunciation and all the effects of a finely cultured voice.

"Meditation" was perhaps the most artistic number on the list of the evening. It was first played by the piano and violin, and then by violin, violins and organ.

The solo, Miss and Mr. Hamilton, "Answers from Symphony in D" and "Andante from Fifth Symphony" were fine, and were heard before by Mr. Hamilton's pupils, Miss Ethel and Fred Black having played them, but Mr. Hamilton's rendition of these two numbers was superb. The "Reflections in a Mirror," by another of the pupils, Miss Dorothy Fowler, was a pleasing number.

Mrs. Drescher-Adamson did exceptionally well, and the performance of her numbers showed that she understand n number are taking for the recital.

Violins—Mrs. Adamson, Misses Ethel McIntyre, Lindsay, and Estelle H. Flavelle, J. Ross, Dr. Dyer, Dr. Kennedy, Messrs. Fred Black, son; Nelle—Mr. E. Kingsley, organ; Mr. Hamilton; piano, Miss Mc-Intyre.

Keene on Lawson.

James R. Keene, the veteran speculator, was asked his opinion regarding recent performances of Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston financier. Said Mr. Keene: "It does not pay to hunt game in Wall street with a bride bullet in whatever mind you put up on the fee e of crows he makes a good shot. He's one of the best fellows I ever lost dollar he will end in the ditch."

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and wasted development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—that kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

PIC-HEADED POSSIBILITIES.

Remarkable Monstrosity Born in Smith Township

The Examiner was to day shown by Dr. Johnson, our well known veterinary surgeon, a sysomian monstrosity which was presented to him by Dr. Kennedy, of Bond's Station, on the border of Smith township. It is one of the most remarkable freaks of nature which has ever been secured in the annals of veterinary art.

It is in the form of a pig found on Mr. Kennedy's farm about a week ago. It possesses in addition to the usual number of legs, ears, etc., a second another rudimentary head at the back of this, with eyes, nose and ears. The pig appears to be well developed by the situation of the ears which for some inexplicable reason are attached at the bottom of the head instead of in their usual place. The monstrosity is also minus the tail, and two bodies which are distinct, are separated so far down as the middle of the abdomen. The creature has in all eight legs, and evidence of life, certainly up to date, as birth are apparent from the normal appearing of her upper lip.

The doctor is carefully preserving the monstrosity in alcohol, and will "find" will doubtless awaken a lively interest in veterinary circles. Only one similar case is recorded in the annals of the museum. The latter case described by Gurit, of a full grown sysomian pig, the head of which, however, only four feet, while this one eight.—Examiner

BLOOD WILL TELL.

Rich, Pure Blood Will Drive Out the Most Obstinate Case of Rheumatism

Growing pains, aching joints, stiffness, soreness, tender, swollen joints, that's rheumatism—a blood disease. Rheumatism is prevalent among people thousands. It is said in the blood that causes rheumatism. Liniments and lotions only relieve the pain temporarily—but they never cure. To cure rheumatism you must remove the acid in the impure blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills positively cure rheumatism, sciatic or chronic. They are powerful blood builders, driving the acid out. They make new, warm, rich blood which goes to all parts of the body through the heart, and lungs and limbs. This new blood banishes every trace of rheumatism, and brings health and full activity. Mr. T. H. Smith, Caledonia, Ont., says: "For a number of years I was a victim of rheumatism in its most severe form. I was afflicted with rheumatism, and was so crippled up I could scarcely move my body. I tried a great number of medicines but they did not help me. Then I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and used for this trouble, and I use a number of boxes. Before the third box was used I felt myself improving. I continued to use the pills and in a short time found myself entirely cured. I am thankful to say that they have such great power to cure rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache and liver troubles, anaemia, and the many ailments that women suffer from. The purchaser must be careful that the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, is on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent by mail at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Luck of the Horseshoe.

Here is an explanation of the old superstition regarding luck. A Russian was a skilled farrier. One day while at work in his forge the devil appeared to him and said: "Ivan Ivanatan to shoe his 'single hoof,' the saint, although he recognized what the devil wanted, accepted. He caused him so much pain during the operation that Satan begged him to desist. This Mr. Ivanatan refused to do only after he had made the evil one promise that neither he nor any of the lesser evil spirits, his servants, would ever enter a house or shop where the horseshoe was displayed.

The Largest Steamer

The Cunard Company will be the newest ocean liner to steam into New York harbor. She is the largest passenger steamer ever built in England. The Cunard Company is constructing a sister ship to the Carmania, which will be the first to have Diesel engines. The turbine boat and the reciprocating engines are going on with the two huge steamships being designed to be propelled by turbines.

The Carmania is 676 feet long, and her tonnage is 20,000. Six hundred tons of rivets were used in her construction. Her funnels are 100 feet long. Each is big enough to enable a locomotive to run through it, and abreast through it. The Carmania is to be fitted with Marconi apparatus and has accommodation for 3,100 passengers. Cabins are luxurious.

McMillan—McCallon

A very pleasant gathering of friends took place at St. Andrew's church, Eldon, on Thursday last, at 4 p.m., the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Alex McMillan, of Bobcaygeon, to Miss Katherine Isabella, daughter of the late Duncan McCallon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. McDonald, a brother-in-law of the bride, and was attended by his brother, Dougall, and the bride by her sister, Miss Mary McCameron. The wedding party entered the church to a bridal call wedding march played by Miss Florence McIntyre. That the bride was most charmingly gowned, after the ceremony the party adjourned to the home of the bride's residence, where an elaborate supper was awaiting, and the evening was enjoyably spent in dancing and other amusements. The presents were both numerous and expensive, and testified to the high esteem in which the bride and groom were held by their many friends. The happy couple left on the morning train for Toronto and Buffalo, and on their return they will take up residence at Lake Hill. The Post wishes the couple a long and happy married life.

Railway Notes.

—It is reason why the James Bay Railway Company ask for bonus of $25,000 from Orillia, contrary to the agreement accorded other towns on the line, is because the desirability of the line to the west side of the lake and immediate access across miles of central track and a costly bridge at the Narrows between Lake Simcoe and Coucheching.

—The Peterboro gas makers offer for a long while has been made poor gas in order to keep the price down. Burgess is around. Lindsay girls don't get a chance to make fun for the Peterboro boys have used everything for that obdurate case of consumption, that other patent medicine men used Vita Laxative Fruit Pills, only they used more of it per pill. —In a sermon at St. Philips church, Hamilton, Bishop DuMoulin, Bishop of Montreal, spoke strongly against the raising of money for church work by the holding of entertainments and bazaars. He did not think that much good was accomplished with money raised in that way.

—Halifax Herald: Rev. The society has decided to confine the pupils of the various schools with a view to offer prizes for collections of flowers grown from them. It was also proposed to make special efforts to have the streets, lawns, etc., kept more tidy and uniform. Lindsay Society should get in this, and follow the example of the Orillia body.

—A 5 per cent debate in a London Out., church the subject was, "Does Mr. McKenzie Owe a Debt to Mr. Ross?" The burden of the testimony was that Mr. McKenzie paid more than Mr. Ross to-day have from 20 to 40 per cent. of alcohol and it was stated by the speaker that if women would down themselves and their children with whisky compounds—and the cheapest whisky at that—how could they consistently decry the use of beer and wine that contain not more than five per cent of alcohol. The whole question was thoroughly threshed out, and the consensus of opinion was that it be completely prohibited. Women should either cut, or at least medicines or refrain from advocating the total abstinence.

—The music is happening slowly but surely, and the pitch holes in the country roads are growing worse daily.

Hints for the Front Lawn.

(Mr. Louis Glide (Democrat) in Farmers' Advocate.)

Before the grass starts to grow the careful gardener will notice that they will leave a thin, sticky coat of black soil on the grass plot. That must be removed at once, or it will destroy the turf. Every morning wash the lawn with castile soap, cleansing thoroughly. Do not shave the grass, as it will cause it to split at the ends and fall out. Go carefully with a palm leaf fan. A good lawn is worth all the care you can bestow upon it.

HOCKEYISTS APE OTTAWA.

MONDAY NIGHT'S GAME BETWEEN L.C.I. AND LINDSAY SENIORS

Resulted in a Draw 4-4—Referee Allowed "Rough Rouss" Play.

(Toronto Star.)

Everyone was talking hockey lately. Monday night's imitation of a Stanley Cup game, put up by the L.C.I. and the Lindsay Seniors, was responsible for the conversation. The reason we commence the game to the Ottawa battle is because the purely local features of playing the game and the presence of a church referee with it, but in his hand, which generally was sounded at the wrong time or when some body yelled "Offside." Only once last night was one of the rough player spoke; both teams resorted to heavy checks and decided to mix things up at such other. It was a game of do or die, and the fierce contesters were for the moment have been many. There is lots of money at stake and a darkened should be pushed eagerly soon. Both teams worked hard and got up a fast game of hockey, but the rough was also. The referee, Mr. Woodard were good and Taylor, Kilborn, S. et. Jonason, Watkinson had good work to th' credit.

The L.C.I. got the first goal, Dodd using the puck on a shoot. "Noonie" evened up on a rush and shoot and shortly after Pringle followed with the second, Killen and McDougall, for the seniors, landed one a piece. Second, but McGrath stopped it, and on a rush, rebound Dash and Doogan scored it in. While the score a tie, both sides got going. Kayl rushed out and passed to Killen, who made the score 3-2 for the Collegians. Watkinson did the dodge act down the side and made the score 3-3 a little time. The seniors got the next on a scrimmage in front of goal by Stevens. Johnson and Pringle got going and by kicking the puck down the rink, scored on a nice pass, making a tie, 4-all. McDougall rushed the puck in a good chance for a score, but Pringle got the puck and scored. The Seniors kicked on Killen coming on and on his before his time was up and said the goal was scored on an offside. The timekeepers disagreed and the referee put Killen back on the floor and called the goal off and forfeit off for an off-side. Shoddard got in a pretty rush, and with the assistance of Pringle scored. The L.C.I. called an off-side, but the referee counted a goal and the Collegians, instead of playing the remaining few minutes, did the baby act and left the ice and left the rest of the sportsmen. There is the truth of it and whether the students got a fair deal is a question that has supporters on both sides. Killen received due punishment, but others deserved the same and did not get it.

To the Management and Shareholders of the Lindsay Hockey Club.

Gentlemen—The management of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute Hockey Club do hereby protest the game played on Monday, March 13, by the L.C.I. and Seniors on the ground that Referee Mills was very unfair in his decisions. The management would like to have a sudden death game, as last night's match was won unfairly. The game to be played on Monday night next, with a foreign referee if satisfactory. Signed on behalf of the L.C.I. Club, J. J. Kilborn, Captain. A. C. Gillespie, sec.

ENTANGLED IN A COG

SMOTHERED BY STRAW STACK

Whole Weight of the Stack, Covered With Snow and Ice, Fell on Mrs. George Lowry, Wife of a Young Farmer Near Port Dover, and She Died Instantly.

Millbrook, March 14.—Yesterday morning Robert Moore, late of Minden, and now in the employ of Needlers Mills, met with a serious accident. He was oiling the machinery, when in some manner the back of his sleeve became entangled in a cog, which wrenched his arm and mutilated the upper part so badly near the shoulder that he was unable to extricate himself.

It was a long time before his cries for assistance were heard. The mill was going. When the employes on the ground floor heard his cries and realized what was wrong, the mill was immediately closed down. The unfortunate man was released. Dr. Turner was quickly on the spot. Amputation was found to be necessary. The young man is doing as well as can be expected.

STRAW STACK FELL ON HER.

Mrs. George Lowry, Near Port Dover, Smothered to Death.

St. Thomas, March 14.—A strange death was that of Mrs. George Lowry, wife of a young farmer near Port Dover, on returning from church on Sunday evening, she went with her husband to the barn, and while he was throwing the hay she went to the straw stack to get out the bedding for the horses.

Just how it happened is not known, but in some manner the straw stack toppled over and the whole weight fell on the young woman. She was found a considerable snow and ice on the top of the stack, which added to the weight, and rendered the woman's fate a terrible one. When her husband found her only her feet were visible, and despite all efforts, he could not release her. He was alone on the farm and had to saddle a horse and ride half a mile before he could get help.

When at length Mrs. Lowry was released she was quite dead. It is thought that she was suffocated in most instantly, her body being a mass of bruises from the terrible weight that had fallen on her. Mrs. Lowry had been married only a year. Her maiden name was Steele.

KENNEDY'S LAST MESSAGE.

That is a Practical Admission of His Having Done Dead.

London, March 14.—The remains of Joseph Kennedy, who committed suicide in Brantford Hall, after being sentenced to life imprisonment and 75 lashes for assaulting Mrs. Nicholls, were turned over to the London Medical College for the study of practical anatomical, and when the clothing of the dead man was searched yesterday afternoon a note was found. It reads:

"I, Joseph Kennedy does not deny having committed the crime, but devotes himself to be absolutely innocent in detail of the evidence given against him. He claimed that he did not kill the chicken on the day that Irene Cole met her death. He says further that he knows no idea at the time of his first arrest that he was the alleged wife murderer of Irene Cole, the police of Brantford leading him to believe that he was wanted in connection with a barn.

Sunday Cars Ran.

Port Arthur, March 14.—Port Arthur operated its street cars through Fort William Saturday night, and the injection of Mayor Rutledge of that town, who stated that he would not interfere with the operation of the cars through the town limits. The position taken by Port Arthur is the result of the recent decision of Police Magistrate and Superintendent McGuigey informed Mayor Rutledge that cars would be operated through Fort William, and that he would will take action to stop the service.

Heavy Sentences Imposed.

Winnipeg, March 14.—A sensation was caused yesterday by the heavy sentences meted out by Judge Richards to two highwaymen convicted before the Grand Jury, and who, for some time, terrorized the city. John Sanderson was given fifteen years and seventy-five lashes, while Joseph Bernard was sentenced ten years and seventy-five lashes. The two men were convicted of a share to the brutality of the men to the victims they held up. They struck every man in the face after robbing him.

Asks Official Investigation.

Toronto, March 14.—Mr. Macnaughton has written to Hon. W. J. Hanna, provincial secretary, asking him to investigate the affairs of the Farmers' Co-operative Harvesting Machine Company, limited. I was induced by Jackson Stafford to undertake the organization by representations which I have found to be untrue. The waste of money principally obtained from farmers, and the people of this province in general, call for investigation on the part of those in authority, whose duty it is to protect the public from fools and knaves. As the organizer of the company, it is my duty to draw your attention to this condition, and to the representations which were made in order to induce farmers to purchase its stock.

Funeral of O. A. Howland.

Toronto, March 13.—The funeral services on Saturday, of Oliver Alton Howland, K. C., C. M. G., ex-Mayor of Toronto, were extremely simple. The services at St. James' Cathedral were attended by a gathering that fully represented the political and commercial life of Toronto. The services for the family was conducted by Canon Cody at the residence of Sir William P. Howland at 2 p.m., and the body was then conveyed to the cathedral, where, after an English choir charge, assisted by Canon Cody. The church was crowded to the doors, and traffic on King Street was diverted during the hour. The final service at the chapel in St. James' Cemetery was very largely attended by public officials.

McDougall Growing Worse.

Toronto, March 13.—In the Sessions on Saturday, when the case of Alfred McDougall was called, Dr. R. J. Wilson stated that McDougall's condition was steadily growing worse. The circulation of the left arm was cut off. He lived in bed and often had spells of unconsciousness. Dr. F. N. G. Starr was also called by Mr. DuVernet, and Drs. A. A. Macdonald and Adam Wright by the Crown. They all concurred with Dr. Wilson's findings, and agreed that the malady was progressive and incurable. His span of life is now short.

BABY COVERED WITH HUMOUR

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Body Entirely Covered with Sores—Three Doctors Could Not Cure—Child Grew Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. George J. Steeve, of 260 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humour really made by Cuticura, after physicians and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of afflicted poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. A humour broke out all over her body, and we used everything recommended, but without results. Three doctors all thought they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, her little face was being eaten away, and her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbours advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Cuticura Soap and the box of Cuticura Ointment, the sores had all healed, and my little ears were as well body without a sign of a new-born babe's. I would not be without it night if I could not get more instead of the small sum it did cost us to cure her baby, although we had spent hundreds on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

SLEEP FOR BABIES

Rest for Tired, Fretted Mothers in Cuticura.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and purest of emollients. No other remedies can approach them in effectiveness as often sufficient to cure the most distressing skin, scalp, and blood humours, rashes, itchings, and irritations of infants and children.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston. Potter Drug & Chem. Co., Props., London. "How to Cure Skin Diseases," free.

Canada's Trail to Dawson.

Ottawa, February 22.—Lieut.-Colonel Northwest police detachment of 26 officers and 75 packhorses, with Edmonton for the Peace River, to cut a trail to Dawson City, arriving on Canadian territory. The trail will be over a thousand miles long, and will be provided with shelter huts at the end of each day's march, or every fifteen miles apart. Parliament voted $25,000 for the construction of the trail, and it is expected to ask for a similar additional vote next session. It is hoped to complete the work this season.

Squeezed by Cars.

Guelph, March 18—Charles Gair, a telegraph operator employed by Investment and Savings Society, was squeezed between two freight cars standing at St. George's square, receiving injuries which may prove fatal. He was squeezed between the two. His injuries, it is said, are in accordance with the instructions of the French minister.

Engine Drops Into River.

Guelph, March 18—The engine and one car, part of a train of fifteen cars of several loaded Grand Trunk freight cars, river about 7.30 o'clock Friday night close to the Canadian end of the International bridge. The train was on the Michigan Central track and was a Michigan Central train. Engineer Delaney stuck to his post to the last, thinking to check the speed of the engine, but was too late and could not be pulled in his fireman to jump, and then jumped himself. The engine and one car jumped the saddle of the bridge at the point of the decline and plunged into the river.

Opposition Develops Differences On Autonomy Bills.

ST. LAWRENCE IMPROVEMENT

Important Announcement by Hon. Mr. Prefontaine—Will Be Finished Shortly—$2,000,000 Spent on Deep Waterway Standard Fruit Boxes—Mr. Fisher Has Fruit-Growers' Resolutions in Favour of Them.

Ottawa, March 22.—It turns out that the Opposition are by no means unanimous as to the best course to pursue in regard to the educational provisions of the autonomy bills. The fact developed at a caucus of the party this morning afternoon. Several members urged a tooth and nail fight against the bills, but others broader brainers ahead if such were determined upon, and counselled that the best solution of the party thought, if nothing for the present, dividends would develop the ranks of the Ministerialists by the time the autonomy bills would be up for the second reading, and then it is likely that the Opposition will be in the field and not before that time and until the debate is well advanced. Dr. Sproule, of course, as the head of the Orange Society, may be expected to speak in the interests of separate schools anything relating to separate schools.

IN THE HOUSE.

Important Announcement Made by Hon. Mr. Prefontaine.

Ottawa, March 22.—With a very slim attendance, the House spent the whole of yesterday's sitting in Committee of Supply; but little interest was taken in the routine work, the attention being fixed in anticipation on the debate of today, when the whole time of the Northwest autonomy bill will be moved. About $754,000 was voted for the Marine and Fisheries department. Hon. Mr. Prefontaine announced that the improvement of the St. Lawrence, upon which some $2,000,000 has been spent, would shortly be finished, and the fact was indicated by the reduction of the draft for the present year, as a result of the expenditure of ten that a very large proportion of the sum had been reduced by 16 per cent.

Messrs. Bourassa and Geoffrion were added to Sir Wm. Mulock's Committee on the Trades Disputes Act.

Object to Fruit Boxes.

In connection with Mr. Fisher's bill to amend the act respecting the packing and sale of apple commodities, Mr. Henderson (Halton) expressed the hope that the boxes would not vary in measure at this time. It was strange, if they were a strong demand for the bill as stated by the Minister of Agriculture, that resolutions from some organized association of fruit growers had been laid on the table. In his district, Mr. Henderson asserted, fruit growers were opposed to the size of the box specified in the bill, considering it a nondescript, being neither one-fourth nor one-half of a barrel.

Mr. Arch Campbell advocated the box system, and said the fruit growers in his district would prefer them to the barrel. They had been a good deal of loss through the making of barrels with green wood, which prevented the properly made barrels to moisture, so that the contents sweated, the barrel broke, and the package would not stand transportation. The boxes were one-half of a barrel, and would hold one bushel. It seemed a good idea.

Mr. Fisher Has the Resolutions.

Mr. Fisher said that there were resolutions of fruit growers in support of the measure. He read resolutions passed by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, of Quebec, of Nova Scotia, and of British Columbia, and also for the standardization of an apple box by the Fruit Growers' Association of Manitoba. He had also read letters from Canadian fruit growers and growers in English importers favoring the size specified in the bill. As to Mr. Arch's suggestion, the operation of the bill would commence on the 1st June, 1906, in order to allow shippers to get rid of this year's stock and make the needful preparation for the coming year.

Canadian Railway Passes.

Ottawa, March 22.—For a couple of hours this afternoon the House was wrestled with the bill to amend the railway act in regard to the free transportation of members of Parliament, their wives and families. The bill would pass and to require railways to carry members on presentation of a certificate signed by the Clerk of the House. The Senate would not be about evenly divided as to the merits of the bill, and after much discussion the committee rose and reported progress. Finally the bill was read a third time on division and passed.

The French-Venezuelan Complications Have Reached Crisis.

Washington, March 21—The French cable complication has now reached a crisis and U. S. Sir William Mulock's Motion For a Telephone Committee.

FAVORS PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

To Secure the Best Service For the People to Be Object of Committee Appointed — Postmaster-General Expressed His Preference for Telephone Department—as Was Post Office.

Ottawa, March 18—The House yesterday unanimously adopted Sir Wm. Mulock's resolution to appoint a special committee to investigate the telephone question, with a view to recommending a means of securing the best service for the public. The Postmaster-General, while retaining an open mind, unhesitatingly expressed his own preference for a publicly owned telephone system, and gave the reasons why it should not be a department of the Government, as was the Post Office. The step was commended by Messrs. Lancaster, Ames, Mr. W. Lennox and Dr. Barr.

The remainder of the day was spent in supply on the marine estimates, items to the amount of $754,000 being passed.

Bills Read a First Time.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time:

Respecting the Grand River and Western Power Company—Mr. Zimmerman.

Select Phone Committee.

Sir William Mulock moved the following resolution:

"That a select committee, composed of Messrs. Bourassa, Geoffrion, Lennox, Johnston (Clare Breton, South), Grant, Somers (B.), Bell (Pictou), Bennett, Maclean (York), Royce, Roche (Marquette), and the mover, be appointed to inquire into and report regarding the telephone service would advisable to be established, and the fact was included in the resolution that during the last two years, as a result of the expenditure of ten thousand dollars, a saving of one had been reduced by 16 per cent.

Messrs. Bourassa and Geoffrion were added to Sir Wm. Mulock's Committee on the Trades Disputes Act.

RUTTAN ACQUITTED

CONTRADICT PHILIP LOTT

Some Ballots Missing—Evidence of the Use of a False Box by Hawkey—Ruttan Enquired for Ballot Boxes Addressed to Kirfoot — Judge Congratulates Defendant Upon His Narrow Escape.

Belleville, March 20—The trial of Ed. G. Ruttan, for conspiracy in connection with bogus ballot boxes went on Saturday. Pretty much the same evidence as that given in the preliminary investigation was presented, but a few new points came out.

Charles Cochrane, proprietor of the Albion Hotel, Trenton, testified that certain boxes addressed to one Kerfoot had come to his place but Cochrane had had them taken away by Ruttan, who had said that they were to be expected before they came.

Harry Lyon Hawkey, of Kingston, swore to driving Ruttan and some boxes of literature from the Albion Hotel to Shibley's house at Harthwaith.

Hawkey and Ballot Papers.

Evidence-in-chief now was given by Returning Officer Franklin, of Frenchman, who swore that he had given 125 ballots to Deputy Returning Officer Hawkey, and he had signed for receiving more than 100. The returning officer had then counted with Mr. Hawkey with 100, and had changed the figures to 125 and had signed. Patrick Shortell, the returning officer's clerk, corroborated that officials testified.

Col. Percy Sherwood swore to examining Philip Phelan who was in Notre Dame Hospital, and it was at once seen that he was not fit for examination. Hardy had the priest reached Belleville admitted, but that the door of the church when the young man died.

No reason for the crime has yet been advanced, but the theory is that the police that since the death of his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Lott, Philip Lott had not been acting strangely, although he had never been known to be unkind or cruel to any one.

Montreal, March 20—Napoleon Lapointe, charged with murdering his wife, was acquitted late Saturday evening, as the jurymen felt that the man had been drinking with another man and had fallen downstairs.

Invitations Extended to Sir Wilfrid and Earl Grey.

Ottawa, March 20—Walter Scott, M.P., on behalf of Regina and province, has presented a preliminary invitation to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, requesting the presence of His Excellency and the Prime Minister at Regina on July 1 next, as the civic authorities have in contemplation a fitting celebration of the Diamond Jubilee, which will be the birthday of the new province. Earl Grey has promised to be present.

In order to make the celebration worthy of such an historic occasion, it is proposed to have a Grand Convergence of two new provinces should be sworn in on the first day at Regina, in the presence of the Vice-Royalty.

The Prime Minister is not yet able to make definite acceptance of the invitation, but he will be pleased to have Laird trust to obtain the consent of His Excellency the Governor and Sir Wilfrid to attend the ceremonies.

Uncle Terry

By.....

CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1900, by Lee & Shepard

"Say, stranger," he observed with a chuckle, "you must 'a' o' the feller that got fill an' wandered round for a spell till he fetched up to a house an' sed to the man that came to the door, 'If you will tell me who I am or what I am or what I want or go I'll give ye a dollar.'"

Page was to laugh in spite of his plight, for the humorous twinkle in the old man's eyes as he uttered his joke was infectious.

"I'd like to 'commodate ye," he add-ed, "but I'm corryin' Uncle Sam's mail an' must git home an' tend the light, an' as ye don't know what ye want for the next jump to air go down to Saint's Rest, whar I live, an' to the nearest we'll try an' hunt up yer boat."

It seemed the only thing to do, and Albert availed himself of the chance.

"Can you tell the spot where you found me?" said to the man as they started on. "I'd like to go back there tomorrow and find my cushion."

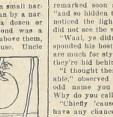
"Waal," was the answer, "as I've driv over this road twice a day for nigh on to thirty year, I'm tolerable familiar with it. My name's Terry, an' I do keepin' the light at the Cape an' carry the mail to sorter piece out on. Who might ye be?"

"My name Page, and I'm from Bos-ton, and a lawyer by profession," replied Albert.

Uncle Terry eyed him rather sharply. "I wouldn't 'a' 'vised ye for one," he said. "Ye look too honest. It ain't much stuck on lawyers," he added with a chuckle, "I've had 'quences with 'em. One of 'em sold me a hole in the ground once, an' it coat me to buil' a twenty years' savin's! Yell 'scuse me for bein' blunt—it's my natur'."

"Not at all, mind," responded Albert laughingly. "But you mustn't judge us all by one exam'l."

They drove on, and as they jogged up and down the sharp hills he caught sight here and there of the ocean, and alongside the road, which consisted of two ruts, a path and two grass grown ridges, he saw wild roses in endless profusion. On either hand was an interminable thicket. In the little valleys grew masses of rank ferns and on the ridges, sprouted between the wild roses, clusters of red bunch-berries. The sun was almost down when they reached the top of a long hill and he saw at its foot a small harbor connected with the ocean by a narrow inlet and, beyond it, a dozen or more brown houses. Beyond was a tangle of rocks and, rising above them, the top of a white lighthouse. Uncle



Stood there unconscious.

Terry, who had kept up a running fire of questions all the time, halted the horse and said:

"Ye can now take yer first look at Saint's Rest, otherwise known as the Cape. We ketch some lobsters an' fish here an' hev prayer meetin's once a week."

Then he chirruped to the horse, and they rattled down the hill to a store and store, where he left a mail pouch and then followed a winding road between the scattered houses and out to the point, where stood a neat white dwelling close beside a lighthouse.

"I'll take ye into the house," said Uncle Terry as the two alighted, "an' tell the boys we've fallen in with ye an' ye'll make, an' I'll put up the hoss."

"I'm afraid I'm putting your family to some inconvenience," responded Albert, "and as it is not dark yet I will walk out on the point. I may see the yacht and save you all trouble."

The sun, a ball of fire, was almost at the horizon, the sea all around lay an unruffled expanse of dark blue, undulating with the long rollers which caught the red glow of the sinking sun as they came in and broke upon the rocks. Albert walked on to the highest of the above rocks and looked about. There was no sign of the yacht, only one boat was visible, and that a dory rowed by a man standing upright. Over the still waters Albert could detect the measured stroke of his oars. That and the low rumble of the ground swells, breaking almost at his feet, were the only sounds. It was a wild dream of solitude, far removed from the world and all its distractions. For a few moments he stood and looked out on the ocean alight with the setting sun's red glow, the dory, with all his feet and the tall white lighthouse towering above him, and then started round the point. He had not taken ten steps when he saw the figure of a girl leaning against a rock and watching the setting sun. One elbow was resting on the rock, her face reposing in her open hand and fingers half hid in the thick masses of hair that shone in the sunlight like burnished gold. A broad sun hat lay on the rock, and the delicate profile of her face was sharply outlined against the western sky.

She had not heard Albert's steps, but stood there unconscious of his scrutiny. His noted the classic contour of her features, the delicate oval of her lips and chin, and his artist eye dwelt upon and admired her rounded bosom and perfect shoulders. Had she posed for a picture she could not have chosen a better position, and was so alluring and withal so sweet and unconscious that for a moment he forgot all else, even his own rudeness in standing there and staring at her. Then he recovered himself and, knowing he could not see, he looked about for the boat, while in the meantime the girl, still unconscious of his presence, was wondering when he met Uncle Terry, who at once invited him into the house.

"This 'ere's Mr. Page, Lisey," he said as they entered and met a stout, elderly and gray haired woman. "I found him up the road a spell an' wantin' to know whar he was."

Albert bowed.

"I am sorry to intrude," he said, "but I had lost my boat and all points of the compass when your husband kindly took me in charge."

Being offered a chair, Albert sat down and was left alone. He surveyed the plainly furnished sitting room with open fireplace, a many colored rag carpet on the floor, old fashioned chairs and dozens of pictures on the walls. They caught his eye at once, mainly because of the oddity of the frames, which were evidently homemade, and then a door was opened, and Uncle Terry invited him into a lighted room where a table was set. The elderly lady was standing at one end of it and beside her a younger one, and as Albert entered he heard Uncle Terry say, "This is our gal Telly, Mr. Page," and as he bowed he saw, garbed in spotless white, the girl he had seen leaning against the rock and watching the sunset.

CHAPTER XX.

THE appealing yet wondering glance that Albert Page met as he bowed to the girl standing beside the table that evening was one he never afterward forgot. It was only one, for after that and during the entire meal her blue eyes were kept veiled by their long lashes or mostly directed elsewhere.

"It's a charming spot down here," he remarked soon after the meal began, "and so hidden that it is a surprise. I had passed the light as we came in, but did not see the village."

"Waal, ye didn't miss anything," responded his host. "None o' the houses are much for style, an' mebbe it's lucky they're hid behind the rocks."

"I thought them quaint and comfortable," observed Albert, "but what an odd name you have for the place! Why do you call it Saint's Rest?"

"Waal, 'cos none o' the people have any chance to become sinners, I reckon," was the reply. "It's a bit of a trifle lonesome in the winter, though."

"I suppose fishing is your principal occupation here," continued Albert, seeing that sentiment was not considered by Uncle Terry. "Your land does not seem adapted for cultivation."

"Some fishin' an' some truck farmin'," he replied. "The land's wuss'n what it was brung up, down in Connecticut, an' like as we find enough to dig about once a week an' sharpen our noses on the grindstone. We manage ter raise nough ter eat, though."

When the meal was over Uncle Terry said: "It's nice an' cool out on the rocks, an' that's some seats out thar. If ye enjoy smokin' ye best go out while the wimmin are doin' the dishes."

The moon that Frank had planned to use was nearing its full and high overhead, and as the two men sought congeniality in tobacco out on that luminous point Albert could see from his admiration for the scene. His offer of a cigar to his host had been accepted, and as the quaint man sat quietly enjoying an odor and flavor he was unaccustomed to Albert said:

"This experience has been a surprise to me from the moment I met you. I was lazily enjoying the delightful air and rocks and through a tangle of scrub spruce and briers until I was utterly lost and believed this island an impassable wilderness. Then you came and almost brought me to one of the most beautiful spots I ever saw. I should like to stay here all summer and do nothing but look at this magnificent ocean view and sketch these rocks."

"Do you paint pictures too?" queried Uncle Terry, with interest manifested. "Telly's daft on doin' that, an' she is it all the time she can git." Then he added with a slight reflection of pride:

"Mebbe ye noticed some o' her pictures in the sittin' room?"

"I saw a lot of pictures there," answered Albert, "but it was too dark to see them well. I should like to look at them in the morning."

"We'll hev plenty o' time," was the reply, "if I must pull my lobster traps for ye after all! I'll take ye in my dory an' we'll go an' find yer boat. I guess she must be lyin' in Seal cove, the only openin' 'twixt here an' the head she'd be likely ter run into."

"And as your daughter is an artist, a she?" asked Albert, indifferent now as to where the Gypsy was or when he was likely to retire. "Has she also ever taken lessons?"

"No, it comes nat'ral to her," replied Uncle Terry, "she showed the bent o' her mind when she was ten years old, an' she's pestered me ever since for pen her canvas an' paints an' sich. But then, I'm willin'," he added in a confidential tone. "Telly's a good girl, an' I keep her out o' most strife by her, an' she's all we've got in the world." Then pointing to a small white stone just to the right of where they were, he added, "That's whar the other one's been layin' for twenty-odd years."

"This one has grown to be a very beautiful girl," said Albert quietly, and his voice rang with a tone of pride.

Uncle Terry made no reply, but seemed lost in a reverie, and Albert silently followed his example and looked out on the ocean and along the over whelming path of moonlight. He wished that this fair girl, so quaintly spoken of, were there beside him, that he might talk to her about her art. How it could be managed and what excuse to give for remaining longer than the morrow he could not see. He looked toward the house, white in the moonlight, but the lights had been put out and a bonnet flash just beyond, and wondered if he should see the girl again that night. He was on the point of suggesting they go in and visit a little with the ladies when Uncle Terry said:

"I believe ye called yerself a lawyer, Mr. Page, an' from Boston. Do ye happen to know a lawyer that that has got eyes like a cat? I've seen his ends as if he was washin' 'em while he's talkin' to ye."

Albert gave a start. "I do, Mr. Terry," he answered. "I know him well. His name is Hyde, Nicholas Hyde."

"An' as ye're a lawyer, an' one that looks honest an' human," continued Uncle Terry, "what is yer honest opinion of this Mr. Hyde?"

"That is a question I would rather not answer," replied Albert, "until I know more of you. May ask in and what your opinion of Mr. Frye is. Miss might not like to hear it, and I do not believe in speaking ill of anybody unless forced to."

Uncle Terry was silent, evidently revolving a serious problem in his mind. "I am glad ye're not one to speak ill, Page," he said at last, "for speakin' the way I did regardin' lawyers in gin'ral, an' Nicholas Hyde in partic'lar bod, an' naturally I don't trust 'em much. I've had a good deal with this 'ere Frye 'bout a matter I don't want to tell 'bout, an' the way things is workin' now it's they should be. I b'lieve I'm robbed right along, an' if ye're willin' to help me I will be most farnally grateful an' will give ye my word I'll never let on to anybody what ye say—for Miss Terry won't broke his promise."

Albert silently offered his hand to Uncle Terry, who grasped it cordially. "I will tell you, Mr. Terry," he said after the handclasp, "all I know about Mr. Frye and what my opinion is of him, and you may rely upon it that no matters not. I am certain you will keep your word. I recently worked for Mr. Frye six months and took him to open an office for myself. In that six months I became intimately acquainted. Frye was the most unprincipled villain I ever masked under the cloak of lawyer. If all those you have had business with were like him, I don't wonder at your prejudice."

Uncle Terry leaned forward, with elbows on knees, and rubbed his hands in the palms of his hands, and ejaculated, "I knew it! I knew it! I'm a blamed old cuss ter trust, but I'm as keen as a razor ter see!" Then turning to Albert he added, "I've paid that thief over $500 this year an' hain't got a scrap of paper to show for it, an' nothin's been done for me. I'm a fool ter trust anybody."

He meditated a few moments and then turning around suddenly called to his wife an' Telly don't know nothin' 'bout this, an' I don't want they should. That's a matter I'll hev ter speak to you two ter ketch him, an' I b'lieve it! I've been ketched an' skinned for good sure. I want to sleep on't, an' mebbe in the mornin' I'll tell ye the bull story an' what I've suspected. I'm a fool—I'm a gin'ls to think I kin trust ye."

"I think you may have very good opinion," answered Albert, "and if I can help you in any way I will."

When the two returned to the house, Albert was shown to a room that reached by a flight of stairs, evidently the old fashioned bed, spotless counterpane and muslin curtains at the window so sweet and wholesome. A faint odor of lavender carried him back to the days when his mother's bed linen exhaled the same sweet fragrance. He took the cigar and sat down by the window where the crisp salt sea air came in and the tang and form of the girl he had first seen watching the sunset.

CHAPTER XXI.

WHEN Albert arose the next morning he found the sun disappearing round and red out of the ocean and a crisp breeze blowing into the open windows. He bathed the stir of some one below and, dressing quickly, descended to the sitting room. No one was there, and he stood for a moment looking at the curiously framed paintings that almost covered the wall.

One in particular caught his eye. It was a large picture of a storm at sea, waves breaking upon her. She was resting on rocks that barely showed beneath, and in her rigging, heavily covered with ice, were dire men. All around was the sea, tossed into giant waves, curling and breaking about the wrinkled vessel. Above all this lifeless shading of the green and white billows, the ice that covered every shroud and rope and spar, and peering out of a cabin door was a woman holding a baby in her arms. In a way it was a ghastly picture and one that held his attention from all the rest.

It was framed in a broad, flat moulding covered with shells. He was still gazing at it when he heard Uncle Terry's voice bidding him good morning.

"Ain't ye up a little airly?" said that worthy. "I hope ye slep' well. I generally roust out by daylight an' put out the light an' then start a fire, but thar was no need of you gittin' out so soon."

"I think the waves woke me," replied Albert, "and the moonlight was beautiful I couldn't waste it in bed."

"I'm goin' over to the cove to mend a trap," continued Uncle Terry, "an' if ye're willin' I'd like to hev ye go along too. The wimmin is fur'ster'est ready by that time, an' then I'll take ye up to haul over an' if ye hain't thar."

He seemed depressed and not inclined to talk, and Albert sat on an overturned dory and watched him puttering away over a lobster trap. The trap had fallen off, and the sea winds blew his scant fringe of gray hair over his bald head. His brown shirt was open at the throat, disclosing a long neck, and his well worn garments showed the outlines of a somewhat wasted form. What impressed Albert more than all this was the dejected manner of Uncle Terry. When he finished fixing the trap he pulled a dory in that was moored out in the cove and carefully bailed and wiped it clean. When this was done he said almost wistfully: "I've worried a good deal 'bout what ye told me last night, an' I'd like to hev a good talk with ye. I s'pose ye're anxious to see yer friends an' I know how ye're all safe, an' I'll take ye up to the house first thing after I've got me an' pull my traps, an' then if ye're willin' we'll set down, if it ain't askin' too much of ye to wait," he added almost pathetically. "I'll get Telly to show ye her pictures, an' mebbe ye can give her some points as 'll help her."

"I shall be more than glad to do so," replied Albert, "but if that allegorical scene is hers, she needs no advice from me."

Uncle Terry looked pleased, but made no answer. On the way back to the house he said, in a casual way, without a mention to the wimmin of our hev'n any talk."

At the breakfast table he seemed in better spirits and more like himself.

"I think ye did right," he said to Albert, "an' I'm grateful, addressing Albert, "that ye kept the business yerself. I'll tell ye then, turning to Telly, he added, "Mr. Page is comin' back here bimeby just as soon as he's had a look at the boat. I look at some of yourn."

Telly's face flushed slightly. "I shall be delighted," added Albert. "If Miss Terry will favor me. Will you?" he added in a courteous tone.

"I do not feel that my pictures are worthy of criticism," answered Telly, in answered in a low voice. "I have never had any lessons or any one to show me."

"From what I've noticed in your sitting room, Miss Terry," said Albert, "you need not be ashamed to show them to an artist. I am not one, only sketch a little, just as a remembrance of places I visit, but I love pictures and have studied them a little."

"I will gladly show you what I have done," replied Miss Terry, and the subject of the conversation ended. When the meal was over Albert observed, "With your permission, Miss Terry, I should like to make a sketch of your home and the lighthouse as an artist. I am not good, only sketch a little, just as a remembrance of places I visit, but I love pictures and have studied them a little."

Prosperity and Progress

The volume of business transacted by the Mutual Life of Canada during 1904 exceeds that of any previous year. Over Five Million Dollars of new business was written, making the total Assurances now in force nearly Forty and a Half Millions of Dollars. All but Thirty Thousand Dollars of the new business was written within the Dominion. The Mutual Life of Canada is essentially a Canadian Company, and believes that good Canadian business is preferable to foreign business, which is secured at excessive cost and often of poor quality. Good home business, and lots of it, means more profits to Canadian policy holders.

The first of the bogus ballot box scares has been disposed of, and Pugsley is decided not guilty. So spoil of the witnesses gave strong contradiction of Phil Lott's remarkable story.

E. Frank Coulson, the New Jersey clergyman who ran away with one of his choir girls, leaving a wife and family behind, is a disciple of Ingersoll the infidel. The slobbering fool needs something to brace him up and a good religious revival would do it.

The Mail and Empire says that the previously declared law regarding an expert bookkeeper from the Secretary's office looks at the books of public institutions of the Province. Are there no Canadian experts capable of doing such work? Where's Tory Canadianism?

Toronto Star.—Provincial Secretary Hanna says he has been looking for men to serve as Provincial auditors, but no names worthy of mention as sufficient guarantee of a strict enforcement of the law are publicized. Names will not enforce the law. They have tried and failed. Moreover, the local political machine objects to seeing to it that commissioners say around who will just give it as much flow of patronage as the public opinion calls for. The party name agrees on the spot, and it is time to see that the party does not make itself unpopular.

Brantford Expositor.—The license fee on hawkers, peddlers, etc., will be decreased in Ontario should be reduced one-third, and it would have a compensational fund from which accounts could be raised upon the deceased victimizers. The Expositor is inclined to think about the most practicable thing in the way of license reduction is to insist on a much larger amount of accommodation for guests than is now required before granting a license to sell liquor, and no provision would be to cut off more saloons, and to give the legitimate hotel business first claim upon most of the bar.

Montreal Witness: All the Japanese generals who have driven the Russians back from the Yalu river are over fifty, some of them over sixty years of age. This does not sustain the theory that a man's usefulness ceases at any particular period in life. Of course, the rank and file, who did the fighting, was composed of young men. This agrees with Dr. Osler's theory that the period of action in a man's life is before he reaches his fortieth year, while that of direction may last, and usually does last, far beyond that time.

MANVERS FARMER TRAMPLED TO DEATH

Wm. Werry, One of the Well Known Men of the Township, Found Lifeless in his Stable Tuesday night - Sad News for Lindsay Relatives.

News reached town Wednesday of sad fatality which occurred Tuesday evening near the village of Fleetwood, in Manvers township, about 12 miles south of Lindsay, the victim being Mr. William Werry, a prosperous and well-to-do farmer, aged about 65 years.

It appears that Werry and one of his sons-in-law, a young man—but how busy all day drawing wood from a back lot on the Emmerson Beatty farm—two time the father volunteered to perform the stable work while the son went for the last load of wood. The suggestion was adopted and the two parted—never to meet again on earth.

An hour or so later, when young Werry returned with the load of wood, he unhitched his team and led them to the stable, where he found that a colt that had been running loose in the yard had joined another colt in one of the stalls, and that both were stamping furiously and appeared to be nervous and excited. On approaching to drive the newcomer out, the son was horrified to find the lifeless body of his father at the door of the stall, he evidently having trampled upon it until fearful gashes and torn were almost unrecognizable.

The son, now horrified the entire community, deserted doing very highly esteemed by a very wide circle of friends, who sympathize deeply with the bereaved widow and family and other relatives, including Mr. A. Flack, town, brother of Mrs. Werry.

It is supposed that when Mr. Werry entered the stable to perform the chores the free colt entered and joined its mate, and that when disturbed endeavored to separate them he slipped and frightened the animals and was instantly kicked into insensibility.

OPENING THE HOUSE

First Conservative Speaker Elected in Ontario.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Eleventh Legislature Opened With Ceremony — Feature of the Speech From the Throne is the Announcement That Ontario Will Get a Slice of Northern Land—Electing the Speaker.

Toronto, March 23.—The fact that for the first time in Ontario an outand-out Conservative Government is in power, and that the first Conservative Speaker, Hon. J. J. Foy, was elected, added interest to the opening by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clark yesterday afternoon of the first session of the Ninth Legislature of Ontario. The attendance was unprecedently large.

Lieutenant-Governor Arrives.

The arrival of the Lieutenant-Governor was timed for 3 o'clock, and a few minutes before the hour the booming of the guns of the Hamilton Field Battery announced that His Honor, escorted by a squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, commanded by Lieut. Young, was coming up "the avenue." The guard of honor was composed of 120 men of the Royal Grenadiers, under the command of Capt. Brooke. When the Lieutenant-Governor arrived he was accorded military honors.

Lieutenant-Governor Clark was preceded on his way to the chamber by his military secretary. By his side walked the Premier, wearing a fresh white rose.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, announced that it was the desire of His Honor that the Assembly proceed to the election of a Speaker. The Lieutenant-Governor then withdrew, and the Assembly proceeded to the business before it.

New Speaker Proposed.

Premier Whitney, in an appropriate speech, nominated Mr. St. John for the chair. "No man hates himself," Whitney said in conclusion. "Most gentlemen, then, and an unprejudiced one. We believe he will rise above party prejudice and maintain the best traditions of the chamber."

In seconding the nomination, Hon. J. J. Foy said Mr. St. John was a fair-minded man who would act impartially, and see that every man received fair treatment.

Mr. Harcourt concurred on behalf of the Opposition. He was sure that Mr. St. John would add to the dignity, the traditions and the honor of the chamber. Mr. Harcourt concluded by assuring the Premier that he would be loyally supported by "those who sit in this corner of the side of the House."

Speaker Gives Thanks.

After the election of Mr. St. John had been declared he mounted the dais and acknowledged his thanks. He said he felt his inability and the weight of responsibility, but he would endeavor to preserve the rights of the members, and if at any time he should err, he hoped they would not impute improper motives. The chamber had gained a reputation for its high standard of debate, and he would endeavor to preserve it.

The Lieutenant-Governor returned to the chamber, and was escorted by the Provincial Secretary that a Speaker had been elected. He then read the following:

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

It affords me great pleasure to welcome you to the performance of your duties at this the first session of the eleventh Legislature of this Province.

As the result of the choice of the husbandman affords the foundation on which the prosperity of the Province mainly rests, our earnest thanks are due to Almighty God for the bounteous harvest of the past year.

In all sections of the Province are to be seen evidences of steadily increasing activity and progress on the part of our people, which constitute cause for congratulation.

The Governor-General.

Since the last meeting of the Legislature the term of the Earl of Minto as Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada came to a close. The services of the distinguished nobleman by which his relations between the retiring Governor-General and the people of this country were such as to secure the confidence of the people of this Province. During the term of office of Minto strengthened the attachment of the Canadian people to the Empire, and to the principles of our Constitutional government under which we live, and which we so highly prize, alike by the great interest which he manifested in everything relating to and affecting the progress and development of the Dominion, and by the broad-minded statesmanship which distinguished his administration of public affairs.

The part taken by the Countess of Minto and her interest which she displayed in philanthropic movements, as well as her evident concern for the happiness and comfort of the people were sources of great satisfaction. Her departure was, therefore, a matter of sincere regret.

A hearty welcome has been extended by the people of Canada to Earl Grey on the succession of the Earl of Minto, and I have every confidence that he will represent His Majesty the King with ability and dignity in every duty that pertains to his great office.

The T. and N. O. Railway.

You will be pleased to learn that the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, as regards portions of the line, is practically completed, and has for some time been carrying passengers and freight. Owing to the uncertainty of the location of the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and for other reasons, further legislation will be required with reference to this important Provincial work.

Many Changes Foreshadowed.

Among the measures to be submitted for your consideration are: A bill making certain amendments to the education act; a bill relating to the forest reserves act; bills changing the designation respectively of the heads of the Crown Lands Department and the Public Works Department from Commissioner to Minister; a bill to create a Department of Mines, with a Minister at its head; a bill relating to the County Councils act; and a bill amending the Ontario elections act and abolishing the numbering of the ballot.

The Extend Ontario's Boundaries.

A short time ago it was brought to the notice of my Ministers that the Government of the Province of Manitoba had made application to the Dominion Government for the extension of the boundaries of that Province northward to the shore of Hudson Bay, and also that the Federal Government might possibly be willing to divide between and transfer to the contiguous Provinces the territory lying west, south and east of Hudson Bay and James Bay. My Ministers at once put themselves in communication with the Federal Government and respectfully urged that before the question of the extension of territory should be decided upon, or even considered, the Government of this Province should be allowed to submit for consideration, with reference to such proposed division, its claim to that portion of the territory which the Province might fairly claim should be allotted to it. I am pleased to inform you that a satisfactory answer has been received from the Premier of Canada, and that we are now, perhaps, entitled to hope and expect that a very large portion of the said territory lying north of the present northern boundary of Ontario, believed to be rich in minerals, and extending to the southern and westerly shores of Hudson Bay, will be included within the boundaries of our Province.

Electrical Power and Railway Taxation.

The extraordinary possibilities when the future may have in store with reference to electric power are attracting increased attention on the part of both scientific and practical men. The resources of the Province in this respect at Niagara Falls and elsewhere should be carefully husbanded in the interests of the people of Ontario.

The report of the Commission on Railway Taxation will be laid before you. It is to be hoped that, from information derived from this report, and from other sources, the very important matter of railway taxation will receive your attention in the near future.

The public accounts will be laid before you for your consideration at the earliest moment, and the estimates for the coming year will also be submitted to you for your approval at an early date.

Three Funeral Motions.

On the conclusion of the speech, the Premier made three formal motions, the first which, the House adjourned till this afternoon, when the first order of business will be the consideration of the address.

Fire in Steamer's Hold.

Boston, March 18.—Fire in the hold of the German steamer Wildenfels, at the Charlestown wharf, caused considerable damage. She has a million-dollar cargo.

Hon. Lionel Gouin Called.

Quebec, Que., March 22.—After going through routine proceedings in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, Hon. Mr. Turgeon moved, seconded by Hon. Mr. McCorkill, that the House adjourn until Wednesday next, in order to give Hon. Mr. Gouin, who has been sworn in as Prime Minister, time to organize his new Cabinet, which motion was adopted. Hon. R. N. Pacaud, ex-Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, will leave for the United States to undergo expert medical treatment for his throat trouble.

The Coffee Plant's Friend.

In the republic of Colombia there is a tree highly esteemed as a shade for the coffee plant. It is found also in tropical Brazil and possesses qualities that make it peculiarly suited for this particular use. It will live on a stony, poor soil, and a tree only eighteen months old will shade 144 square yards of ground, while, when full grown, it may be fifty feet high and have a spread of fifty feet on every side.

Off to Europe.

Washington, March 18.—Secretary of State Hay left Washington yesterday to be absent about two months. They will sail to-day for Europe.

Legislative committee of the Board for consideration:

Mr. A. Fisher—This is the place to discuss the matter. I do not think it is right that the C.P.R. should enjoy such a monopoly.

Mr. Morton—"I would be well to forward this suggestion even if it doesn't accomplish any good; if all the people of Canada do on the effect will be felt in future legislation. If the railways refused to carry C.O.D. We cannot be interfered with, what a grip we would have on the bargain with a double seal in the case of the two or more parties."

Adj. O'Reilly—We haven't a copy of the Bill and are working in the dark. If the bargain is one made in good faith, we have no business to be locating its dissolution because we think we can get better. Be good and all the benefits."

Mr. Singleton—Those who made the bargain were wise enough not to include Ontario and Quebec in their arrangement. We wouldn't put up with that sort of an arrangement for one day."

Mr. Bryans advised going slow. The building of the C.P.R. years ago was a great benefit and large inducements had to be offered. The line had been built West and was in the pioneer force that had made possible the settlement of the West. Any one who had travelled in the West knew that it would be impossible to get the line had done and is doing "for the country. Let the matter rest until a copy of the Bill has been received.

President Kennedy—"I don't know whether the Legislative committee would have time to discuss the matter before the Legislature rises. The house—if given power to act—may do something."

A show of hands was then taken on the amendment, resulting in a tie—14 all. A few not having voted, a second vote was taken, the second result being 14 for, 18 against. The distinguished "Tickets had the amendment was declared lost.

Adj. O'Reilly—"Now that we know that we are proceeding along right lines, and that the principle suggested of in the memorial is an exact copy of the one in the Bill, I'll move that a word or two might alter the whole wording of the case.

Ald. McCrea—"If Ald. O'Reilly will read the papers he would see that they know that the clauses are identical. I don't see what good it will do to do anything."

The original resolution was then voted on and carried.

Deputation of Ministers.

On motion Mr. J. C. Harstone, Principal of the Collegiate was then heard. He addressed the Board from Hon. Mr. Borden, Minister of Militia, who would be in Toronto on Thursday or Friday, March 24th, when he will interview the Militia Council. Mr. Borden would be tendered a banquet and had asked the papers to keep secret the decisions arrived at. A petition was presented which the Board were asked to sign and forward for presentation to parliament.

It was moved by Mr. Alex. Boese, seconded by Mr. Jos. Staples, that the petition be approved and signed.

Mr. Southern—"I'm not in favor of that step; the C.P.R. exemption clause is part of a bargain and contract made by the parliament of that day, and I don't think we can bring it into examination."

Mr. Staples—"It is perfectly fair that we should take the action requested. The question is the application of a great grievance and disability to two new provinces not party to the original bargain. If we in Ontario were threatened in the same fashion we would welcome aid of any kind."

Moved in amendment by Ald. O'Reilly, seconded by Mr. Southern, that the petition be referred to the Legislative committee of the Board for consideration.

enough to do without undertaking more. Mr. H. J. Lytle—When Mayor of the town Mr. Hendrie on several occasions consulted the Board of Works apart from that and would go far wrong in following the example of Toronto and Hamilton.

Mayor Roy—"There is a feeling in some quarters that our business men and members of Council have not been sufficiently in touch on civic matters, and in this way the Advisory committee will have a large field work to do. Circumstances may only arise occasionally would be convenient for the Aldermen to consult with a committee of experienced business men named for the purpose. Mr. Anderson—The committee will be robbing the Council of the best of their time and energies and duties."

Ald. O'Reilly—"One thousand or two voters elect eight representatives to carry on the business, and at the next election new appointed by a few voters to meet and tell an elaborate circumstances what they shall do and what they shall not do."

Mr. Lytle—I moved the resolution as a request. Commissioners had said so with the hope that a committee would be formed of business men might render valuable assistance. Council in the work of placing the finances of the town in a satisfactory position. The rate is high, yet we have not been paying our way, as was evidenced by having overdrawn $20,000 shows. The work before us is no sinecure and important enough to demand the best efforts of both advisory committee and Board of Trade.

On motion the appointment of this committee was endorsed.

To Aid the Central.

Moved by Mr. H. J. Lytle, seconded by Mr. Jos. Staples, that a committee comprising the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Chairman of the Board of Trade, be formed to interview the directors of the South Victoria Agricultural Society, asking if the appointment of a committee of the Board to assist in the management of the fair at Central Park, Lindsay, would be agreeable.

Mr. Lytle, in support of the proposition said that possibly the directors would agree with the statement that the Exhibition was a credit to the town's best assets. It had been established in 1854, and last year was attended by 15,000 persons, and the 5000 or so attendants spent $10,000 in cash of money—perhaps $10,000, possibly $15,000 would be added to that when the receipts at one motor crossed $3,000. Mr. Lytle—I understand that much, and all had done a large business throughout the country. All were interested in making the fair a success. He was sure the directors might find the advice of a committee of business men of use in preparing for the fair. It was evident that the attendance had fallen off over four days by securing more and better attractions, two days being reduced by 15,000 persons, and the 5000 or so attendants spent $10,000 in cash of money—perhaps $10,000, possibly $15,000 would be added to that when the receipts at one motor crossed $3,000. Mr. Robt. Bryans, Vice-President of the A. & L. Society said that they had four directors on our Board, and he would suggest that they should report on the strength of the annual gathering. He felt sure that if they did the directors would welcome the advice and assistance of members of the Board of Trade, as they realized that the success of the annual exhibition they would be sadly hampered.

Mr. Lytle—"The report might be the means of inducing our manufacturers to make exhibits of their goods in the main building. Visitors to the fair would then be induced to not call at our mills and factories, and thus secure a personal knowledge of them. It would be a good way to advertise our industries. An effort should also be made to secure a better assortment of exhibits. It would draw better than horse races."

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Geo. Jordan presented a petition signed by a number of licensed and acting stationary engineers in town and vicinity, asking the Board to endorse a petition praying the support of a bill dealing with the licensing of stationary engineers on the ground that it is a measure required for the safety of life and property.

President Kennedy explained, efforts in stating the reasons why he was opposed to the Bill. It was a matter of detail and not a matter of principle, and was best left to the Legislative committee, in order that both employers and employees might be heard.

President Kennedy—"Well, I'm opposed to the petition."

Mr. Southern—"Then must be evident to all, yet we should hear both sides."

Mr. Lytle—"Will the Bill affect threshing machines and small outfits like the Creamery, for instance?"

Ald. McCrea—"Only a 25 h.p. are exempted."

Ald. O'Reilly—Read a few words in support of the objects of the proposed measure, and closed by remarking that the relatives of those working in mills and factories often do not hesitate to dread explosions in addition to the ordinary dangers of the steam engines.

The petition was on motion referred to the Legislative committee. The house will be adjourned for two weeks, subject to the call of the chairman.

A.O.U.W. RATES INCREASED.

Young Men Get Some Concessions—Many in Lodges Interested.

The A.O.U.W. supreme lodge has approved of a new and increased schedule of rates to be charged beneficiary members. The increases and assessments adopted are very nearly those of the Government scale, and with slight variations are about the same as the Independent Order of Foresters. The increase over the old A.O.U.W. scale is considerable, but if other assessments are avoided the result will be much less different. In any event if the order is to placed on a sound financial footing members must pay the cost of benefits, and the readjustment is not made too soon. Compared with the new proposals for Foresters and those of the Independent Order of Foresters, the new and old rates of the Workmen are as follows:

16	0 84	0 90	0 74	0 80
20	0 90	0 64	0 78	0 80
25	0 96	0 74	0 84	0 94
30	1 21	0 84	1 16	1 14
35	1 43	0 98	1 40	1 28
40	1 69	1 16	1 66	1 46
45	2 09	1 30	2 19	2 18
50	2 69	1 50	2 69	2 72

It will be noticed that the increase in the rates only runs to members not beyond until 25 years is reached. At 25 the increase is only 2 cents per cent. At 45 it is over $2 per cent. At 46 it is over 68 per cent, and at 50 it is over 100 per cent. Those increases look formidable, but as members must pay the entire cost anyway it matters little whether it is done by increased rates or extra assessments. Under the rates in force a better position from an actuarial point of view and benefits are provided. The society has done much good in the past and he hope to see it prosperous and more useful in the future. And the readjustment ought to help toward that end.

EXPRESSIVE NAME FOR INDICESTION.

No one word better expresses the condition of the sufferer from weak stomach than "indigestion." Why indigestion? The stomach is weak and cannot digest the food, so that there is no appetite, there is a gnawing, burning in the stomach and bowels, the head and back ache, and the misery is more than words can tell.

Strengthen the stomach and the digestive system by the use of Mother Seigel's Syrup, a remedy so properly known that gives relief by strengthening the digestive organs to digest the food.

It is this principle that makes it a certain cure for indigestion, dyspepsia, and any other gives relief by helping digestive organs to do their work. It does not strengthen the stomach, adn that only, but it digests the food after it is taken.

Dyspepsia costs but 50 cents a box. Ask to see the strong guarantee given each box. Mother Seigel's Syrup is a tablet form and should be taken before meals. Relief is given to weak stomach troubles and indigestion are taken from the pain, and consequently the good food you eat, but Mother Seigel's Syrup digests the food in the stomach, soothes and heals all irritations, purifies and enriches the blood, and puts the stomach in such a healthy condition that it will take care of the food itself and there will be no more indigestion.

Mr. Jos. Brown, leader of the Home Circle Lodge in Lindsay, which has a membership of 50, and has hundred returned from Guelph Thursday, where he had been attending the spring meeting of the order. The two days' sessions and two night sessions were held. Over two hundred delegates were present, and the most successful meeting reports were read, showing the order to be in a very prosperous condition. The Town fathers of Guelph were in the habit of giving the H.C. a complimentary Farm in its conference room, and on Thursday night the town's grand concert was given at night. In All Parts of Canada Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been promptly effected by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham has for many years had the confidence of ill women. She has counselled with and advised thousands of suffering women, and to-day owe not only their health but their life to her kind advice.

Miss Annie E. Schwalm, of 326 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Ontario, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a specific for Leucorrhœa, with which I have been troubled for years. I also had irregular and painful menstruation which affected my general health until last spring. I was only a wreck of my former self. In my affliction I was advised to use your Compound, and am so glad that I did so. In a few weeks I noticed a change for the better. To-day I am entirely well, my strength gradually returned, and I have gained 20 pounds in weight. I considered myself a perfectly well woman, and now that I am expecting to become a mother, am very grateful for the health restoring and discovering such a wonderful remedy for suffering women.

The testimonials which we are continually publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She takes nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and always helpful.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for people to trifle with. It is best to call a physician and trust to him entirely. If, however, you are obliged to treat yourself, although he may have called in consultation, or if a physician should unwise be called, it should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia is not to be treated from a cold or from mere attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of a physician from a cold or from mere attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of a physician a threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. There is no question whatever that many lives during the thirty years and more that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy is used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sandusa, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills: "Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills: "Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills: "

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results—you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs. Not with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a sure food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you.

Its effects are exhilarating, vitalising, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle a offer for $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable life.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way that to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Let us prove to you, by the most scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs. Not with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a sure food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, you need our offer to-day. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

HER LIFE WAS SAVED THROUGH PERKINS' AMERICAN HERBS.

Mrs. H. Satchwell, of 23 St. Patrick-st., Toronto, says: "I have been a great sufferer for over six years from nervous prostration accompanied with kidney and female trouble. No one could describe the awful suffering which I endured during that time. My limbs would be so numb and paralyzed for six and seven weeks at a time and my heart would almost stop beating. During that time I have treated with many of the best physicians and have spent over another farm on my husband that I was in a very dangerous condition and the only hope I had for any recovery was in a critical operation. My husband heard of your head office on the 29th of March last, purchased a box of

UPSET THE EQUILIBRIUM OF THE CROSSINGS INSPECTION PARTY.

An Incident of the Visit of Engineer Simmons, of Ottawa.

The aldermanic party accompanying Engineer Simmons, Dominion Railway Commission expert, on his visit of inspection of Lindsay railway crossings, on Saturday, was not the Council's demand for gates, was joined by Mr. W. F. Tiffin, of Brantford, Provincial Superintendent, and Mr. Irwin, Toronto, of Lindsay, who offered country conveyances and suggestions from time to time.

When the party reached Lindsay-st. crossing, where there have been many narrow escapes recorded, the members of Council gloated about the opportunity to "get even" with the C.P.R. in a measure. No chance to castigate Ald. Robinson's reasons, forced them on the railway incorporator, and there was the stamp of the past in the words spoken by Ald. Sidney Crossing that he had always been driven into the ditch there. What had so affected the appearance of the landscape? Ah! not one man they grasped the situation—the long line of cars were generally backing the switches near by, and very often the rear car, itself, had been removed, in fact the crossing and switches were in topsy-turvy order, and like a servant girl at Messrs. Iliffin and Irwin's, they glanced it Engineer Simmons for sympathy was good to look upon. He was everywhere limping in from the cold, with the pleasant feeling that he was being sold as if he expected the potato heads to be No. 1's. Ald. Nelson, then had been sick in the neighborhood. It was a touching, spectacle indeed.

The same beautiful condition of affairs was found at the next crossing the party went, and the aldermen were fairly taken aback when Engineer Simmons for sympathy was good to look upon. He was everywhere limping in from the cold, with the pleasant feeling that he was being sold as if he expected the potato heads to be No. 1's. Ald. Nelson, then had been sick in the neighborhood. It was a touching, spectacle indeed.

It was a touching, spectacle indeed.

The party arrived at Kent-st. crossing in Victoria-ave., just in time to see the Haliburton train go whistling to take the grade! Accustomed to the wear and tear of engine-and train-life wide open, the Aldermen were thunderstruck at the spectacle, and preached the crossing as gingerly as if it were a mine-field. Ald. Graham broke on the rails, and after giving the party a wide berth, came back from across at about a four mile rate. Ald. Kelly was grimly silent, probed for sympathy, our Ald. Mc-Fadden was pleased, and Ald. Robinson bluntly asking Traimaster Irwin, "Boy, what's the matter with that train to-day anyway? Is there a first-class Superintendent?" Engineer Simmons laughed at the spectacle of the aldermen, and Mr. Irwin, Trainmaster, Lindsay, who offered country conveyances and suggestions from time to time.

ADDRESS BY ARCHDEACON CASEY.

St. Mary's Church Filled to the Doors Last Friday Night.

The announcement that Ven. Archdeacon Casey would deliver the usual St. Patrick's night address under the auspices of the Parish St. Vincent de Paul Society attracted a large number to St. Mary's church last Friday, every available seat being occupied.

The subject of the discourse was "The Roman Catholic Church and Liberty," and the theme was handled in an exceedingly able manner, the important points made being illustrated with extracts from the writings of prominent statesmen and historians. After rapidly but vividly sketching the conditions under the secular civilization of Rome, when all the liberties were taken and were no more plentiful, the Archdeacon referred to the successful efforts of the church to free the poor from the bondage that had been theirs, to establish the sanctity of married life, to guard the family, and to make women the queen of the home. The talk a position to be challenged, or a desire to promote true liberty was pointed in the middle ages by a holy charters granted the free cities of Europe and the only true democracy. Referring to England and the wonderful progress of liberty following granted out that that freedom had its inception in the revolutionary signing of the Magna Charta at Runnymede. Who had stirred up and led the barons of England to that but holy archbishop of Canterbury, the despotic ruler? Stephen Langton. Italy and the Roman Church. A brief history of the nations was started from the days of the apostles to the Catholic church for true liberty.

Referring to the origin of Separate schools in Ontario, the News says the Separate schools were not a non-sectarian Public school system, and upon them "Separate schools had been imposed by the Queen's majesty in the united Parliament."

If the News will turn up the record of the vote on the question of establishing Separate schools in Upper Canada, it will find that, leaving out the Quebec vote entirely, there was a majority from Ontario as Lord of the measure. It cannot be said therefore, that these schools were imposed on us by the Quebec majority in the united Parliament. There is enough angry feeling abroad without disseminating an error of this nature. Some of the leading Organs of the day were members of Parliament, and voted against the reforms in favor of Separate schools.

IS YOUR CATARRH REMEDY CURING YOU

If You Are Unconsciously Using An Alcoholic Liquid Remedy Stop At Once.

People soon learn that the true test of a catarrh remedy is whether it cures to stay cured. Have you ever inquired why a liquid catarrh remedy makes you feel better for a time? And is because the alcohol in the liquid used makes the mucous membrance drunk. It deprives the membrane of its sensitiveness and always leads to Alcoholic deaths. A permanent cure by any form of inhalation is impossible, because it simply impossible. Alcohol used in liquid preparations makes it almost a travesty to call them remedies. They incite the worst forms of catarrial trouble and often even suicide or death. No physician he found who will truthfully say that any liquid preparation is worthy of use. Every physician knows that it is an absolute impossibility to obtain that constant, even drug form of medicine that can be cured by a so-called Dunbar inhaler or any other inhaler. Catarrh powder is generally the best means for relief. Smith's Tyrlo Cure, Catarrh Powder, is a compounding of four separate preparations, three of which are in tablet form and the fourth a small blue ointment in the form of a catarrh cream, contains no alcohol, never leads to drug habit, and will relieve first better the first day, and each day following, and will cure catarrh in a few days' time. It destroys the germs in the mucous membranes in every part of the body. It will clear your catarrh, dyspepsia and all blood diseases. If you have long been a slave to a liquid catarrh remedy, break away from the habit. Use Smith's Tyrlo Cure, and health, abundant, full and complete, will be yours. Your separate preparations, lasting a full two weeks for 50 cents, the greatest value for the money ever offered. No Argument Will Convince a Woman that a flour is all right, if she can't make good bread with it. The one argument that wins every woman in favor of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is, that it never fails to turn out the most beautiful Bread and Cake and the most crisp and delicious Pastry when used according to the very simple "Royal Household" recipes. That one fact outweighs all the theories of two thousand years.

No other flour has ever made so many intimate friends among Canadian women in so short a time.—Perhaps it's because "Royal Household" is made by the new electrical process—that makes a wonderful difference in flour.

Your grocer sells "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" and you can have the recipes by simply sending your name and address to The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited, Montreal, and mentioning the name of this paper.

L. C. I. DEFEATED SENIORS.

THE CAME ON FRIDAY NIGHT WAS AN EXCITING ONE.

Score 5-4 in Favor of the Red School house—Game in Hill.

Captain Killen's hosts of young stars from the L.C.I succeeded in defeating Manager O'Neil's champions Friday night by a Stanley Cup score—5-4, and incidentally pocketed another championship and a silver cup to look for the red schoolhouse on the hill. Both teams played good hockey and the game was interesting from start to finish. The players on both sides were excited to rough it at times, and it would be down "Doc" Walters had not the fierce decreed with two minutes to checkmate, about 25 penalties in all, being inflicted. Pringle and Douglas were the only players who escaped former being off six and the latter five times during the evening.

For the seniors McGrath at goal played a splendid game, and made some good saves, while at point he was in great form, and his rushes up the side were unstoppable but it tendency to use his stick at close opportune times spoiled a great deal of his work. Pringle played a splendid line, living, at cover, checked in good style and his rushes caused the L.C.I. defence no end of trouble. Taylor, at cover, was the star of the forward line. "Goosie" was all over the ice and his rushes, stick-handling and shooting—particularly a neat one in the second half—was one of the features of the evening. Stockdale, centre man, is a fast skater, and he frequently got through all his opponents for a good game. His combination was not up to his usual form, being too slow at times, and too prone to run shoulder to shoulder to use to his team.

For the winners, Forth, at goal, played a star game, and some remarkable stops let him in a record of half had a good deal to do with the team winning. He was good on his fast shooting and rushes were not as up-to-date as usual. Captain Williamson was in form and ran rushes up the side very cleverly. Williamson and Keyl displayed a lack of team in checking, combination play which, if pounded, would make their defence play well night perfect. Killen was the "whole works" for the School forward line. He was "Johnny on the spot" for the game, and his skating and shooting stamped him as one of the "good ones." Doel played a good game, and his two end to end rushes were one of the features of the game, but his failure to score was due, 5 minutes; Town, Pringle, 15 minutes; L. C. I., Williamson, 4 minutes; Town, Stoddart, 5 minutes; Town Taylor, 10 minutes; L. C. I., Keyl, 5 minutes; L. C. I., Killen, 2 minutes; Town, Taylor, 7 minutes.

One feature of the game which is inexcusable is the fact that when Dr. Walters put on L. C. I. player after one occasion Collegiate Institute players so far forgot themselves as to fight to him. It is to be hoped that it will never occur again.

The L.C.I. boys would like to have the Cup by next Friday, so that they could have it on exhibition Friday evening in the Assembly Hall, during Sir Frederick Borden's speech on "Our Canadian Militia, as it was, as it is, and as it should be."

NEW TOWN MAP NEEDED.

The Town Aldermen met the Ops Councillors Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to consider the possibility of completing the survey of land north of Colborne-st, part of the section now in the Town of Lindsay and part in the Township of Ops.

Mr. C. D. Barr, County Registrar, was in attendance and showed those present several sketches in the plans of the lots, and how a map drawn up by Mr. M. Dean in 1904 differed from the registration map. Mr. C. H. Hoskins, Town Solicitor, was also present, and said that the Town must have a new plan pretty soon, and that it would be a good thing if the Township of Ops would secure their plan at the same time.

As soon disconnected discussion took place, after which the delegation withdrew.

Mr. and Mrs. Johns will greatly vho took possession of their new home Tuesday, and on behalf of our citizens, The Post promises to extend them a hearty welcome. Mr. Reynolds, who has fall purchased Mr. Boyle's farm, will move into Mr. Johns' residence in the early spring. We also learn that Mr. Richards, who is building the south boundary wall, will, on the completion of the job, move to the front of the property he has fall sold, and we understand he will build an elegant residence.

Don't Take 'Em Off.

A word, 0 fellow citizen,
Before you take 'em off!
The storm king may return again—
Don't take 'em off!
The morning may be glad and bright,
And, though it seems that springs in sight,
You can't tell what may come ere night—
Don't take 'em off!
Perhaps they may not stick and burn—
Don't take 'em off!
Too late to add the sums to learn—
Don't take 'em off!
The buds will soon begin to sprout,
The lambs are long will frisk about,
But don't you care—you just look out—
Don't take 'em off!
The bearse is not a lovely thing—
Don't take 'em off!
It's sad to have to die in spring—
Don't take 'em off!
What if the crocus wants to poke—
Don't take 'em off!
And robins sing and eat cake?
A word to you, and it's no joke—
Don't take 'em off!

IS GERMANY PRO-RUSS?

Chancellor Von Buelow and Socialist Chief Cross Bitter Wordy Swords in the Reichstag Thursday.

Berlin, March 17.—Chancellor von Buelow and Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, engaged in a bitter discussion in the Reichstag yesterday over Germany's Russian policy. The chancellor's usual composure and good humor in debate were disturbed by the almost savage criticism of the Socialist chief, who said that Germany's "Drang nach Osten" has already been humiliated her in the eyes of the world, and is destined yet to shame." He told Von Buelow repeatedly that Prussia's "Dragging in" peasants for Prussia's military service and turning them over to agents of the autocrat and for forcing men and women whose only offence was love of liberty to leave Fatherland at the instance of Russian spies."

TO JOIN DEAD MOTHER.

Ethel Ball, Formerly of Hamilton, Takes Carbolic Acid.

Windsor, March 21.—Lonely and brooding over the death of her mother, which occurred at the family home in Hamilton nearly two years ago, Ethel Ball, aged 15 years, a pretty brunette, attempted suicide at the home of her sister, Mrs. Merchant, 419 McDougall avenue, Detroit, Sunday night by swallowing carbolic acid.

"I dreamed I saw my mother," said the girl, "and then I was so lonely and unhappy I wanted to die. I went to bed, stood with her arms outstretched calling me to come. I could not rise, and I tried to put my arms around her neck but could not. I knew I was only a horrid dream and swallowed the poison."

Last night the nurses at St. Mary's Hospital says Miss Hell is very low. Her sister and brother-in-law are at my moment. In her delirium, the girl calls constantly for her mother, and assures her that she will soon be with her.

FAIRBAIRN

(Special to The Post).

It is some time since you heard of this burg—many people are not aware it is on the map, but among the residents who vouch for it are the members of Carnie Bowling & Quibell's saw mill gang, who report it a most enjoyable and pro-fitable time while in our vicinity.

Mr. Wm. Bell, of last week's Post, most enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elliott, the occasion being an oyster supper and a few games afterwards. About fifty young people were assembled and all pronounced that Mr. and Mrs. Elliott made an admirable host and hostess. The party broke up with that many an enjoyable time has been held at the above place, and only a short time ago some friends assembled at the same home with a beautiful portier lamp, showing the high esteem in which they are held by their immediate friends and acquaintances.

We are glad to report that Mr. Emmerson Bell, our local postmaster is recovered and able to be about again, after two weeks' illness.

Our local cheese factories are doing a rushing business, in fact, they are hard put to keep up good cheese.

The roads are in a terrible state at the present time, but our patrolmen are working hard and subject to have them in good shape shortly.

Messrs. Bowles and Quibell of the shingle mill have had a busy time of it here all winter, are through cutting, but undecided whether to shift their move or not depending on whether the former will be able to supply stock for next winter. The members of the mill staff are greatly liked, as they were great favorites especially with the ladies, and as they are anxiously waiting till they come back again.

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

A very pleasant evening was spent through the kindness of Miss Dunoon and Miss Mitchell, when a number of the audience of Mayor and Mrs. Fay, spent a most delightful evening on Tuesday, 14th inst. at Oakwood, the guests of honor being Mr. Samuel Mitchell and Others were present from Oakwood and Toronto.

Your correspondent, of course, was pleased to see the return of a contribution in last week's Watchman-Warder. We hope that the writer will not rest entirely with the W.-W. but contribute to our correspondents' column as well. We are more than one citizen of Mariposa who has been waiting for the return of the reverence T. G. Irwin, Mariposa Out of Bounds, to the columns of the enlightening reference is a matter of opinion, but one thing is certain, that a large number of our citizens resent Mr. Chairman's flings at Mariposa insinuations, whether it be Local Option or Municipal Ownership, is no difference matter to trade the latest staff, or Municipal Ownership Council to not know where they are at in the County Roads scheme. Such reference as these are an insult to the intelligence of our citizens, but let took place at Riverside cemetery. He was a quiet, unobtrusive man. He leaves a widow and two sons to mourn the loss of a kind parent.

IRONDALE

(From Our Own Correspondent).

A couple of sleigh loads of our young people from Irondale drove down to Mr. Kylie's to a surprise party last Friday evening, and as they were returning at a late hour a sleigh capsized. The young men were good enough to right it and then draw the young ladies across the culvert. No serious results followed.

TALBOTVIEW

(From Our Own Correspondent).

The basket social, held under the management of the skating rink directors last Friday evening, was a very fair success. About $25 was realized, which will be used to help pay off the debt.

The rain of last Saturday, being the first since winter set in, was needed, as there was getting scarce in some localities. It also helped to loosen the ice, that had accumulated on the roofs of many houses. Masses of ice fell from the eaves of houses about noon, destroying the cake frosting in many places. The snow is sinking fast, and present indications point to an early spring.

Local option suffered a severe defeat in this municipality on the 13th, with a vote of 40 to 1 against it. The temperance people have not been harassing their neighbors since with talk that does not count for much with a temperate electorate.

Mr. Thomas Hamilton, of Minden, spent Monday in our village on business.

Mr. Will. Barnum, who has been ill for the last fifteen months with locomotor ataxia, locked up old friends last week. He is not able to get out of bed, so hearty after his severe attack of sickness.

The owners of the different mills are busy making preparations for the season's cutting. Judging from the piles of logs on the river banks, and reports of the quantity cut on the lakes in the back of the village, this summer's output will equal any that has been put through. Messrs. Malloy & Bryans already have their stave mill in full work, running day and night. The ratepayers made a mistake in defeating their by-law for exemption.

Mr. Fred Keating, of Lindsay, was in the village on Tuesday attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Cowling. One or two cases re wages were disposed of, while many others were postponed owing to the non-appearance of the parties concerned.

VICTORIA ROAD.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

On Wednesday evening of last week Mr. and Mrs. Wickett entertained a number of the young people at an oyster dinner in honor of their guest, Miss Bennett, of Little Britain. The plan of entertainment showed much thoughtfulness on the part of the kind host and hostess. Music and games were enjoyed in the forepart of the evening; then came a pleasing interval which was a source of real mirth, being especially intended for the amusement of pretty and funny gifts. Out of respect for those receiving the lovely gifts we must be mentioned. After other quieter amusements a sumptuous feast served in the early part of the morning hours that slipped away almost imperceptibly and left with the greatest of moments.

The Mr. Davey entertained a few friends at her home on Thursday even last. Thank you, Mill e, for the pleasant time.

If you see anyone looking cross these days, don't mind him—they are perfectly harmless—just recovering from a siege of "grip." They'll smile some day

Mr. H. Magwood, of the Ontario Bank, Lindsay, spent Sunday in town.

It seems quite like old times to have Howard here again.

We are all glad to peep over the last week's Post and see the little feathered songsters that herald spring.

KIRKFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

Mr. Hugh Mackenzie has sold out residents of this place, died here on Friday, March 17th, in the ripe old age of eighty four. The remains were taken to Bethany for interment. The deceased leaves two sons, Mr. D. E. Cameron, of New York, formerly Depot Provincial Constable here, and Mr. John A. Cameron, mana ger of one of the promin ent banks in Toronto.

It is also our sad duty to record the death of Mrs. Malloy, wife of Mr. Malloy, son of Mr. J. Mellae, of the 7th concession, which occurred on Saturday, the 16.h. The young man had been ailing for two years with diabetes. The funeral on Saturday afternoon was largely attended, despite the disagreeable day. The young man will be much missed by all of the entire community.

We hope to hear of the speedy recovery of Mrs. Mellae.

Mr. Malcolm Fraser, who has been ill for the past week, is now out again, progressing favorably.

an adventure and fallen in love with a girl on sight and without having exchanged ten words with her? She is Mr. Terry's daughter, and has eyes that take your breath away and a form like the Venus of Milo. She paints pictures that are a wonder, considering she never has taken a lesson, and has a face more bewitching than any woman I ever saw. It is like a painter's dream."

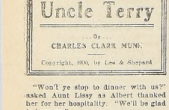
"Well, you have gone daft, old man," replied the astonished Frank.

"But you haven't heard it all yet. This unique old man, who saved me from sleeping all night in a thicket of briers and who has opened his heart and home to me, has fallen into the clutches of—Nicholas Fryp!"

"Great Scott!" ejaculated Frank. "And how on earth did he ever find Fryp, or Fryp find him? Was your old man of the island hunting around Boston for some one to rob him?"

"That I do not know yet," replied Albert. "All I know is that Mr. Terry has paid Fryp a hundred gold, and, as he says, so far has nothing to show for it. What the business was I expect to learn later. Now, what I am coming at is this: Can't you manage to leave here for the rest of the day, or, better still, make it two days? I'll tell the boys I've trumbled into a bit of trouble, which is true, that I think will come out of it, and you can run down to Bar Harbor and back here before night."

"Well, I'll do that gladly," replied Frank, and then he added with a droll smile, "It will give you a chance to say a few sweet things to that girl with the woodrow eyes, eh, Bert?"



"Uncle Terry" is now nearly noon when Albert left the yacht. He had exchanged his bedraggled yachting suit for a neat gray one, and, with a pocket camera, sketching book and a box of choice Havanas for Uncle Terry he rowed ashore. For three hours he had been watching the contours of all the Cape eyes, old or young, for a woodrow one, but so far was a novelty in their little harbor. When she steamed slowly out, with Frank and his companion, in any white duck suits, grouped on her stern, she was a pretty sight, and as she cleared the narrow entrance the crew fired three guns and dipped her flag in honor of Albert, and then he picked his way over the rocks to the lighthouse where Terry had just returned from hauling his lobster traps, and Aunt Lissy and Patty met him at the door. It is likely that his being one of the yachting party impressed them a little, for they were both dressed in their best. He was invited in, and then Aunt Lissy said: "Please excuse me, for I have dinner to git, an' Telly will entertain ye."

"And show me her pictures, I hope,"

CHAPTER XXII.

IT was nearly noon when Albert left the yacht. He had exchanged his bedraggled yachting suit for a neat gray one, and, with a pocket camera, sketching book and a box of choice Havanas for Uncle Terry he rowed ashore. For three hours he had been watching the contours of all the Cape eyes, old or young, for a woodrow one, but so far was a novelty in their little harbor. When she steamed slowly out, with Frank and his companion, in any white duck suits, grouped on her stern, she was a pretty sight, and as she cleared the narrow entrance the crew fired three guns and dipped her flag in honor of Albert, and then he picked his way over the rocks to the lighthouse where Terry had just returned from hauling his lobster traps, and Aunt Lissy and Patty met him at the door. It is likely that his being one of the yachting party impressed them a little, for they were both dressed in their best. He was invited in, and then Aunt Lissy said: "Please excuse me, for I have dinner to git, an' Telly will entertain ye."

Albert stood up and turned his cap, put in Albert, with his most persuasive smile.

It was an awkward position for Telly and one that he had never been called upon to fill. Rather shy naturally, and her sole acquaintance with the male species being limited to the few people among whom she had been brought up, to be called upon to entertain a smartly dressed and clitlled young man was a decidedly new experience. Albert saw her embarrassment and with true gallantry at once set about making her feel at ease.

"Please do not feel that you must try to entertain me, Miss Terry," he said. "Only show me your pictures and tell me about them."

"I am almost ashamed to," she replied timidly. "Father says you are an artist yourself."

"Oh, no, Miss Terry!" exclaimed Albert quickly. "He misunderstood me. I only sketch a little and once in a while make an effort to put a sketch that is of interest on canvas. All I can tell is when one looks lifelike. For instance," pointing to it, "that shipwreck scene. It is wonderfully well done. Did you paint it from a real wreck?"

Telly colored. "No, sir," she answered, "that was all done from father's description of a wreck that took place off the point one winter when I was a baby." Then, as if to check further questions, she stepped to a closet, brought him a small unframed picture and added, "There is one I have just finished."

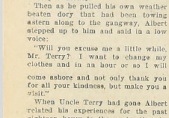
It was a view of a tall cliff with a low shelf of rock at its base, over which the waves were breaking. Albert recognized it at once. "Why, that is the very point," he exclaimed, "that I was sketching yesterday when my boat drifted away. Did you paint it from a broad flat rock on the west side of the cove?"

"Oh, yes, that is the spot," replied Telly, looking pleased. "It is shady there, and I went there to paint it early in the afternoon. It is strange you went to the same place. Father told me about finding you," she said, "and that you were turned around. You must have had a hard tramp, for it is all of two miles from where you were found to the cove, and a awful tangle all the way, he said."

"I was decidedly turned around," he came to my rescue." Albert replied, "and the sun seemed to be setting in the east. It was very kind of your father to take care of me the way he has, and I shall never forget it."

It is not often that two young people of opposite sex to get acquainted when each possesses the ability to draw and they have at least one well defined taste in common. Albert did not lose a moment's authority indeed Telly to do most of it. In the hour they passed in the little room that was the lighthouse keeper's parlor they had discovered that they were both fond of Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, Poe and Terry, and after that a desire to paint. "I do not ever hope to do much," she admitted rather pathetically. "I only have taken lessons and maybe never will learn. Now, what I am coming at is this: Can't you manage to leave here for the rest of the day, or, better still, make it two days? I'll tell the boys I've trumbled into a bit of trouble, which is true, that I think will come out of it, and you can run down to Bar Harbor and back here before night."

"Well, I'll do that gladly," replied Frank, and then he added with a droll smile, "It will give you a chance to say a few sweet things to that girl with the woodrow eyes, eh, Bert?"



"Drew yourself as holding the oars."

Telly blushed on detecting the look. When it was done she wanted him to make a sketch of it, for her. "Draw yourself as holding the oars," she said, "and I will try to paint a picture from the sketch to remember you by," she added with a smile.

Then, as the sun was getting low they started for home. The breeze had vanished and the sea was like glass. Frank and Albert pulled leisurely and lifted their boat and made the shadows of the trees along the shore wave in fantastic undulations. When they reached the Cape Telly said: "You had better go around to the west shore before you keep his boats. It's nearer to Bear Harbor, and there is a float there where you can pull your boat out. I will have supper ready when you are, and then stooped and selected a few of the flowers with which they had decked the stern sheets to carry home to them; she said quietly as she turned and followed Albert up to the house.

CHAPTER XXIII.

UNCLE TERRY and Albert had just seated themselves on the point last evening when Telly came out with a thick shawl and wrapped it around her father's shoulders. "It's a little chilly to-night," she said, "and I think you need it more, Terry," Albert," she added, "Wouldn't you like one, too, Mr. Para?"

"I would, thank you," he answered, "if you have another to spare."

Telly had two answered yes if she had asked him to put on woolen underclothes. She returned to the house and soon after Albert hearing a white reppby wrap, and handed it to Albert. "I will bring you good night now," she said, "for I presume you will sit here long after bedtime."

Uncle Terry's eyes followed her back to the house, and then he turned to his guest.

"I spose you'd rather be talkin' to Terry than to me here in the moonlight," he said plaintively, "but you've got a little acquainted. It's the way o' young folks."

"I've had a very pleasant visit with your daughter, Mr. Terry," Albert responded Albert. "She was good enough to go with me to where I got left yesterday. I found her a female to sketch I began there." Uncle Terry made no response, but puffed away at a cob of the cigars Albert had given him.

"I've told you," said Uncle Terry at last, "I've worried a good deal since last night 'bout what ye told me, an' I've made up my mind to tell ye the hull story an' trust ye with what no one else knows. To begin with, it's nineteen years ago last March when that war a vessel got afoul o' a ledge just off the light here in a snowstorm, an' all hands went down—that is, all but a little yearlin' baby that was ashore tied up 'tween two feather beds. I fished her out o' the surf, an' Lissy an' me has taken care on her ever since, an' today she's worth a thousand times more'n she cost. How much she thinks o' me I'll let ye judge by the way she thought 'bout my comfort tonight. There was a few trinkets came ashore with her—pictures o' her father an' mother, we knew, an' a locket an' ring, an' some other things —so we knowed her name an' what she cum from.

"Since then we have never heard a word from no one regardin' her people, an' I'm rather shy myself, till last winter I cum across a notice in a paper sayin' information was wanted 'bout an heir to an estate in Sweden, an' tellin' facts that made me sure Telly was the one wanted. Besides she was signed by that lawyer, Fryp, that I asked ye 'bout, an' I want to see him. He wanted proofs an' all that, an' I gave 'em to him, an', wussen that, he wanted money, an' I gave him that, for I've kep' askin' for money ever since, an' I, like a fool, kep' thinkin' I'd git it for Telly laid anything onnin' she'd git her done. I've sent him the locket an' things that belonged to her, an' all I've got so far is letters askin' for more money an' tellin' 'bout expenses an' evidence an' witnesses' fees an' bonds to be filed. Lissy an' Telly know 'bout the case, but they don't know how much money I've paid out, an' I don't want they should. That's the hull story, an' now as ye're a lawyer, an' I b'lieve an honest one, I ask ye what's best to be done."

"I see now, Mr. Terry, why you distrust lawyers, and I do not wonder at it. To the best of my belief, you have been swindled in the most outrageous manner by Fryp. He is no doubt waiting for some law firm who have instructed him to find the heir, if there is one, to this estate, and they would naturally advise all expense money. Do you know the vessel's name, where she sailed from and who her master was?"

"She was a square rigger, an' the master's name was Nelson. In the newspaper piece the name was Nella Peterson, who cum from Stockholm," answered Uncle Terry. "I've got it in my wallet now, an' so the locket was the letters E. P. on the back, an' the paper that was pinned to the baby's dress was the name Elelia Peterson."

"And did you ever show proofs to Fryp?" asked Albert quickly.

"I said I would, but he was the reply, 'an' I've jest 'bout made up my mind I was a fool to 'a done it, an' a bigger one to show proofs to Fryp."

"It would have been all right," answered Albert, "if you could have had put them into an honest man's hands. As it is you are now in fact, strictly at the mercy of Fryp, who is robbing you." Then, after thinking a moment, he said: "I will gladly do what I can to help you, Mr. Terry, and at no cost except that I could have saved is the one wanted for this inheritance. In the matter of a legacy the law is very exacting in demands absolute proof. No, the only way to use ingenuity and that Fryp or any him to name his price and pay it, and as the estate may be large his price will naturally be exorbitant."

Albert thought a moment and then

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Whitney Government economizes by increasing the salary of the chairman of the Drainage Engineering Commission from $1,000 to $3,000.

The pressure upon Whitney for offices, is very great, and he appears to be forced to yield something to it. The dismissal of fishery overseers has begun. The jobs are not fat, but the hoisters are very hungry.

Hamilton Times: The Ontario Educational Association is incubating a superannuating school teachers. Isn't that a move in the wrong direction Why not pay the teachers what they are worth and let them take care of their own future like the rest of us?

Montreal Daily Star: The Japanese Government is much distressed because the men of that country are so short. They have had a careful enquiry made on the cause of the small stature, and the scientists report that it is due to the custom in vogue with people squatting on their heels instead of sitting in chairs, the result being that their legs do not grow as long as they otherwise might.

Hereafter the boys are to be chairs in Europe so, with a view to having a taller race. In the light of all that has happened, it might not be a bad plan for other nations to teach their children to recide down upon their heels and abandon the chair habit. A record does in stature and long on fighting need not suffer pangs that they are not studiousness as the Russians are. Japan was a little chap, but the trouble he caused was big enough for all purposes. The orator worn by Patrick Henry, Latin is too easy for any average-sized man of the present day to get on their and "sand" do not always go together.

Mr Sifton's description of the school system of the Northwest will disabuse the minds of many a man who has a strong feeling against what he knows as separate schools. The Northwest will be "national" as to our public schools, and all are fully under one control.

Speaking of Mr. Whitney hiring a United States bookkeeper to go over the books of his Province, the Bolsiie Courier says: "It may be the most efficient way, though. Still, it is a pity we could not have a Canadian accountant were imported to show him the way of doing cabbies business here!" Yes. You would hear of it in every State in the Union.

Ask any friend who looks thin, pale, and sickly why he does not exercise he or she can a day, and the answer will be almost sure to be this: "Not over two, and I don't feel hungry then." The plump, rosy, and robust are those people who eat daily, and their perfect health is due to a strong stomach and digestive system, and the way to win a man's love is by the food all those elements that make pure blood, and give nourishment to vitality to every tissue.

The one appetizer and tonic that should be taken at Meals, the only agent known that will strengthen the stomach and digestive system, and put them in such perfect working order that they will digest easily and naturally all the food that is eaten, and will make you feel positively hungry for the next meal.

When such a strong stomach digestion will be poor, the blood impure, and the whole system debilitated, hence when internal troubles crop up in 1887 Dodd's Kidney Pills became necessary. Irritable, nervous, jarred temper and bad breath all of which can be readily overcome by the use of Mi-ans, (pronounced 506 a box), as it goes right to the foundation of the trouble, viz., the stomach.

Dozens of leading people in this State, including editors, ministers and lawyers when the French Canadians in 1861, when the United States could not have spared a regiment Commissioners on board ship. War seemed probable, and very soon Canada's militia force numbered 35,000 men.

In 1864, when Sir John Macdonald came into power, he prepared a thorough reorganization of the militia force. Just then the Fenians took advantage of the weak state of the U. S. Civil War to threaten Canada and once more the militia turned out and saved the country.

The Militia Force As It Is.

Sir Sam Hughes was the first Minister of Militia after Confederation, and in 1868 he presented a Bill to Militia bill of the new Dominion. Canada then possessed all the qualifications of a good warlike people and he looked to well organized force to protect and uphold it. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia had also made excellent progress in operation for some time, and there was a good foundation to work upon. The Act brought in by Cartier combined many of the features of the old and fairly modern Act, provided for an efficient reserve force and for local military districts as they are found to duty, organized companies, taken from the unorganized provinces. Side by side with this force for militia service, a service force was an equally efficient plan for the maintenance of a regular militia body to serve as a nucleus for the former in time of war. The act also provided for a body of 40,000 militia. But this force has not been carried out, he (the speaker) was sorry to say.

In 1870 British regulars and Canadian militia joined hands in quelling the Red River rebellion, after which the regular troops were withdrawn. The Kingston Military College was established in 1874. The Canadian militia in Canada have gained distinction in British eyes for its efficiency all the world. (Applause). In 1885 the Canadian militia officers and men, best of the soldierly qualities of the Dominion, and they were the finest thoughts we'll—you in Lindsay have not forgotten—responded to the call largely to the fine Midland Battalion. (Applause).

One blot on the Militia Act of 1883 was the provision for the local handling of a force in the field. Imperial troops in 1900 in South Africa were all going a journey at once. Before the Canadian militia for over 25 miles you would want support, at least, for more than 100 miles to come on. The commissariat arrangements would require parties to be kept to avoid mistakes and have food readily on hand otherwise they might starve, especially as no enemy might seem really try to interfere with the arrangements. The hospital force and nurses and ambulance service would be equally efficient. In 1885 a committee of duty, including officers, had been appointed to plan out and militia every 3 years as it was described, and it was now well understood that the militia would be better made last year when the position of Chief Military Commandant was abolished and the duties handed over to Lt. Military Council, whereby it would prove an advantage time alone would tell. He (the speaker) was glad—that it removed the danger of the mere political factor, and the continuity of ideas. Taken as a whole, Canada possessed a splendid body of men, who give to the militia more than they receive. (Applause).

The Militia As It Might be.

This portion of the subject remarked the speaker, was the most difficult to handle. The militia of Canada represented the nation in arms — the opposite to a standing army. The militia system of Canada is ready to turn out as one man at short notice to defend the country at any threatened point, was fairly and provisioned to remain in the field for some time. Great were the duties of Canadians, and we should be prepared. As an important step in this direction he was in favor of the nation to draw from, he (Gen. Lake), from all the schools—40 years ago the same thing would not have been done. Canada was dougated with the Cadet Corps of Great Britain, and the day would come they would compare favorably with the best of the British Cadet Corps. (Applause). He would do more than much than drill and exercise—they should be taught rifle shooting, and the school boys would follow suit. Selling every Cadet in the reserve force as readily as possible, he (the speaker) urged, and encourage him to join the militia for drill and rifle practice.

The force the authorities had in view, he (Gen. Lake) said, in the case of the country's rapid development in the future, was a force of 100,000 men (meaning he (Gen. Lake) felt that number was not too large. In the Australian Islands, a British possession, a force of 30,000 men for permanent service has been the rule since the days of the Maori War (applause). The boys in the schools are drilled and the young men who will be drafted into the militia as regular recruits. (Hear, hear). He would advise 60,000 men drilled annually for three days, and should fellow out closely the militia system in Australia, at present. The permanent force in Canada at present is 2,000 men, and he was of the opinion should foll

THE WATER SUPPLY PROBLEM.

The members of our Board of Water Commissioners are wrestling problems of no little weight, because the rapid growth of Lindsay has already upon them. First, they find themselves financially in a straightened circumstances as a natural consequence of their endeavors to supply the demand for pure water, and, as the natural results of the famous rate at which a wets and sewers have been put down, and for the construction under the Local Improvement Act. The services have been in full operation now from the outset, but the initial cost of putting them in has been very heavy. The Commissioners might have refused to put in the mains until the demand for water justified such an outlay, but the citizens to secure sanitary and health-building conditions, and thank goodness! our Commissioners are broad-minded men and refused to take the penny-wise and pound-foolish course. They found themselves in the position of a man who has made a splendid investment, but has not the ready cash to pay money or devise other means of taking care of the interest. The expense before the increased dividends start to flow into his coffers. The Commissioners are face to face with the difficulty by asking Council to pay for water supplied to the new hydrants put in, and for fuel for sprinkling and sewer flushing purposes. The rate paid by certain classes of water users will therefore be raised slightly.

The wisdom of this decree that just at this particular time the Commissioners were coaxed, threatened and implored to take steps to secure the proper filtration of the Scugog was for supplied to our citizens. Although the health of the town since the introduction of Scugog water for drinking and other purposes has been much better than formerly, we were told this we were in danger of an epidemic at any time, and that better filtration was an absolute necessity in the public interest. Willing to act, and desirous only to know the system most applicable to our conditions, the Board consulted the leading engineers both in the United States, and his report, based upon a personal visit and expert knowledge, declared against any chemical filtration and in favor of the English system of slow filtration as best suited to Lindsay's needs, at a total cost of about $20,000.

Just then there arose a discussion as to the possibility of securing a supply of absolutely pure and naturally filtered water from artesian wells. Several citizens had tapped flowing springs on the hill west of the town, and advocates of that source of supply pointed to the example of Newmarket and other towns. The Commissioners naturally refused more faith in the calm, dispassionate opinion of the Boston expert, but the ratepayers, filtered by the thought of securing an ample and cheap supply from flowing wells, defeated the $20,000 by-law by a large majority.

The Commissioners very properly accepted the result as a declaration in favor of an artesian well supply, and since then they have been securing all the data possible. Too much so far to be encouraging is those who do not wish to see the town plunged into another course of expenditure which, if of doubtful value to forestall the end. Lindsay used this year 160 million gallons of water, and may now spasm, in order to provide for future needs, must be able to furnish 250 million gallons yearly, or about 750,000 gallons per day. To do this, a test of fourteen to twenty wells of the capacity of the Newmarket, Berlin or Ontario Agricultural College wells would be required. These wells can from 500 to 1000 feet in depth, and cost about $2.50 per foot to drill and case. The wells might have to be pumped occasionally to increase the flow, and power would be needed for that purpose and for elevating the water into the standpipe. Then the subterranean supply would have to be vast indeed to permit of 50 or 100 wells being drawn from together, and if sentiment the cost of operating would be largely increased. The sinking of the wells might in the end turn out to be useless inside of one month or one year—no expert will guarantee the continuity of the supply; and the new system may involve an expenditure of from $40,000 to $50,000. In any event the Commissioners prefer a certainty to an uncertainty if they are to spend money to throw away upon experiments, and the sinking of one test well would not be sufficient to settle the matter.

THE FRUITS OF GODLESS SCHOOLS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his speech on the occasion of the first reading of the Northwest Autonomy Bill, made a brief reference to the shocking tragedy of our neighboring Republic and was taken to task by some of the Opposition papers for his alleged unwarranted insinuations. Below we print an extract from the Chicago Record-Herald, American, of Chicago, which amply justifies the Premier's remarks:

"In a great many things, Chicago was second by the population of Lindsay and Scugog and Mariposa on the South side, in which a lady was shot down by a young fellow in the act of attempting a robbery. In this case there is no room for question or similar doubt. The offence was a deliberate, cowardly, premeditated murder. The murderer was a youth who had enjoyed the benefits of a fairly creditable good education, who professed to be a member of a Christian home, and who was in respectable, well-to-do circumstances. Any judge trying to find the explanation of such a youth living in such conditions, possessed of good intelligence, and showing no indications of disgrace, very often has to find it in the fact that merely to gratify a propensity for gaining money dishonestly, the murderer was a youth who had enjoyed the benefits of a fairly creditable good education, who professed to be a member of a Christian home, and who was in respectable, well-to-do circumstances. WOMEN NOT TRUTHFUL

This Statement Has Been Unjustly Made, Because Modest Women Evade Questions Asked by Male Physicians.

Mme Alfred Oreand — Zula Eccliston

An eminent physician says that "Women are not truthful; they will lie to their physician." This statement should be qualified, women do tell the truth, but not the whole truth, to a male doctor, but this is only the regard to those painful and troublesome disorders peculiar to their sex.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer every questions when those questions are asked, even by her family physician. This is especially the case with unmarried women.

Is it any wonder, then, that women continue to suffer and that doctors fail to cure female diseases when they cannot get the proper information to work on?

This is the reason why thousands and thousands of women are now corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham. To her the real and the give every symptom, so that she really knows more about the true condition of her patient through her correspondence with them than the physician who personally questions them.

If you suffer from any form of trouble peculiar to women, write at once to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will advise you free of charge.

The fact that this great boon, which is extended freely to women by Mrs. Pinkham, is appreciated, the thousands of letters received by her prove. Many such grateful letters as the following are constantly pouring in.

Madame Alfred Areand of 414 Dorchester Street, Montreal, Can., writes Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Your Vegetable Compound was such a blessing in disguise to me that I am only too pleased to give my testimonial. About a year ago I contracted a severe cold at a critical period, which settled on my lungs and kidneys. I had very severe pains and dull spells, and this continued for several months with no abatement. Finally I decided to try your Vegetable Compound. After two weeks I became regular, had very little pain at the second month, and in three months' time I was restored to health. I consider your Vegetable Compound well worthy of praise."

Zula Eccliston of 474 Dyke Street, East St. Thomas, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I learned of your wonderful Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for irregular and painful menstruation, displacement of the uterus, and as one built for those who have experienced this dreadful agony and terrible ailment, and after using several bottles of your Vegetable Compound, I am pleased to say that I am entirely cured. Within three months I was fully restored to health and strength, and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to suffering women to realize there is some one to go to for help. Your medicine is better than gold to me, and I would say, 'Use it.'"

No other medicine in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has ever received the actual support of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address Lynn, Mass.

EXPLORATION PARTIES WELL FITTED OUT BY THE GOVERNMENT

Mr. W. G. Webster, of Mariposa, is Assistant Engineer With a Party Leaving Now Liskeard on a Two Years' Trip—Some Interesting Particulars.

The following is a part of a letter from W. G. Webster, Assist.-Engineer, with the exploration party now under direction of the Federal Government, in connection with the Transcontinental Railway, written to his home in Oakwood:

Macdougall's Chute, Black River.

New Ontario, March 15th, '05.

As this is my last chance to write you before we finally plunge into the unexplored bush territory, I have better write and tell you we are a party of 14—six canoes and packers, cook and assistant, topographer and chainman, chief and engineer. Our lay-out is complete, and we are now waiting for the ice to go out of the river Onaping, cache our stuff by the river bank, and start our exploration duties in that section. At present we are about 30 miles north of Sudbury, on the Canadian Pacific line, and expect to start on Monday last Mr. T. Goodwin, of Toronto, formerly of Orillia, took possession, the consideration being $4,000 and the value of stock of all kinds, which go at a valuation. Mr. Elson has been in the business for a number of years, and is an old hand at the game. He has had his eye for some time past on the property, and has now secured it. We wish him success.

Mr. Goodwin has purchased the Spring Assizes opened March 28th before Chief Justice Falconbridge, Judge Mabee presiding over the action brought by Lindsay Woollen Mills Company against Corporation for Fenelon. Where the L.B. & N. railroad crosses St. Paul's, a cut has been made, and the company are the lowering of the mains. The defendant had instructed the plaintiff to lower the mains to a certain level. The plaintiff did so, and put in a bill for about $500. The defendant paid $200 on account, but claimed it was double the amount of what the work should cost. For the plaintiff, Messrs. G. H. Hopkins and H. O'Leary, K.C.; J. B. Clarke, K. C. Toronto, for defendant.

Rogers vs. Rogers—an action of wife against husband to secure alimony. Judgment was referred to Master at Lindsay to ascertain the amount. Messrs. H. O'Leary, K. C., and G. Hopkins, Lindsay, for plaintiff, and Stewart & O'Connor for defendant.

Hay vs. Burchell—action for defamation. Verdict for plaintiff, $10 and costs. Messrs. Jackson for plaintiff, McSwayn and Smith for defendant.

The Court was in session last Friday, the only case being Barchell vs. Hay, action for damages for wrongful taking of plaintiff's cattle. The jury brought in a verdict of 20? for the plaintiff. McSwayn & Smith for plaintiff, Moore and Jackson for the defendant.

Two criminal cases were tried at the same House March 23, the first being King vs. Pamphlet, a charge of false pretences. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was let go on suspended sentence. Mr. Devlin acted for the Crown and W. E. Smith for defence.

King vs. Raymond—Aggravated assault. Verdict, not guilty. Mr. Devlin for Crown and G. D. Hopkins for defence.

Grand Jury Presentment.

May it Please Your Honor,—the Grand Jury of your County and the King beg to make their Presentment.

This is the first occasion on which the same Grand Jury have been empanelled and have attended for the business of the Spring Assizes and Quarter Sessions, General Sessions of the Peace. The change is one which we believe to be for the better, and in our opinion, but it appears to have sufficient interval to entitle it to the name of experience.

We desire to them that there is no good reason for the payment of witnesses summoned to attend Assizes and Sessions of the Crown, which could not be urged with equal force in favor of the payment of witnesses summoned to attend Division Courts. There should, however, be some safeguard whereby witnesses summoned to be of persons to testify could be prevented.

We have noticed that cases which on the prisons were found to be in perfect order. The condition of the gaol, the prison, all males, none of whom are under sentence of imprisonment. The prisoners are expressed themselves as satisfied with their treatment and food.

The Ross Memorial Hospital has been visited. They would express themselves in terms too high in commendation of the institution and its equipment, and of the care and attention bestowed upon them for the care of the sick people of the County who may be unfortunate enough to be compelled to enter in to it Hospital with such sufferings.

A visit to the House of Refuge for the County of Victoria now in course of completion, is of exceptional interest, and your Grand Jurors are pleased to state that, judging from what they have seen of the building and its surroundings, the ratepayers of the County may be assured that there can be no doubt of their ability to care for the destitute in a manner which will satisfy the claims of humanity.

The House for the Aged has been visited. Owing to the prospective opening of this House of Refuge it is probable that before another Grand Jury can be assembled the work of the institution will be ended. It is fitting on this occasion to give expression to the appreciation of the people of the County of the service that has been rendered by the members of the Board of Management who have done so much for the poor of the County with such unselfishness and devotion during the many years when there was no other public provision for the care of the destitute.

A SPRING TONIC.

Something that will Make Rich, Red Blood and Drive Out Disease.

All physicians agree that in the autumn one needs a fresh supply of new blood in the spring. The reason is plain—the impurities in the blood, indigestible food, impoverished, imperfectly ventilated homes and work places, have clogged the blood with impurities. Pimples, boils, sallow skin, the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, and impure blood is shown in a score of ways. You may only feel a little tired, or easily exhausted, or you may have more symptoms from which more serious trouble will follow. In other cases there will be a decided run-down condition, with pimples and disfiguring eruptions, occasional headaches, a variable appetite, with indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, pains in the back and loins, and the whites of the eyes tinged with a sickly hue. If in this condition you only can sure way to get rid of it, and that is to purify the blood with a new blood which comes from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This pill you take makes new, rich, blood, which drives out disease germs and all weakness, drives the gorges of disease from the body and gives you the vim and energy to resist the torrid heat of the coming summer. Mr. W. H. Saulnier, Corberrie, N.S., says: "I was very much run down and my work I could hardly work. It seemed as though my blood was full of water than water. I tried several medicines but got nothing to help me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon noticed a change, my how quickly these pills began to help me, and how much new blood and strength they gave me. They made me as sound as ever I was." You can find blood the sort of health and strength. The secret of good health is in the blood. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills do not act upon the bowels like purgative medicines, but make new, rich, health-giving blood, which strengthens every organ, every set of nerve and drives disease from the body. Be sure you get the genuine pink pills which have the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" printed on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt write to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

RAILWAY DEPARTMENT Y.M.C.A.

Manager Hays' Opinion as to Benefits Derived by Employees.

Mr. C. M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System, gives his opinion as to the benefits the railway Association in the following words: "The value to the Railroad of the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association is that it affords a means for departmenting and placing under the influence of Christian men employed by the railway for the employes when he is away from the influence of home, and would otherwise be subject to the temptations which surround him. The surround resorts of the kind he would be compelled to seek elsewhere, and for the rest and meals, at prices he could afford to pay. It extends to its members the greater security for the care of their money. In other words, I regard the money we spend for the maintenance of these buildings we have at terminals on the road, devoted to this same purpose, as well as the Young Men's Christian Association, as so much money paid toward insurance by the Company for expenditures for personal injuries and damages to property, and to arise when an employee's physical condition is impaired, and is shorted by reason of lack of proper rest or discipline.

RAILWAY DEPARTMENT Y.M.C.A.

Manager Hays' Opinion as to Benefits Derived by Employees.

Mr. C. M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System, gives his opinion as to the benefits the railway Association in the following words: "The value to the Railroad of the Railroad Department of the Young Men's Christian Association is that it affords a means for departmenting and placing under the influence of Christian men employed by the railway for the employes when he is away from the influence of home, and would otherwise be subject to the temptations which surround him. The surround resorts of the kind he would be compelled to seek elsewhere, and for the rest and meals, at prices he could afford to pay. It extends to its members the greater security for the care of their money. In other words, I regard the money we spend for the maintenance of these buildings we have at terminals on the road, devoted to this same purpose, as well as the Young Men's Christian Association, as so much money paid toward insurance by the Company for expenditures for personal injuries and damages to property, and to arise when an employee's physical condition is impaired, and is shorted by reason of lack of proper rest or discipline.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is a good, healthy appetite. If you have not got the happy possess of such an article, you can procure it by the use efficiency of those you have by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They produce a mild, but natural effect. For sale by all druggists.

BIG STORE'S SPRING OPENING

DUNDAS AND FLAVELLES LIMITED "RECEIVED" THURSDAY NIGHT.

Every Department Thronged With Delighted Visitors.

"What are fashion's newest decrees?" is the all absorbing question among the ladies when spring opens up and even the gentlemen evince a keen interest in the new creations and the trend which many unworthily seek to excuse by saying, "Oh, we do this very thing should in duty have the privilege of a first look."

That this interest, now at its highest among both sexes was manifested March 23rd, when several thousand of our citizens visited the store of Dundas & Flavelles Limited, to inspect the new goods on display—comprising the pick of the choicest productions of the world's looms—which was brilliantly lighted and tastefully decorated, and the visitors fairly revelled in the wealth of beauty and quality of all sides. And of course the dress goods department was almost constantly thronged. Many of the costumes, and others who hope to be in time for these festivities, are showing a tendency to fondness for the darker shades, and there would have been due in part to the fact that the light colors are becoming easy control. The cloth department and furnishings section are also visited by hundreds, who found much to interest and delight in the many new creations displayed there.

Everything points to a successful season for this House, and the management are to be congratulated on the splendid display made on the opening, and the success it has met with so far during the present month.

Up to the Township Authorities.

Fenelon Falls Star: The carcase of a cow recently killed on the track north of Village has been allowed to remain on the ice in Cameron Lake. Being outside the corporation limits the town authorities should not have any jurisdiction to order its removal. But there are times when the stoppage of the ice it will not prove a nuisance to the inhabitants of the local Board of Health, but it will be too late when a case has contracted it. Steps should be taken at once to see that we have the carcase removed but to also prosecute the party responsible for placing it there.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is the most serious disease for anyone to attempt to cope with, although the many have the proper remedies at hand. Any person should engage in child. It is the most dangerous and fatal that pneumonia always results from neglected colds, or from an attack of the grip, and by the time a physician is called in it has reached a threatened attack of pneumonia which is alarming. Before the question whatever about this, as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent it if taken in time. Mrs. Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and can say that it is the best cough medicine I have ever handled in the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always found the best results." For sale by all druggists.

Another Notet Changes Hands in Town at a Good Figure.

Our genial boss Mr. Chas. Veitch became the landlord of the Queen's Hotel Edward hotel, just west of the post office, paying $900 for the good will of the property, it is owned by Mr. Knowlson. On Dec. 8th last Mr. Knowlson sold to Mr. Veitch his interest in the business, the consideration being $4,000 and the value of stock of all kinds, which go at a valuation. We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken to-day. Medicine in almost hopeless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. It is worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Nausea—Dyspepsia / Indigestion / Flatulence / Sour Stomach / Gastritis / Heartburn / Catarrh of Stomach / Ulcer of Stomach / Stomach Troubles / Auto-Intoxication / Chronic Constipation / Kidney Disease

All diseases that begin with Dyspepsia or Indigestion, or that have Constipation for a result, or require an impure or poisoned blood. In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drug can do.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never taken it, cut out and send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, and is to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please, accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

ALDERMANIC FIELD NIGHT.

WATER COMMISSIONERS WISH TO CONFER WITH COUNCIL.

Citizens to be Protected Against the Extortionate Charges of Town Sea-vengers—Medical Health Officer's Salary Reduced, and Town Physician's Head May be Cut Off.

Our town fathers met in committee on Wednesday night, and had a number of important subjects. Aid Rea was the only absentee.

Interesting Matters.

On motion of Aid. Thompson, the question of sewage and in the town park hollow was prohibited.

In connection with the complaint made at last Council meeting by Mr. Geo. Cassers on behalf of the town farmers, referring to the unsanitary conditions of meats in Peterboro as compared with Lindsay prices, and which was referred, Aid. Graham desired to hear at next meeting.

The communication from the Tele Operating Co. of Peterboro, was next considered. At last meeting Aid. O'Reilly pointed out that the town's conditions should be protected against outsiders who paid no taxes, and Aid. Fahey, chairman of the Police and Lighting committee, was instructed to consult Town Solicitor Hoskins, but the latter was absent, and Nevison, who informed him that the firm in question were not liable for the trenches. Aid. Graham and Aid. O'Reilly again pointed out that, inasmuch as the company had to get an open per on the assessment roll, as the statute calls for, the Chief must be sworn in. The Chairman was appointed instructed to consult the Town Solicitor.

Mayor Ray informed the members that a communication had been sent to town had objected to the granting of licenses to outsiders of long standing, and he thought their ground was well taken. The Aldermen took the same view, and it was agreed that the Curtis By-law be amended so as to impose a higher fee on outside companies.

Engineer Way will be asked to report to Council in explanation of the wide discrepancy between his relation of the amount of work done for County for the House of Refuge and that on the Council's estimate.

Aid. O'Reilly proposed that tenders be called, but Aid. Graham was on Wellington, Glenelg and Lindsay-sts., which had been petitioned for several years ago, but Mayor Ray thought it would be wise to wait until the snow and the drainage question was settled, as it might be inspected. By calling for tenders at once, the chances are that a better rate should be secured than if only one offer was received for the work. We must expend no money this year that is not absolutely necessary.

Mayor Ray—"There is another matter—a piece of good roads machinery—some Lindsay property—and Aid. Graham is the owner of it."

Chief Kingsmill—"The town fathers refused to be bothered by the offer of a steam roller, and I have had a good offer with a view to buying it. Later on they may need it, and I would like to get a decision."

Aid. Graham—"I would like a little written several times about the terms of the roller which was recommended by Mayor Brand at Hamilton."

Town Salary List.

Aid. McCrea—"I gave notice at one of the previous meeting that the salaries of Town Physician be abolished and that the Medical Health Officer's fee's cut down to $150 per annum. The partial re-election of Dr. Ormiston."

Clerk and Treasurer.....$1600 00

In reply to Mayor Ray, Mr. Knowlson said he had no assistance being employed, but there was work for another paid, but we can do nothing for 700 this year.

Aid. McCrea—"Apparently we have been trying to do too much in the matter of police, but we ought to get rid of the present Chief."

Mayor Ray—"I believe I'm supposed to be a member of the Police Commission, but I haven't received any notice to attend a meeting since the summer office."

Aid. Fahey—Mr. Mayor, I think the Police Commission is dissolved—the by-law has been repealed—but the Board shall meet after the municipal elections, and I think it is desirable, and this has not been done."

Mayor Ray—Mayor's salary—$100 was read, his Worship asked, "How much are they going to be reduced to the estimates?" The answer he received was Dead. O'Reilly was away since you refused it."

Aid. Fahey—Office of Town Physician was reached, Aid. O'Reilly and Aid. McFadden, agreed that the office be abolished, the former pointing out that the salary was only $150, and that when the hospital was established the town physician would be unnecessary.

Aid. McCrea—"He hasn't reported to us, and can't have anything to do."

Mayor Ray—"We gave the hospital $600 last year, but that was not all, much as the town paid for the use of the County grant of $1200."

After some further discussion it was agreed that Dr. Herriman be asked to meet the Council at its next meeting.

The salary of the M. H. O. was next challenged, Aid. McFadden moved a reduction of $50, and by seconding that in Peterboro the occupant of the position was paid $700.

Aid. Maunder—Other doctors are willing to take the job for less than $150." He then moved seconded by Aid. Robinson, that the salary be $100—Carried.

It was proposed to have Street Overseer O'Neill look after block front in town, and Aid. Graham spoke in favor of Mr. D. C. Trew's salary of $75 as Street Officer standing as last appointee but Mayor Ray and Chief Kingsmill were benefited by the fair-ness of the work done by the latter in the matter of the Fair Ground fire.

Mr. Trew will be paid out of Relief Fund.

Mayor Ray promised to enquire into the matter that Sanitary Inspector Douglas still inspects a fee for the cleaning of privies and rooms, contrary to instructions from the Council.

These are Important Points.

The building laws upon a time used by the town for hospital purposes has been under consideration for some since but no revenue accrues to the Council as a result. It has been one of the many looks that helped to make the town the present unsatisfactory condition. Chief Nevison will interview the tenant and endeavor to get the rent.

Aid. Sandy Hopkins will tell the Waltz MTG Co., Toronto for $30, the price of two publications of a by-law withdrawn at their request.

Aid. O'Reilly drew attention to the importance of a by-law to license and regulate town scavengers. At present citizens were entirely at the mercy and were being badly protected. The town provided a dump-ing ground and inducements for the reception of deposits, yet extortionate charges were exacted for the removing a pond cow, which with the exception of $250 or $300 kept our kitchen and household refuse, ser-vices rendered at present unsatisfactory, sometimes treble a fair figure.

After Alderman agreed that Aid. O'Reilly had mentioned a substantial grievance, and a by-law would be given attention. It was decided to impose a license fee of $3 and so it was a matter of charges, the work to be done within certain hours.

Mayor Ray—"Gentlemen, we have to face a floating debt of about $20,000. If we include the amount the Water Commissioners are behind they desire to confer with Council concerning their claims for an increased payment in compensation for water furnished for the hydrants, street sprinkling, sewer and sidewalk flushing etc., and in the meantime we must consider the situation carefully."

Aid. O'Reilly—We are getting favors that we were not getting from the private companies. If the Commissioners demand increased rates they would be most unfair to tax those who do not use the water for the benefit of the system."

Mayor Ray—"It gets both ways. We've got to keep the plant going."

Aid. O'Reilly—"For the protective purpose only, and that would not be very costly. There's a way of getting people are allowed to put their drinking water at a higher level and then locate their vapor open night and day. I think the Commissioners should meet run the works as a scientific business proposition."

Mayor Ray—"There's another thing we'll have to do—get to-to-talk with the members of the School Board. I believe they could save a lot of money if they wished."

Aid. Graham—"Mr. Mayor, makes a big mistake in mixing the school and town affairs. We have to find the amounts for each presented on separate lines, and I don't see exactly what sensation is causing them."

The Aldermen signed all of the jobs, and it will no doubt be carried out.

The committee adjourned about 10.45 p.m.

LINDSAY'S SAW AND SHINGLE MILLS

Being Fitted Up for a Heavy Season's Work—Will Start Cutting Early

Our readers will remember that some time ago we were beginning to assess a shingle combine, and that we are undergoing the necessary general overhauling before commencing the season's cut of logs cleaning of the forest. All the mill men expect a good season and large cut, and they will not commence when the ice has become free of ice.

Mr. John Carew and the Baker & Ross Co. are amongst logs in the river left over from last season, to be about six cords, so as to be on hand the time they get those sown this month logs are to arrive from the different localities in the north country. Trees are marked in the spot to start their mills about the 15th of April, and when the ice will likely be gone out of the river, so that they will be able to get a number of machinery can already be seen in the Victoria Mills, and where rough boards are being trimmed and dressed for the season's order Cow mill opposite Beck's timber limits, and will not start operating until the second week in May.

IN THE NURSERY.

Every mother should be able to treat the minor ailments of her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness and often save child's life. A simple remedy in the home is therefore an absolute necessity, and many mothers have found Baby's Own Tablets as good as Baby's Own Tablets. They break up colds, relieve indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles, break up Simple Fevers, expel worms, aid teething, and make little ones sleep and thrive. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate or poison-ous soothing stuff. Mrs. Alex. Mc-Donald, Dalhousie Mills, Ont., says: "I think I can think Baby's Own Tablets the best medicine in the world. Baby is constipated, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets he rids himself of it. I also find them good when he is at all restless, and I feel I cannot say too much in their favor." An Example That Will be Popular.

A young man named Burks, of Detroit ward, did not remain to see the benefit of a benefit concert in the Academy of Music last Friday. He undertook to run matters to his own liking, and the police management of the Academy would not have it that way. He was ejected from the premises, whom went unheeded, and he was given a thrashing by several members of Policeman Reeves and deposited in the police station. He was fined before the Cadi next morning and was unable to raise the amount, $10 and his foolishness. The management of the Academy has banned him from the library, but will not permit any fighting on the gallery or around the entrances.

Mr. Fred Burks Remembered by his Socialist Comrades.

On Wednesday, March 22nd, a number of friends assembled at Mr. Burks' residence on the corner of Beaconsfield-st. and Bloor-st., to bid farewell to their esteemed friend and fellow-worker, Mr. Fred Burks, who is about to remove with his family to Toronto. The occasion was taken advantage of by Mr. Burks' comrades, for the benefit of his health, the sisters here being too severe. Mr. Burks was presented with a handsome gold pin and the following address, to which he made a most suitable reply:

Dear Comrade,—We, the members of the Socialist Party of Canada, have learned with regret of your coming departure from this city, and we take the opportunity of meeting you to say "Good-bye" and "God speed" to you. When we look back over the years that we have been out and the many and valuable services you have rendered to the movement in this city we recognize—as all must—that through the genius and untiring efforts of a few of us the movement has made the progress that it has in this city.

Also, we wish to place on record our appreciation of the valuable literary efforts of your noble work for the cause, and especially of those which have been aided in your efforts by the Socialist Party of Canada, and in her we tender our most sincere regrets that you should be unable to attend this meeting, not for its success, for that is assured, but to personally speak.

Signed on behalf of the League),

A. L. MATHORNE,
President.

Lindsay, March 22nd, 1905.

Many of our citizens will regret to learn of Mr. and Mrs. Burks's pending departure and will join The Post in wishing them the greatest prosperity in their new home under the Stars and Stripes.

BUBONIC VICTIMS.

India's Death List Exceeds That of War in Far East.

London, March 23.—Replying to questions in the House of Commons last night, Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of State for India, said that the latest figures on the plague in India showed that for the four weeks ending February 28, in the Bombay Presidency there were 13,475 deaths, and that for the four weeks ending March 11 in the rest of India there were 132,599 deaths.

The total number of deaths from the plague in the Bombay Presidency from January 1 to February 28 were 28,751, and in the rest of India from January 1 to March 11, 248,174.

Mr. Brodrick said he had communicated with the Viceroy of India, looking to a remedy for this deplorable loss of life, and that he had also decided to send out a scientific expedition to investigate the disease. The expedition will start immediately.

Andrew Missamphelli Very Ill.

Toronto, March 24.—Andrew Missamphelli, Provincial organizer for the Conservative party, is lying at his home on Close avenue at the point of death. For the past few days he has been ill with typhoid fever, and yesterday took a very serious turn. Heart troubles also set in, and he is now reported to be sinking rapidly. The Government of Salvador is also reported in readiness to take the body as soon as a revolution shall have been launched.

Found Man Dying in March.

Windsor, March 24.—While hunting muskrats near the M. C. R. bridge in the River Rouge swamp, about two miles from River street, in Delray, a party of hunters found the body of a man, merged in water nearly to the should-ers, and head resting against the weeds, showing that the man was trying to get out of the water. He was still alive and breathing faintly. The man was taken to the Detroit Athletic Clubhouse, where he seemed to revive, and while there he uttered a few words, said, "Let me catch my breath." He then became unconscious and the hospital doctors worked over him, but it was of no avail. The man died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital, probably of exhaustion.

Canada Tunnel Certain.

Chicago, March 24.—The Michigan Central Railroad is going to build a tunnel under the Detroit river between Windsor, Canada, and Detroit. This was learned on Saturday by a Canadian Parliament, granting the railroad permission to build the tunnel. The cost of the tunnel, makes it certain the project will be carried out, and work will be commenced this summer.

The tunnel will be private and solely the property of the Michigan Central. No other line will have the right of construction.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy: they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

WHERE LIVING IS DEAR.

Wood Sells at $18 per Cord -One Servant Costs $75 a Month in Dawson.

The Yukon World, of Dawson, Y.T., in discussing the question of civil servants' salaries on there, says:

The Yukon has eight months of winter and seven winter when everything is expensive. The thermometer sometimes shoots down to 60 below, and wood sells from $12 to $18 per cord. Fresh meat cannot be had and cold storage stuff is not considered a luxury. Artificial light is needed at 4 o'clock and it is usually dark at 9 o'clock a.m. The grocer's bill, the butcher's bill and the coal bill are big items.

Take for example, the cost of running an ordinary house in Dawson during the winter months.

Rent, $60 per month; servant, $75 a month; fuel, average $30 a month; during the year the average cost of wood or coal are burned at an average price of $25 a month; light, $15 a month; telephone, $5 a month; water, $5 a month; average, $5 a month; meat, $10 a month; the grocer, and the butcher, from three to four hundred dollars a year; dry, which costs ten times as much as in the city. Think about to dress and recreation.

Lindsay Citizens in a Wreck.

The mixed train from Port Hope, which leaves here about 6 p.m. met with a right accident at the Pile Factory dip near Port Hope on March 22nd. A brake beam on one of the cars gave way and the rails spread. One car was thrown onto the ties in the road bed, the coaches, mail, baggage, express and smoking cars remained on the rails. Conductor H. Kelley was in charge of the train, and Engineer J. Harvey was at the throttle. The Lindsay artillery cleared the track.

Mr. Appel will be found in the old Ontario Bank premises, on the west of the Simpson house. Mr. Appel will guarantee that his goods, and his rule and his new suits in another column should be read.

Owing to the dangerous state of the milk supply milkmen have been unable to make their regular trips to the cities and to the Creamery, which receives quantities of the rural milk, has had to do small ices, the result has been a heavy loss. Mr. Wm. Rowe, however, will be understood when we say that the Rowe House uses the cream for dessert daily in addition to about five gallons of ice cream.

—The April number of the Bookman Magazine contains an article descriptive of lumbering operations in the Maine woods. A peculiar fact in connection with this tale is that the striking illustrations accented are pictures of lumbering scenes in our own Ontario and Ferguson limits, and comprise views of the Carew mill, two of the camp and drive lumbering gangs, and several scanners starting off with tows. Our Board of Trade should protest against this bold theft of Ontario scenery.

During the last year it has been noticed that the tolls are largely affected by an increasing number of people who, it is hoped, will yet come to be in the future, until Peterboro market regains the place which it once held.

How to Seal Letters.

It is often very desirable to know how to seal a letter so that it shall not be opened without betraying the fact. Steam or hot water will open almost any sealed envelope, and even a wafer. A hot iron or a spirit lamp dissolves sealing wax, an impression in plaster may be spoiled, and the seal broken off by the application of wet. By the combined use of water and sealing wax, however, it attempts to open the letter otherwise than by force can be frustrated. All that is necessary is to close the letter first with a small piece of paper and to impress it with a coarse needle(the same applies to matching) and then seal the sealing wax may be used in the usual manner. This seal cannot be opened by dry heat nor by moisture.

—The engines being constructed at the locomotive works in Kingston for the Intercolonial Railway will be the largest ever turned out in Canada. They are to be ready for the first destination over the G.T.R'y.

The line will be established at Ragged Rapids, where the town property is located. A by-law will be submitted to the electors in the near future, provision being made that in the event of the railway being sold, or not completed, the bonus debt be void.

Pointers on Baseball.

Here are a few pointers given by a veteran Big League pitcher which may be of assistance to some of our local players:

Take the ball with the two forefingers and the thumb for all styles of curves, and hold the ball as far back in this way.

Straight balls over the corners of the plate will often prove more effective than curves, if pitched right.

Keep the ball high when the batsman is ready to bunt. A curve or slow ball is very effective when you have two strikes on the batter to fly.

Don't throw to the bases unless you are pretty sure of catching your man. Many games are lost on the infield your arm and cause you to lose your.

Fight shy of the underhand ball as a rule, as it is liable to injure the arm if used too much.

Work a change of batter with close curves about waist high, with an occasional one to the outer corner of plate.

Don't forget that there are seven other men behind you on the field whose interests are the best results of the game.

Don't make the mistake of throwing too many curves. The man who depends almost entirely on this class of curves is the most unsuccessful pitcher, as his arm will last a great deal longer.

THE TOAST LIST.

When the needs of the inner man had received due consideration, Col. Sylvester introduced the following toast list:

"The King," honored by all rising and singing the national anthem.

"Our Guest," was received with three cheers and a tiger. Gen. Lake, on rising, returned thanks for the hearty welcome accorded him by the officers of the 45th, which Regiment occupies a prominent place among the militia of Canada. He could express no better wish in their behalf than that the future might hold for them a measure of honor and prosperity as great as they had enjoyed in the past. (Cheers).

"Our House of Parliament" was responded to by Senator McHugh and Col. Sam Hughes, M.P. The Senator paid a compliment to the intelligence and politics of this city, by assuming that all were careful readers of the proceedings of parliament and thus knew as much about them as he did himself. He referred to the responsible government, as he did himself, and would be glad to be as sorry for him to dwell upon the subject. He regretted that the country had been well governed in the matter of both the Provincial and Federal Governments and the Senate. He paid a well-deserved tribute to Gen. Lake visit Lindsey, and the disappointment at first experienced because of Hon. Mr. Borden's inability to be present. Everyone had since been turned into pleasure on meeting the General, who had made many friends since his coming". (Applause).

Col. Sam Hughes said if there was anything in his parliamentary career to which he looked back with keen pleasure and satisfaction, it was the knowledge that he and Lord Aberdeen were all in his power to create a friendly feeling at first sight. He was the House towards the militia of Canada. He had been unable to get a biased politician because he refused to treat this matter as a party question, and because whenever he saw a fair opportunity to do so he was opposed in person to the Minister, in whose behalf, it appeared, he had said that he was always ready to listen and also to act. Gen. Lake's visit to Lindsey would bear good fruit, and the citizens would be for many years hence. (Applause).

"The Local Militia" brought Major E. H. Hopkins to his feet. In opening he said he would confine his remarks to two matters which he thought were important. One was the up-to-date fund for the 45th Battalion and the camp—Camp John—which he deemed unsuitable for a corps battalion; all companies should be home for July 1st. His experience of 20 odd years as a member of the militia force suggested the second matter. Formerly a badge was offered for the best marksmanship at the ranges, but this had been superseded by gift practice, which in his opinion was of little benefit. Practical work is needed to develop good shooting—he had been ashamed of the rank as lieutenant in camp now and then, once more, largely owing to failure to take ten good shots at his back than 200 who could only score a bull by accident. The men who go to camp once have not the interest to go a second time, and he would say "Do away with the Martini-Henry."

Major Hopkins followed Major Hughes and at the outset of his remarks he acknowledged that the present Minister of Militia had done much for the militia of Canada, much remained to be done, and he was glad that he was there, and the spirit is working. During the last few years we have done what was never done before — we have sent bodies of our militia to fight in the foreign wars of the European wars (Applause). Today the pay of the militia is better, the uniforms are better, and the outlook in general are better, than was the case a few years ago. As for the 45th Victoria Regiment, it will compare favorably with any other regiment in Canada, (Applause) and as my officers from Col. Sylvester down had the best interests of the force at heart. They had to be content with in the way of enlistment. Ranges are high and laborers scarce, and men find it difficult to get away. He understood that the head of the Minister of Militia for the betterment of the force lauded the erection of a proper armoury at every big battalion headquarters and provided, which was good news for the officers and men of the 45th. (Applause). There was a lack of properly qualified officers in many rural battalions, because few could afford to spend the money necessary to secure the instruction, but when a rural officer qualified (only three in force gains a first-class man, and the Minister ought do something to encourage officers to so fit themselves by making expenses payable from rural regiments to staff positions and by promoting capable commanders of rural regiments to the commands of a brigade. (Cheers).

The toast, "Lindsey's Collegiate Institute Cadets," the last on the list, was replied to by Capt. Lansley, the orator of the School, who in a speech of some length said considerably believer justified the teaching of military drill in schools, as same was physically and morally beneficial to the child to do so, because it develops a splendid material for the militia that is ready and to be found. He thought Cadet Corps officers and men should be furnished with suitable uniforms and equipments, as to follow without regret, compulsory for.

The banquet came to a close at 12.30, when the national anthem was sung with a will.

An Advertising Policy.

In a recent lecture on "Railroad Advertising," delivered at the University of Wisconsin, by the general advertising manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, declared that while starting posters depicting the luxury of modern travel were very effective, railroads got better returns from newspaper advertising than from any other medium. The Big Four railroads spend from $100,000 to $300,000 a year for printing, the opinion of their experts says great worth. It is advertising that keeps the most off the rails.

And since that day she has never been seen,

Good-by, my lover, good-by.

And he was a brunt away from school,

Good-by, my lover, good-by.

And the mule pushed out with its hind foot,

Good-by, my lover, good-by.

He started to clean out an empty gun,

Good-by, my lover, good-by.

And looked down the barrel, oh! just for fun,

Good-by, my lover, good-by.

Johnny can't clean any guns any more.

THE PARISIAN SUNK

WON IN RACE WITH DEATH

Half of Parisian's Stern Was Cut Off, and Albano's Stern was Badly Twisted, But Boats Made Their Piers in Halifax Harbor Without Losing a Life— Passengers Panic-Stricken.

Halifax, N. S., March 27.—One of the narrowest escapes from an accident which would have horrified the world took place in this harbor Saturday evening when two ocean steamers, the Parisian, of the Allan Line, with 800 people on board, and the Albano, of the Hamburg-American Line, with almost 200, crashed together about five miles from the harbor. Both vessels made the pier all right, but at present the Parisian is down so low in the water as it is possible for her get with her starboard cut off, and the Albano is the adjoining dock has her stern badly twisted and is making water rapidly.

Albano Crashed Into the Parisian.

Both steamers were due two days before, but had met with heavy weather on the way. The Albano passed the Parisian slightly in the lead. At Chebucto Head they were down to receive the pilots. The Albano kept a little ahead, passing within the Parisian's bow before the officers of either ship realized the danger—pending had appeared on deck as to make a collision inevitable. She struck while she was going astern, and Capt. Johnson, of the Parisian, ordered "full speed ahead." But the order came too late, as the Albano crashed into the Parisian's starboard quarter thirty feet from the stern, cutting a hole three feet long and four feet wide.

The stricken boat heeled right over to port and the passengers and crew who were below it seemed as if she was going over at once. The crew made for the deck, where the officers had already turned out to allay their fears. Orders were given to stand by the lifeboats, and the steamer's head was at once pointed up the harbor, and she forged ahead at full speed. It was a race with death, for the water in the crew pouring in and no one knew the moment the steamer might go down quick. Many passengers were badly frightened about the decks, while others knelt in prayer. The officers succeeded in thoroughly reassure them, but within a few minutes the lifeboats and rafts had been supplied with life preservers, while the lifeboats were placed in order ready for instant launching, in case the steamer showed signs of foundering.

The suspense of those on board the Parisian was intense. Great volumes of water were pouring from the vessel, and although apparently with the intention of running the numerous pumps and keeping the vessel plowing along at top speed. Half way up the harbor the Parisian's stern had settled many feet, and it was seen that she was fast going down, and that she must reach the dock before she sank. Fortunately this was seen, and those on board realized that the danger had passed.

The vessel ranged alongside her wharf, lines were thrown out, gangways were placed, and all the passengers rushed to land as the stern of the Parisian sank to the bottom.

Fine Discipline Shown.

The Albano, which lay behind the Parisian, had a somewhat similar experience, although not nearly so grave, to keep her bow compartments fairly dry, but the alarm on board was not so great.

The Albano reached her dock a short time after the Parisian, and all passengers, only a few of whom were booked for this port, were transferred. The discipline exhibited on board both steamers following the collision was commendable.

The weather at the time of the collision was quite clear.

It will probably be weeks to repair her, and the job will be a costly one.

The Parisian left Liverpool on Capt. Kuderhold and was bound to New York. She had a full cargo of water, a number of plates are stove in, and her bottom is broken. She does not appear to undergo repairs here, although it may be that the Allan Line will do the work. The cargo of the Parisian, consisting of general freight, is for Montreal, and a large portion of it is damaged.

The following are the passengers:—F. W. Ayre, Mr. Body, J. Buchanan, J. Bull, Mr. Curtis, Miss Furlong, D. A. Goodbun, Mrs. Goodbun, S. B. Green, Mr. Joslin, L. Jourdan, Mrs. Jourdan, Dr. Kirkpatrick, S. B. Mendelsohn, Lewis, Mr. Lumsden, Mr. Mc-Lean, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Moore, Mrs. Moore, T. Pepin, Robert Scott, A. C. Smith, G. H. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Mr. Thought, Mr. Williams, F. J. Williams, A. Wilson.

Noted Theologian Aboard.

Toronto, March 27.—Rev. Dr. Kirkpatrick, professor of divinity and master of Selwyn House, Bishop's College University, England, who was one of the passengers on the Parisian, is to be an early visitor to Toronto.

Dr. Nelles Dying in London.

London, March 27.—Dr. John A. Nelles, the oldest practising physician at the city, died very suddenly Saturday morning, at his residence in London South. He is survived by three daughters and four sons, two of the latter being in business in Montreal and another connected with the Molsons Bank. Dr. H. B. Nelles, of the city, is a brother, the late Principal Nelles, of Victoria College, Toronto, was also a brother. Dr. Nelles was 78 years of age.

HIDEAWAY COTTAGE MUSINGS

RECOLLECTIONS OF PIONEER TIMES AND INCIDENTS IN LINDSAY.

(By Thomas Fee, Lindsay.)

Mr. Editor,—Once more I have taken my seat, looking out over the ever pleasant Scugog. My eyes are under no restraint in search of some object that will call to mind some material for my next letter. Well, this is a beautiful morning, the trees on the banks of the Scugog, east of my cottage line just come in view. "There" said I, "that big stack has a history worth recording."

There was a big stack towering aloft on that lot when I had a little more brick in it than the present one has, and was twenty feet higher. It stood, I think, not more than fifty feet from where the present stack stands. It fell and was rebuilt, but it did not fall until the building it belonged to was burned down by them who were undermined and overthrown down on purpose to get the brick in contention. The reason for to have been a malignant curse follow every man that settled or do them ross on the lot that the tall stack stands on. Mr. Jeremiah Burk, a big general store up town, and sold nearly everything from a needle to an anchor except beer, as he conclude, of Jack he would take to be safe. At least his many customers to good homebrewed ale. He built a big brewery on this unlucky lot, and although it continued to do a big trade with beer, the brewery ate up all the profits of his store, and he was forced to the wall, a ruined man. He died soon after. As a while, then came back to town for some years before going to New York, where he died. He was married to a sister of Mr. Jeremiah Burk, and one of the nicest men you could meet. His brewery and gone out of business, long before this, being burned down.

The next victim to settle down on the lot, where the dangerous stack stands on, was Joshua Extract Co. of Montreal. They sent one Jim Healy over to manage it. He lived in that big brick home back of the good old north of the Kent property.

He Put on Terrible Style.

—it was said all his tableware was solid silver. Well, he built the extract factory about where the tannery stands now. It was a very large building, three and a half storing high. There were two very large steam boilers put into it and connected with a big steam engine. It was reported to, and a powerful engine to grind the roots, and a very large hydraulic purchases for rapid drying purposes.

The factory was fitted up with expensive machinery and a lot of men were kept in the employ of the company. They were brought from the back country on sower, and Healy had a big boarding house. He lived like a lord on the fat of the land. The business did not pay—where there could not be got half enough water to run the machinery running. One of the Montreal owners told me that Healy had lost in the speculation. The business was shut down and every bit of machinery, including the engine, but not the boilers, was taken out of the building and sold.

The property then stood idle for some time, when Victim No. 3 came along and bought it—another Montreal Firm. The building was then fitted up with very expensive machinery to Make Wrapping Paper.

There had to be some additions made to the building for this purpose. There were three sows—low ones—to carry machinery to cut up the rags, and a massive sow for Sturgeon Lake, one for Scugog Lake and one for Mud Lake. There were tons of rise straw left to rot on the shores, and hundreds of tons of marsh straw was brought and piled on the commons east of the factory property.

The Company had not used up its first straw stack when it began to

The mill then stood idle for some time, when Victim No. 4 came along and bought it, took out the useless machinery, and put in new, including a big Corliss engine. A new chimney for main boiler and repair was inspected and put in, and everything was in first-class order for business. The factory started up, made felt out of cedar bark, pea straw and gunney bagging. This factory had not run long when it took fire and was burned to the ground. This was the fourth very costly speculation that went to the wall on that tannery lot, and there were two others shared the same fate. Maybe I may mention them in a next letter. There has been about three hundred thousand dollars lost in speculation on the tannery lot. THOS. FEE.

The Woman who Would And The Grocer who wouldn't.

Every day from five to fifteen letters are received by The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. from women living in the smaller towns throughout Canada, saying they have asked their grocer for Royal Household Flour but can't get it. One writes—"I told my grocer, Mr.----, that I would buy 'Royal Household' regularly if he would always keep it on hand, but he said he wouldn't take on another brand of flour until he was obliged to." Another says—"My grocer is an 'old fogie' and never gets the newest or the best things until the year after." A third says—"We haven't an enterprising grocer in our town and are obliged to send to-------for 'Royal Household' or take a poorer flour."

Write direct to Ogilvie's.

If you can't get "Royal Household" from your grocer, write to us direct—we will immediately give you the name of the nearest grocer who keeps "Royal Household" and send you also the "Royal Household" recipes. There is no good reason why your grocer should compel you to use inferior flour—no first class grocer will hesitate to order "Royal Household" for you, and even the smallest dealer will get it if you insist upon it.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

William Shaffer, a brakeman of Dundonald, Ont., was confined to bed for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. "I suffered great pain," he says, "and could get no relief. For sale by all druggists.

Floods in the East Ward.

When the ice broke up a week in the east ward, carries the surface water from the north-eastern boundary and against it into the river Dove's mill. This creek becomes a raging torrent Saturday afternoon and evening, and on to and in a section of the L.P. & P. Ry bed where the line crosses the Dove's bridge, and has to guard that point Saturday night and all day yesterday. The overflow water was also on a first bridge on Caroline-st, and isolated Mr. and Mrs. Dan Crimmons from their home in St. Patrick-st. They happened to be up town all afternoon visiting friends and were unable to get home. The water surrounded their dwelling. It was 10.00 when they got home and found with numerous parcels of store goods on but few of the latter time in. On closing their danger they might have been worse off, as they were compelled to stop with a neighbor all night.

Right San Jose Scale.

Toronto, March 30.—Secretary P. W. Hodgetts, of the Fruit Growers' Association, will outline this week his annual tour of the nurseries of the Niagara peninsula and the Georgian Bay districts, with a view to seeing that the fumigating of stock for sale is being properly carried out. He has already completed part of the work, and finds that the nurserymen are living up to the regulations, all being anxious to work against the San Jose scale. The outlook in this regard is not particularly bright in the Niagara and Georgian Bay districts, however. The scale continued to spread in the Niagara district nurserymen and fruit growers anticipate a hard fight this year.

GOODERHAM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The concert held under the auspices of the L.O.B.A. was a decided success, the proceeds amounting to $26.46. The programme was the best we have had for some time.

—Mr. Wm. Robinson has gone to Peterboro on business.

Owing to the bad roads very few were at church Sunday evening.

—Miss Gould is home on a visit.

The ball after the concert on the 22nd was well attended—both young and old enjoyed it.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simmons have moved to the north-eastern end or part of Mr. McFadden's large tenement house.

DUNSFORD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The correspondent of this week was wakened with the crows, and is ready for the spring work.

A former inhabitant returning would hardly recognize the place, as there have been many changes during the past month. Mr. John S. Thurston, having taken possession of his father's farm, has moved in with them. Henry Thurston, of Omemee, returned to his farm, vacated by J. C. Thurston; John Sheriff has moved on to Beaumont's with his mother; J. W. Thurston has purchased Richard Thurston's farm.

It was a fortunate day for Dunsford Mr. Albert Thurston has built his grain house. He has become so popular and has such a large market so good by giving satisfactory prices and by sometimes going distances in order to sell their grain here.

Lagrippe is making a prolonged visit. Many have fallen victims. Alfred Woollard have been laid up this past week with it. Mrs. Thomas Kennedy is laid up at present with a severe cold and lagrippe.

We are pleased to see Miss Laura Ervin around again and hope for the speedy recovery of many others who are on the sick list.

A number of our young men have caught the West fever. Among those who are gone are Charlie Brown, Wm. Bristol, Jack Sparling, Ernest Plumstone, George Thurston and Albert Thurston.

No danger of the Thurston name dying out, as there have been many new arrivals of late. Mrs. W. V. Thurston has returned with her little charge, and Mrs. Jas. Thurston with her little girl.

We hear the wedding bells in the distance and are exercising patience till the joyful strikers on same forces it.—

Mrs. Joseph Knox, who had fractured her left arm at the wrist, passed away on Friday, 10th inst., after a short illness. Funeral service on the following Saturday, was largely attended by friends of the family, who followed the remains to the cemetery, where they were tenderly interred. W. D. Cale, merchant of this place, having been taken down by a severe attack of lagrippe, which has since generated on last Thursday, the 9th inst., in pneumonia, which has baffled the operation very well, he soon became unconscious and passed away on Sunday afternoon. The funeral, which took place on Tuesday afternoon, was followed by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives over the Venalum cemetery. Mr. Cale had been in business here for about twenty-three years, and had gained many friends and a large number of customers by his honest dealings and courtesy. Mr. D. D. Cale, will still carry on the business.

Mr. Drummond gave a recital in the town hall here last Saturday night to a most appreciative audience. The Doctor's dramatic readings and selections from his own writings was warmly applauded, and the whole performance was a real literary treat.
